Iraq Claims Rebels Routed

Ike Insists His Defense Plans Are Adequate

NOMINATED — George M. Johnson, Negro educator, poses yesterday in Washington after he was nominated by President Eisenhower to the Civil Rights Commission. Places Nation's Security First, Senators Told WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was pictured Tuesday as standing firm on his position that the nation's defense program is adequate.

Two top State Department officials — Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter and Asst. Secretary Livingston Merchant—were quoted as telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that U.S. defense plans are adequate for any eventuality which may arise over Berlin.

U. S. "Not Too Optimistic"

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) also reported that Herter told the committee in a closed session the United States "is hopeful—but not too optimistic" the Berlin crisis can be settled through negotiation.

Eisenhower, who has been under Democratic fire on grounds that he is too interested in holding down on spending, got support from GOP leaders in Congress.

"He puts defense of our country ahead of budget requirements," Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) told reporters after the weekly White House session of party leaders with the President.

Demo Contention Denied

A number of influential Democrats in the Democratic-dominated Senate and House are calling for more money for various defense undertakings. Some contend Eisenhower is so intent on balancing the government's finances that he is willing to risk a weakening of the nation's defenses.

This is not so, said Saltonstall, chairman of the GOP Senate conference. "He puts defense of our country first."

Much of the defense debate has centered on the Berlin situation, fired up and cooled off at intervals by pronouncements from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

West Agrees On Big Four Berlin Talks

Reportedly Favors Geneva Conference, Probably In May

PARIS (AP) — The West has lined up solidly behind a proposal to meet the Soviets in Geneva, probably in May, to tackle the dangerous issue of Germany, informed sources reported Tuesday.

British and French spokesman confirmed the West was in complete agreement on a reply to the Soviet Union and were united on a place and time. But they declined to go into details.

The West will reply to a Soviet note of March 2 suggesting a foreign ministers meeting in Geneva or Vienna in April if the West is unwilling to meet at the summit on the German question.

Big Four Talks Only

The French spokesman said the West will insist that only the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union deal with German problems.

The Soviet Union suggested Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia attend the foreign ministers conference and both nations have agreed to go. The West will say it has no objection to Poland and Czechoslovakia sitting in on matters dealing with Germany's neighbors, the French spokesman said.

The West will also ask that the agenda not be limited to the question of the future of Berlin and a German peace treaty, the French source reported.

Macmillan Ends Paris Talks

The solid front on a note to the Soviet Union was announced as Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain wound up two days of talks with French leaders designed to coordinate Western strategy on Germany once the powers are gathered at the conference table.

Later this week Macmillan will fly to Bonn for talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. Then he will go to Canada to see Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and to Washington to discuss the situation with President Eisenhower.

Two Killed As Bus Runs Wild

Two persons, including a veteran reporter for the Pittsburgh Press, were killed and 16 were injured yesterday when a bus slammed into a group of commuters waiting to board a street car in downtown Pittsburgh. Several persons were hurled against a plate glass window of Kaufmann's department store. The shattered window is directly behind the policeman shown here. The bus driver was quoted as saying his brakes failed as he approached the trolley from the rear. (AP Photofax)

Syria Village Strafed, UAR Source Says

Insurgent Forces Apparently Flee Oil Town Of Mosul

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Iraqi government in Baghdad claimed Tuesday it had crushed the revolt in northern Iraq but other reports said the rebellion was still alive. Some said rebels are fighting their way toward the Syrian border.

Possibly more ominous for the Arab world, there were these developments:

1. A United Arab Republic source in Damascus reported Iraqi planes strafed a Syrian village.

2. Iraq expelled a group of U.A.R. diplomats, declaring they were a menace to public safety and unwelcome.

3. On arrival in Cairo to report to U.A.R. President Abdel Gamal Nasser the diplomats said the Iraqi government in Baghdad was digging in for an apparent fight.

Rebels Abandon Mosul

Diplomatic informants said the rebels had withdrawn from the northern oil town of Mosul, where Col. Abdel Wahhab Shawaf set off the anti-Communist, pro-Nasser rebellion last Sunday against the leftward-leaning regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem. This report could not be confirmed. The report in Damascus said Iraqi fighters strafed several Iraq villages in the area through which the rebels would pass if they were headed for Syria and then shot up the Syrian border village of Hamoudiya, about three miles northeast of the Iraqi-Syrian frontier.

The Iraqi government apparently gained control of Mosul some time Tuesday. This was evident from a cryptic Radio Baghdad report that the military governor of Iraq has clamped a nighttime curfew on Mosul.

One informant said there was fighting between the rebels and troops loyal to Kassem. He said he did not know how severe the fighting was or what direction the rebels were taking.

Insurgent Radio Silent

A rebel withdrawal from Mosul would account for the 24-hour silence of the rebel radio which the rebels claimed was operating in Mosul from Sunday up to Monday midnight.

American and Lebanese reports that the rebel radio had resumed broadcasting but was jammed could not be confirmed by various other listening posts.

A trek by the rebels to the Syrian border might also explain the Iraqi government's firm refusal to give out any detailed information on what has been going on in northern Iraq since the insurrection erupted.

Baghdad announced Sunday the rebellion was smashed within a few hours and rebel chieftain Shawaf killed by his own men. But a man identifying himself as Shawaf broadcast a denial over the rebel radio later.

Red Boss Says Plan Includes Soviet Troops

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev insisted Tuesday night that Soviet troops would have to be part of any token military force kept in West Berlin.

He said Monday he would be agreeable to a minimum number of troops from the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union, or from neutral countries, remaining in the city—if the Allies go along with his plan to make West Berlin independent under U.N. control.

At a Soviet Embassy reception here following Khrushchev's hour-long conference with Communist East German leaders, a newsman asked the Soviet boss whether troops from the Western Big Three would be sufficient as token protective forces.

He replied that if there were to be any troops in West Berlin they must be from all four of the World War II Allies—the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

He made no mention of his alternative proposal of guardian troops from neutral nations.

Khrushchev said he would shortly be ending his visit to East Germany, but did not disclose when he would depart.

Allied diplomats said they were aware of the dangerous aspects of letting Soviet troops into West Berlin. They consider that this would be part of a package deal in which the Soviets would probably insist on Western recognition of East Germany.

Skipjack Proves Fastest Sub Known

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The Navy's newest atomic submarine, the Skipjack, returned Tuesday from two days of sea trials at the highest speed of any American submarine.

Navy and technical representatives aboard said she performed superbly and fulfilled her advance billing as the fastest submarine known.

The 252-foot Skipjack is the first of a new class of nuclear-powered attack submarines.

The Navy will say only that the submarine's speed is in excess of 20 knots.

The ship is expected to be turned over to the Navy sometime this spring.

Senate Votes $48 Million For Space Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Without a dissent, the Senate voted Tuesday to authorize every penny the Eisenhower administration asked for stepped up spending on civilian space research this fiscal year.

Nearly half of the $48,354,000 in the bill would go into Project Mercury, a program looking toward space flight by man.

The Senate acted on a 90-0 roll call vote after hearing Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) say "the threat to our security could be disastrous" if an enemy nation beat the United States in developing a space vehicle capable of unleashing nuclear weapons.

Next stop for the authorization bill is in the House, where it is likely to get fast approval.

The actual money would be provided in separate legislation later. It would be used by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration during the remainder of this fiscal year, ending June 30.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas noted the Senate was voting the exact amount requested by the Eisenhower administration for NASA. But Johnson, chairman of the Senate Space Committee, said he wanted it known this was no rubber stamp action, that it came after careful study.

Simultaneously, Johnson said his committee has decided to put off action on a request for 485 million dollars for the coming fiscal year. The delay is to allow completion of a special subcommittee investigation of possible duplication and interservice rivalry in the space program.

Included in the $48,354,000 total of the supplemental authorization bill was 20¾ million for Project Mercury. NASA previously allocated more than 37 million dollars for this space flight work. And before it is finished, the program is expected to cost about 200 million dollars.

Senate Delays Draft Bill Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate was forced Tuesday night to delay a vote on its four - year draft extension bill until Wednesday after Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) charged that Congress was being "stampeded" by the Berlin crisis.

Left hanging by the postponement was an amendment to set up a military manpower commission to study possible alternatives to the draft.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said the chamber would meet two hours early, at 10 a.m. e.s.t., Wednesday in hopes of obtaining an early vote.

But Morse served notice he had two amendments to the draft act. One would limit the extension to two years. The other would provide that all seven members of the proposed manpower study commission should be civilians.

Morse told the Senate it was being confronted with "ultimatum-type legislation."

"Because of the crisis atmosphere in which this bill is being considered," he said, "we are freezing for four years a totally inadequate defense manpower situation . . . the kind of manpower we need is that which is highly skilled and trained in the complex instruments of modern war, and which is best furnished by career servicemen."

Gomulka Says West Beaten In Cold War

WARSAW (UPI) — Communist Party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka Tuesday denounced the Western stand on Germany and declared the West has been beaten in the cold war because of Russian intercontinental rockets.

The party leader who led the bloodless Polish upheaval that preceded the Hungarian Revolution in October, 1956, opened the first Polish party congress in five years with a harsh attack on West Germany in particular and severe criticism of intellectuals at home.

Curbs Placed On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Tuesday imposed restrictions on imports of crude oil, gasoline and other principal petroleum products.

The mandatory controls replace a voluntary program which has been in operation since mid-1957.

The new controls are effective Wednesday in the case of crude oil and unfinished oils, and on April 1 in the case of gasoline and other finished products.

President Eisenhower ordered the new controls under legislation which permits such action to safeguard the national security.

The general argument is that the domestic oil industry must be kept in position to meet the country's needs in event of war, and that overly large imports would impair the industry.

Navy Capt. Matthew Carson Jr., administrator of both the old and the new programs, said in response to questions at a White House news conference that he does not expect the changeover to mandatory restrictions to result in price increases.

Among the products placed under the mandatory program are residual fuel oil and asphalt.

Initially, imports of finished petroleum products will be restricted to the 1957 levels.

Hawaiian Bill Clears Committee Roadblock

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hawaiian statehood Tuesday cleared its biggest congressional roadblock—the House Rules Committee — and appeared headed for swift passage by both houses of Congress.

The committee action apparently cleared the way for both the House and Senate to begin debate on the statehood measure Wednesday.

The bill to make the colorful Pacific island the 50th state will go to the Senate floor carrying the names of 56 co - sponsors, more than enough to assure passage on the showdown.

The House Rules Committee, which controls the flow of legislation to the House floor, traditionally has been hostile to statehood legislation. But the Hawaiian bill sailed through by a reported vote of 7-4.

Pittsburgh Bus Hits Crowd, Killing Two

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A commuter bus plowed into a group of people at a downtown corner during the evening rush hour Tuesday, killing 2 persons and injuring 16 others.

One of the dead was Sam Hood, a veteran reporter and writer for the Pittsburgh Press.

The other dead person, a woman, was not identified.

Homicide Detective Bernard Milligan said the brakes of the Brentwood Motor Coach Co. bus failed as it approached the intersection of Smithfield Street and Forbes Avenue in the heart of Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle.

Suddenly, it climbed the curb and rolled into a group of people waiting at the corner. The bus sheared off a fire alarm pole, upset a newsstand and nosed into a plate glass window of Kaufmann's department store. Two or three persons were caught under the bus. Three others were knocked into the plate glass window.

Bystanders used handkerchiefs and head scarfs as tourniquets on the screaming victims while police ambulances sped to the scene.

No Public Probe Of Kennedy Bribe Efforts Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management Committee decided Tuesday not to explore in public reported efforts to bribe its chief counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, to go easy on some witnesses summoned before the senators.

"The committee believes no good purpose would be served," Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said. He added that the reported incidents "did not have the significance indicated" by news reports of them.

However, his statement, issued after a closed door committee meeting, seemed an implied rebuke of Kennedy. It said: "The committee by unanimous vote decided that henceforth all members of the staff should immediately report to the chairman of the committee any untoward advance or offers made by representatives of either union or management."

Kennedy, in telling reporters of the incidents in Milwaukee last Friday, said he had not reported them to McClellan or the committee. He said he had received—and rejected—offers of political support for his brother if he would go easy on witnesses before the committee.

The committee counsel said Friday "the most serious attempt came from management" but another serious attempt had come from a labor union.

Harmon May Bill P.O. Dept. For Porch Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The freshman congressman who put his front porch on his payroll said Tuesday he may bill the government for $1,800 plus interest for using the porch free for nine years.

Rep. Randall S. Harmon (D-Ind.) said he plans to see Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield Thursday or Friday about mailmen using his porch in Muncie, Ind., as a sort of postal sub-station since 1950.

He said mailmen got into the habit of dumping mail sacks on his front stoop to do their sorting there. Harmon's house is located in a sparsely-populated area on the edge of town.

"My carrier, bless his heart, has got so much to handle," Harmon said, "he uses the porch to get in out of the cold."

Harmon said he hadn't complained, even though it caused him some problems, because "I'm a pretty nice guy. . .I'm the kind of guy to live and let live."

He said the only reason he was bringing it up now was the furor over the disclosure that he put the porch on his payroll after he became a congressman Jan. 7.

Harmon converted the porch into his district congressional office, for which he is allowed $1,200 annual rent and $600 a year operating expenses. He also put his wife, Mary, on payroll to run the front porch office at an annual salary of $4,424.16.

Snark Makes 2-Way Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A jet-powered Snark, destined to be the nation's first operational intercontinental range missile, returned to the cape without a scratch Tuesday after completing a highly successful round trip ocean flight.

The launching, which sources said ran smoothly several thousand miles down range and back, was one of the final tuneups for the sleek missile that will soon be deployed at strategic bases throughout the country.

It was the second time this particular Snark had logged a successful two-way flight from the cape. The missile was equipped with special landing skids.

The 69-foot missile uses two booster rockets for takeoff and a turbo - jet engine for the long flight. Once airborne, the Snark is on its own, steered by a self-contained guidance system.

Plane Crash Kills 23

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —A Brazilian air force flying boat crashed Tuesday in the Amazon jungle country in northern Para State, about 100 miles northwest of Belem.

The Brazilian air force search and rescue section at Belem reported all 23 persons aboard the twin-engine Catalina apparently were killed.

Hagerstown Woman Burned To Death

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A 74-year-old grandmother was burned to death Tuesday night when her clothing caught fire in an accident in the kitchen.

She was Mrs. Lula Ella Drury, who was at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. William H. Turner.

A fire department spokesman said Turner, 26, was carrying a can of gasoline with paint brushes in it through the kitchen. It suddenly burst into flames, apparently the fumes having spread to the pilot light in a gas water heater, according to Fire Chief John W. Hall.

Turner was burned on the hands and the flames caught fire to Mrs. Drury's clothing. She ran onto the back porch and Turner and another man tried to put out the flames with a blanket.

New Man-Made Rubber Rivals Natural Product

NEW YORK (AP)—Industry officials lifted the wraps Tuesday from a new competitor for natural rubber. They said the man-made product will do everything that tree-grown rubber does — and is just as cheap.

Commercial production of the synthetic was announced by Richard C. McCurdy, president of Shell Chemical Corp., at a news conference in the offices of U.S. Rubber Co.

John W. McGovern, president of U.S. Rubber, said his firm is now using the Shell product in place of natural rubber in some of its truck tires.

The two officials said the new product—known as poly-isoprene—could make the United States independent of foreign-grown natural rubber in time of war.

Poly-isoprene is made from a white liquid that looks like gasoline, and is said to have the same molecular structure as natural rubber. McCurdy said Shell's process for making it cheaply is a closely guarded secret.

Current tires are at least 70 per cent natural rubber.

McGovern said the poly-isoprene tires will perform just as well as natural rubber tires — and won't cost a cent more.

Production of poly-isoprene and its use in tire manufacturing are still on a small scale. Shell, McCurdy said, is making about five tons of poly-isoprene a day at several West Coast plants. Present plans are to increase this output to 15,000 or 20,000 tons a year, he asserted.

Four Amateur Bank Bandits Outwitted By Police; $72,321 In Loot Recovered

MASSAPEQUA, N.Y. (AP)—Police outwitted a quartet of amateur bank bandits and seized three of them early Tuesday while they were still counting their $72,321 in loot. The fourth had been arrested earlier on a vague tip.

"The look on their faces was unbelievable," said a member of a police raiding party which broke in on the trio as they gloated over stacks of bills taken Monday from the Security National Bank here. All the money was recovered.

Nassau County police, who solved the daring Long Island bank stickup in about 15 hours, hustled the quartet into county court where Judge Robert C. Richter held them without bail for the grand jury.

The four men are Thomas Parks, 27, Anatole Rylsky, 44, Richard Hatch, 53, and William McHenry, 31. All live along the south shore of Long Island in Suffolk County, which adjoins Nassau on the east.

The bandits had put on a good pretense of professional skill in their invasion of the bank. They carried tommy guns and pistols, and a tear gas canister bomb, which turned out to be a dud.

They were disguised with comic nose masks with attached goggles, and carried shopping bags to hold the loot. They gave an impression of brisk efficiency as they completed the stickup in three minutes flat, then fled in a getaway car.

But actually the men were rank amateurs, with no criminal experience behind them. Parks is a plumber, Rylsky a tavernkeeper, Hatch a blueprint developer, McHenry an insurance salesman.

Police said they needed money for debts and hatched a plot to ob a bank—any bank—a couple of weeks ago over drinks at Rylsky's bar.

Detectives were tipped that Parks recently bought a pair of handcuffs. Recalling that handcuffs had been used on victims in several recent robberies—although not in the bank holdup—officers picked up Parks, who denied he bought any.

But on a hunch, his questioners kept after him until, they said, he admitted his part in the bank stickup and named the other three men.

Raiders overtook the other three at Rylsky's home. Peeking through a window, officers saw the trio sitting around a kitchen table stacking the bank loot in neat piles.

Police swarmed through the unlocked kitchen door with drawn guns. The astonished trio surrendered meekly.

Supplies Parachuted To Rhodesia Forces

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (UPI)—The Royal Rhodesian Air Force began parachuting supplies Tuesday to security forces in riot-torn areas of this British East African protectorate.

The air drop operation indicated that authorities expected no quick end of the anti-white disturbances in which at least 41 Africans had been killed.

Rhodesian C47 transports that took off from Salisbury dropped 10-day supplies of food as well as medicines to troops at Karonga and at Fort Hill.

West Agrees On Big Four Berlin Talks

Reportedly Favors Geneva Conference, Probably In May

PARIS (AP) — The West has lined up solidly behind a proposal to meet the Soviets in Geneva, probably in May, to tackle the dangerous issue of Germany, informed sources reported Tuesday.

British and French spokesman confirmed the West was in complete agreement on a reply to the Soviet Union and were united on a place and time. But they declined to go into details.

The West will reply to a Soviet note of March 2 suggesting a foreign ministers meeting in Geneva or Vienna in April if the West is unwilling to meet at the summit on the German question.

The French spokesman said the West will insist that only the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union deal with German problems.

The solid front on a note to the Soviet Union was announced as Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain wound up two days of talks with French leaders designed to coordinate Western strategy on Germany once the powers are gathered at the conference table.

Later this week Macmillan will fly to Bonn for talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. Then he will go to Canada to see Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and to Washington to discuss the situation with President Eisenhower.

Curbs Placed On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Tuesday imposed restrictions on imports of crude oil, gasoline and other principal petroleum products.

The mandatory controls replace a voluntary program which has been in operation since mid-1957.

The new controls are effective Wednesday in the case of crude oil and unfinished oils, and on April 1 in the case of gasoline and other finished products.

President Eisenhower ordered the new controls under legislation which permits such action to safeguard the national security.

The general argument is that the domestic oil industry must be kept in position to meet the country's needs in event of war, and that overly large imports would impair the industry.

Navy Capt. Matthew Carson Jr., administrator of both the old and the new programs, said in response to questions at a White House news conference that he does not expect the changeover to mandatory restrictions to result in price increases.

Among the products placed under the mandatory program are residual fuel oil and asphalt.

Initially, imports of finished petroleum products will be restricted to the 1957 levels.

Hawaiian Bill Clears Committee Roadblock

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hawaiian statehood Tuesday cleared its biggest congressional roadblock—the House Rules Committee — and appeared headed for swift passage by both houses of Congress.

The committee action apparently cleared the way for both the House and Senate to begin debate on the statehood measure Wednesday.

The bill to make the colorful Pacific island the 50th state will go to the Senate floor carrying the names of 56 co - sponsors, more than enough to assure passage on the showdown.

The House Rules Committee, which controls the flow of legislation to the House floor, traditionally has been hostile to statehood legislation. But the Hawaiian bill sailed through by a reported vote of 7-4.

Two Killed As Bus Runs Wild

Two persons, including a veteran reporter for the Pittsburgh Press, were killed and 16 were injured yesterday when a bus slammed into a group of commuters waiting to board a street car in downtown Pittsburgh. Several persons were hurled against a plate glass window of Kaufmann's department store. The shattered window is directly behind the policeman shown here. The bus driver was quoted as saying his brakes failed as he approached the trolley from the rear. (AP Photofax)

Pittsburgh Bus Hits Crowd, Killing Two

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A commuter bus plowed into a group of people at a downtown corner during the evening rush hour Tuesday, killing 2 persons and injuring 16 others.

One of the dead was Sam Hood, a veteran reporter and writer for the Pittsburgh Press.

The other dead person, a woman, was not identified.

Homicide Detective Bernard Milligan said the brakes of the Brentwood Motor Coach Co. bus failed as it approached the intersection of Smithfield Street and Forbes Avenue in the heart of Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle.

Suddenly, it climbed the curb and rolled into a group of people waiting at the corner. The bus sheared off a fire alarm pole, upset a newsstand and nosed into a plate glass window of Kaufmann's department store. Two or three persons were caught under the bus. Three others were knocked into the plate glass window.

Bystanders used handkerchiefs and head scarfs as tourniquets on the screaming victims while police ambulances sped to the scene.

No Public Probe Of Kennedy Bribe Efforts Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management Committee decided Tuesday not to explore in public reported efforts to bribe its chief counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, to go easy on some witnesses summoned before the senators.

"The committee believes no good purpose would be served," Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said. He added that the reported incidents "did not have the significance indicated" by news reports of them.

However, his statement, issued after a closed door committee meeting, seemed an implied rebuke of Kennedy. It said: "The committee by unanimous vote decided that henceforth all members of the staff should immediately report to the chairman of the committee any untoward advance or offers made by representatives of either union or management."

Kennedy, in telling reporters of the incidents in Milwaukee last Friday, said he had not reported them to McClellan or the committee. He said he had received—and rejected—offers of political support for his brother if he would go easy on witnesses before the committee.

The committee counsel said Friday "the most serious attempt came from management" but another serious attempt had come from a labor union.

Snark Makes 2-Way Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A jet-powered Snark, destined to be the nation's first operational intercontinental range missile, returned to the cape without a scratch Tuesday after completing a highly successful round trip ocean flight.

The launching, which sources said ran smoothly several thousand miles down range and back, was one of the final tuneups for the sleek missile that will soon be deployed at strategic bases throughout the country.

It was the second time this particular Snark had logged a successful two-way flight from the cape. The missile was equipped with special landing skids.

The 69-foot missile uses two booster rockets for takeoff and a turbo - jet engine for the long flight. Once airborne, the Snark is on its own, steered by a self-contained guidance system.

Harmon May Bill P.O. Dept. For Porch Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The freshman congressman who put his front porch on his payroll said Tuesday he may bill the government for $1,800 plus interest for using the porch free for nine years.

Rep. Randall S. Harmon (D-Ind.) said he plans to see Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield Thursday or Friday about mailmen using his porch in Muncie, Ind., as a sort of postal sub-station since 1950.

He said mailmen got into the habit of dumping mail sacks on his front stoop to do their sorting there. Harmon's house is located in a sparsely-populated area on the edge of town.

"My carrier, bless his heart, has got so much to handle," Harmon said, "he uses the porch to get in out of the cold."

Harmon said he hadn't complained, even though it caused him some problems, because "I'm a pretty nice guy. . .I'm the kind of guy to live and let live."

He said the only reason he was bringing it up now was the furor over the disclosure that he put the porch on his payroll after he became a congressman Jan. 7.

Harmon converted the porch into his district congressional office, for which he is allowed $1,200 annual rent and $600 a year operating expenses. He also put his wife, Mary, on payroll to run the front porch office at an annual salary of $4,424.16.

Plane Crash Kills 23

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —A Brazilian air force flying boat crashed Tuesday in the Amazon jungle country in northern Para State, about 100 miles northwest of Belem.

The Brazilian air force search and rescue section at Belem reported all 23 persons aboard the twin-engine Catalina apparently were killed.

New Man-Made Rubber Rivals Natural Product

NEW YORK (AP)—Industry officials lifted the wraps Tuesday from a new competitor for natural rubber. They said the man-made product will do everything that tree-grown rubber does — and is just as cheap.

Commercial production of the synthetic was announced by Richard C. McCurdy, president of Shell Chemical Corp., at a news conference in the offices of U.S. Rubber Co.

John W. McGovern, president of U.S. Rubber, said his firm is now using the Shell product in place of natural rubber in some of its truck tires.

The two officials said the new product—known as poly-isoprene—could make the United States independent of foreign-grown natural rubber in time of war.

Poly-isoprene is made from a white liquid that looks like gasoline, and is said to have the same molecular structure as natural rubber. McCurdy said Shell's process for making it cheaply is a closely guarded secret.

Current tires are at least 70 per cent natural rubber.

McGovern said the poly-isoprene tires will perform just as well as natural rubber tires — and won't cost a cent more.

Production of poly-isoprene and its use in tire manufacturing are still on a small scale. Shell, McCurdy said, is making about five tons of poly-isoprene a day at several West Coast plants. Present plans are to increase this output to 15,000 or 20,000 tons a year, he asserted.

Four Amateur Bank Bandits Outwitted By Police; $72,321 In Loot Recovered

MASSAPEQUA, N.Y. (AP)—Police outwitted a quartet of amateur bank bandits and seized three of them early Tuesday while they were still counting their $72,321 in loot. The fourth had been arrested earlier on a vague tip.

"The look on their faces was unbelievable," said a member of a police raiding party which broke in on the trio as they gloated over stacks of bills taken Monday from the Security National Bank here. All the money was recovered.

Nassau County police, who solved the daring Long Island bank stickup in about 15 hours, hustled the quartet into county court where Judge Robert C. Richter held them without bail for the grand jury.

The four men are Thomas Parks, 27, Anatole Rylsky, 44, Richard Hatch, 53, and William McHenry, 31. All live along the south shore of Long Island in Suffolk County, which adjoins Nassau on the east.

The bandits had put on a good pretense of professional skill in their invasion of the bank. They carried tommy guns and pistols, and a tear gas canister bomb, which turned out to be a dud.

They were disguised with comic nose masks with attached goggles, and carried shopping bags to hold the loot. They gave an impression of brisk efficiency as they completed the stickup in three minutes flat, then fled in a getaway car.

But actually the men were rank amateurs, with no criminal experience behind them. Parks is a plumber, Rylsky a tavernkeeper, Hatch a blueprint developer, McHenry an insurance salesman.

Police said they needed money for debts and hatched a plot to ob a bank—any bank—a couple of weeks ago over drinks at Rylsky's bar.

Detectives were tipped that Parks recently bought a pair of handcuffs. Recalling that handcuffs had been used on victims in several recent robberies—although not in the bank holdup—officers picked up Parks, who denied he bought any.

But on a hunch, his questioners kept after him until, they said, he admitted his part in the bank stickup and named the other three men.

Raiders overtook the other three at Rylsky's home. Peeking through a window, officers saw the trio sitting around a kitchen table stacking the bank loot in neat piles.

Police swarmed through the unlocked kitchen door with drawn guns. The astonished trio surrendered meekly.

Insurgent Forces Apparently Flee Oil Town Of Mosul

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Iraqi government in Baghdad claimed Tuesday it had crushed the revolt in northern Iraq but other reports said the rebellion was still alive. Some said rebels are fighting their way toward the Syrian border.

Possibly more ominous for the Arab world, there were these developments:

1. A United Arab Republic source in Damascus reported Iraqi planes strafed a Syrian village.

2. Iraq expelled a group of U.A.R. diplomats, declaring they were a menace to public safety and unwelcome.

3. On arrival in Cairo to report to U.A.R. President Abdel Gamal Nasser the diplomats said the Iraqi government in Baghdad was digging in for an apparent fight.

Rebels Abandon Mosul

Diplomatic informants said the rebels had withdrawn from the northern oil town of Mosul, where Col. Abdel Wahhab Shawaf set off the anti-Communist, pro-Nasser rebellion last Sunday against the leftward-leaning regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem. This report could not be confirmed. The report in Damascus said Iraqi fighters strafed several Iraq villages in the area through which the rebels would pass if they were headed for Syria and then shot up the Syrian border village of Hamoudiya, about three miles northeast of the Iraqi-Syrian frontier.

The Iraqi government apparently gained control of Mosul some time Tuesday. This was evident from a cryptic Radio Baghdad report that the military governor of Iraq has clamped a nighttime curfew on Mosul.

One informant said there was fighting between the rebels and troops loyal to Kassem. He said he did not know how severe the fighting was or what direction the rebels were taking.

Insurgent Radio Silent

A rebel withdrawal from Mosul would account for the 24-hour silence of the rebel radio which the rebels claimed was operating in Mosul from Sunday up to Monday midnight.

American and Lebanese reports that the rebel radio had resumed broadcasting but was jammed could not be confirmed by various other listening posts.

A trek by the rebels to the Syrian border might also explain the Iraqi government's firm refusal to give out any detailed information on what has been going on in northern Iraq since the insurrection erupted.

Baghdad announced Sunday the rebellion was smashed within a few hours and rebel chieftain Shawaf killed by his own men. But a man identifying himself as Shawaf broadcast a denial over the rebel radio later.

Hagerstown Woman Burned To Death

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A 74-year-old grandmother was burned to death Tuesday night when her clothing caught fire in an accident in the kitchen.

She was Mrs. Lula Ella Drury, who was at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. William H. Turner.

A fire department spokesman said Turner, 26, was carrying a can of gasoline with paint brushes in it through the kitchen. It suddenly burst into flames, apparently the fumes having spread to the pilot light in a gas water heater, according to Fire Chief John W. Hall.

Turner was burned on the hands and the flames caught fire to Mrs. Drury's clothing. She ran onto the back porch and Turner and another man tried to put out the flames with a blanket.

Supplies Parachuted To Rhodesia Forces

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (UPI)— The Royal Rhodesian Air Force began parachuting supplies Tuesday to security forces in riot-torn areas of this British East African protectorate.

The air drop operation indicated that authorities expected no quick end of the anti-white disturbances in which at least 41 Africans had been killed.

Rhodesian C47 transports that took off from Salisbury dropped 10-day supplies of food as well as medicines to troops at Karonga and at Fort Hill.

X15 Captive Flight Test Successful

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The space-aimed rocket ship X15 successfully went through its first captive flight test Tuesday.

A B52 bomber carried the slender black dart 38,000 feet aloft on a 70-minute flight over the desert.

At the controls of the X15 was test pilot Scott Crossfield, who will guide the craft on its solo flights.

X15's first venture into the air went off without a hitch.

After the B52 landed with its stubby-winged passenger, the Air Force announced:

"Test objectives for the flight accomplished."

More captive flight tests lie ahead. Then will come the first glide test in which the little rocket ship will be released to land without power on a dry lake bed. Powered flights will be made with jet engines before the rocket engines are installed.

On its space probes, the X15 is expected to travel more than 3,600 miles an hour and flash 100 miles into the sky. It will be released from the mother B52 at a height of five or six miles. Then its 50,000-pound thrust engine will take over.

As the eight-jet B52 rumbled down the Edwards AFB runway Tuesday morning, the X15 was nestled under its right wing. A specially built pylon supported the rocket ship, whose tail jutted out of the bomber's tail through an 8-by-6-foot gap.

The B52 carried a closed circuit television system with cameras trained on the X15 to check its operations.

Search Continues For Lost Canoeists

WASHINGTON (AP)—A search continued Tuesday for two men believed to have drowned after their canoe upset in a rapids section of the Potomac River Sunday.

Police feel certain the missing men are John H. Mead Jr., 32, of Belmont, Mass., a naval intelligence agent, and Edward F. Shea, 28, of Dedham, Mass., who was in training to become an FBI agent.

The men disappeared from sight as strollers in Sunday's springlike weather watched helplessly. The canoe was recovered later.

Mead was on the swimming and football teams at Randolph-Macon Military Academy, studied physical education at Duke, and was graduated from Harvard, where he studied social science, in 1952.

Shea, a track champion, had been training to be an FBI agent since last April. He was in the class of 1955 at Northeastern University, Boston, and did graduate work there.

She reported Tuesday the return by mail of everything but the radio and perfume.

AP Staffer Reports Iraq Revolt Appears Smashed

Editor's Note: Stan Carter of The Associated Press Rome bureau sums up the Iraqi situation as seen in that capital city in the following dispatch, which was subject to Iraqi censorship. The first American reporter to enter Baghdad in weeks, he arrived Monday.

By STAN CARTER

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's government appears to have smashed the revolt in northern Iraq quickly and completely.

Every indication in this capital tends to confirm the official announcement the government is in control of the entire countryside.

Although they still do not have independent accounts from Mosul, which was the headquarters of rebel Col. Abdel Wahab Shawaf, Western diplomats agree Kassem seems to be in charge.

The atmosphere in Baghdad is not viewed as an atmosphere of crisis or great emergency. Instead, it continues holiday-like, with crowds celebrating in the streets the announced crushing of the uprising.

There appears to be no public antagonism to foreigners.

The Communist press is calling the Shawaf revolt a plot by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. Arab Nationalist papers are printing the government account of the suppression of the revolt and messages supporting Kassem, but have not yet commented editorially.

Though accepting the government claim that the revolt was finished off Monday, diplomats are not sure of other details, including the fate of Shawaf.

The plot appears to have been hastily conceived and to have surprised and shocked Kassem. Shawaf was one of the officers' group which plotted the July 14 revolution that destroyed the pro-Western monarchy.

The government's story is that Shawaf was killed by his own men after Iraqi forces bombed the rebel headquarters near Mosul.

Auto Insurance Fund Act Faces New Challenge

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals Tuesday heard arguments in a suit challenging Maryland's uninsured motorist law.

The law was enacted by the 1957 Legislature to help insured drivers collect damages in accidents where the other driver won't or can't pay.

Legal action challenging the law's constitutionality was brought by two insurance companies, an individual and a business firm.

Circuit Judge Joseph L. Carter dismissed the suit in Baltimore, ruling in favor of the commissioner of motor vehicles and other state officials. The state officials were voluntarily joined in fighting the suit by two insurance associations and the Baltimore Bar Assn.

The controversial law established an Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund to protect motorists against losses resulting from accidents with uninsured drivers, hit-and-run driver, drivers of stolen cars and out-of-state vehicles.

The fund was started last year. Insured car owners paid $1 more for their 1958 registration, and those without insurance paid $8 extra. Insurance companies contributed one-half of one per cent of the total premiums they collected.

After the first year, only uninsured motorists and insurance companies are feeding the fund. Claims on the fund will be considered and payments made from it after June 1, 1959.

Those attacking the law claim it provides for taking private property for public use without just compensation.

Chief arguments against the law were presented to the high court by J. Cookman Boyd and Henry M. Decker Jr., attorneys for the two principal plaintiffs, Allied American Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co.

They argued that insurers are deprived of property without due process of law because they are compelled to contribute money to the fund and render certain services to uninsured motorists.

They said the provision that insurers must investigate and defend claims assigned to them amounts to a requirement that they engage unlawfully in the practice of law.

B47s Land Safely Following Collision

MOUNTAIN HOME AFB, Idaho (UPI) —Two Air Force B47 bombers which collided in mid-air over Idaho Tuesday landed safely. There were no injuries.

Col. Robert V. DeShazo, commander of the Ninth Bombardment Wing at Mountain Home AFB, said the first plane touched down safely about 4:13 p.m. He said the second Strategic Air Command bomber landed without incident nearly two hours later.

De Shazo said the cause of the mid-air collision and the extent of damage will be determined by an investigating board.

Bailey Pleads For Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-W. Va.) Tuesday urged congressional passage of a depressed areas aid bill so 100,000 "unfortunate" West Virginians can come home.

"Our young people have been forced to leave their native state in an effort to find employment," the congressman told a House banking subcommittee.

The House unit is considering bills to provide millions of dollars in loans and grants to encourage industrial development and public works construction in areas hard-hit by long unemployment.

"Prompt approval by your committee and favorable action by Congress would make it possible to provide jobs for these unfortunate people so they could return to their native state," Bailey told the lawmakers.

"No one will question the right of these people to have job opportunities at home," he said. "These payrolls will stabilize the economy of a state that has been made a guinea pig and a pin cushion for a lot of harmful federal legislation injurious to West Virginia."

De Shazo said the cause of the mid-air collision and the extent of damage will be determined by an investigating board.

Bailey Pleads For Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-W. Va.) Tuesday urged congressional passage of a depressed areas aid bill so 100,000 "unfortunate" West Virginians can come home.

"Our young people have been forced to leave their native state in an effort to find employment," the congressman told a House banking subcommittee.

The House unit is considering bills to provide millions of dollars in loans and grants to encourage industrial development and public works construction in areas hard-hit by long unemployment.

"Prompt approval by your committee and favorable action by Congress would make it possible to provide jobs for these unfortunate people so they could return to their native state," Bailey told the lawmakers.

"No one will question the right of these people to have job opportunities at home," he said. "These payrolls will stabilize the economy of a state that has been made a guinea pig and a pin cushion for a lot of harmful federal legislation injurious to West Virginia."

"Marriage Mill" Conspiracy Story Told By Young Couple

EASTON, Md. (AP) — A young Philadelphian and his wife testified Tuesday they were able to obtain a marriage license in Elkton, Md., after a taxi driver told the wife to say she was pregnant.

Joseph C. Camm, 20, of (962 N. Randolph St.) Philadelphia, a short stocky man with long black hair, said that he and his wife, the former Mary Veto, 20, also of (61 N. Randolph St.) Philadelphia, made two trips to Elkton before obtaining the license.

Camm told a jury of six men and six women in Talbot County Circuit Court that he and his wife came to Elkton April, 29, 1957, and met taxi driver Leland Ott at the railroad station.

Unable to secure a license because they were under age, the young couple returned to Philadelphia, Camm said. But before leaving, Ott told them to get in touch with him if they couldn't get consent from their parents.

On a second trip to Elkton a few days later, the Philadelphian testified, they met Ott again, he told Miss Veto to say she was pregnant and they were taken to a doctor's office and given a slip of paper. The paper was taken to the clerk's office and they received the license.

Camm testified he paid no money to the doctor but gave Ott $25.

State's Attorney Albert R. Roney pointed to gray-haired Dr. Jacob Greenwald—sitting in the courtroom in a dark business suit and brown crepe-soled shoes — and asked if he was the doctor. Camm said he wouldn't recognize the doctor they saw.

Dr. Greenwald, 63, and Ott are charged with conspiring to issue false statements of pregnancy. Maryland law permits a girl to marry regardless of age if a physician issues a certificate that she is pregnant.

Seven other taxi drivers were indicted in the "marriage mill" case but only Ott and Dr. Greenwald are being tried now. The case was moved here from Elkton after the defense contended it could not get a fair trial there.

Judge Edward D. E. Rollins disqualified himself from sitting in the case at the outset of the trial's second day. The five defense attorneys objected to his presence because he did not sit Monday-opening day—when Chief Judge J. DeWeese Carter was alone on the bench.

Judge Rollins had been asked by Judge Carter to hear the case but had been unable to attend Monday because of prior commitments.

The defense won another point when previous witnesses were removed from the courtroom today and separated from witnesses yet to be heard. Until today, witnesses had been sitting in the courtroom after they testified.

Camm's testimony was admitted to the court record Tuesday only after considerable objection from defense attorneys.

They contended the entire line of questioning of Camm was an attempt to establish a prior similar act by Dr. Greenwald and Ott and said the situation involving Camm and his wife was not relevant to the charges at hand.

Camm's wife also took the stand but her testimony generally paralleled his.

A complete marriage record introduced in evidence was identified today by Ellis F. Hawks of Calvert, Md., deputy clerk for Cecil County who is in charge of the marriage bureau.

Hawks said the record was one he took as a marriage license application by Donald R. McFarland and Jacqueline Oster, both of Catonsville, Md. McFarland, 18-year-old filling station attendant, testified opening day about how he obtained a marriage license for himself and Miss Oster in Elkton.

Marylander Indicted For Evasion Of Taxes

BALTIMORE (AP) — A federal grand jury Tuesday indicted Albert H. Smith, 46, on a charge of evading 71,157 in income taxes in 1952-54.

Smith, who lives in suburban Reisterstown, figured in an investigation of payoffs to Washington police in 1954. He was in real estate business part of the time mentioned in the indictment.

The three-count indictment accused Smith of understating his income for the three years by a total of $140,199.

U. S. Atty. Leon H. A. Pierson presented the case to the jury.

Trio Confesses Robbery Spree In Three States

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three men who officers said admitted burglaries in three states on their trip from Tampa, Fla., to New Orleans were arrested Tuesday.

They were stopped by Patrolmen James M. Holley and John Fenaci on a traffic check and found to be without registration papers.

The officers said the men under questioning admitted robberies in Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana.

They were listed as Jack Bruner, 31, of Bradleyville, Mo., and Howie Devan, 17 and his cousin, Joseph Devan, 21, of Baltimore, Md.

The men are being held as fugitives from justice from Tampa.

Washington Co. Steps Up Battle To Help Needy

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Washington County moved on two fronts in its battle with economic problems Tuesday as it began paying destitute families under a third program.

The Board of County Commissionetrs, by resolution, asked the Legislature for power to appropriate up to $40,000 annually for an economic development commission.

A bill to create such a commission in the county was introduced in the State Senatet Monday night by State Sen. George E. Snyder (D-Washington). The board notetd the bill said nothing about financing and said it would send the resolution to Annapolis and ask that it be included in the bill.

The commission is aimed at getting more participation in a drive to bring new industry to Washington County, which now has about 4,000 unemployed.

The board also named Milton R. Moats administrator of a surplus food distribution program it hopes to have functioning by May 1. The surplus food from the federal government is not now being distributed here.

The board already has appropriated $20,000 for the program and is trying to secure a warehouse for storage.

Tuesday marked the beginning of distribution of special relief funds to heads of households who have exhausted their jobless benefits and other resources.

The Washington County Welfare Department has allocated $8,500 for the program, which was matched by the State Board of Public Works. Payments are limited to $100 a month per household.

Groups Clash Over Relaxing Fireworks Ban

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—There were fireworks at a Senate committee hearing Tuesday. They were touched off by friction between two groups clashing over a bill to legalize the sale of sparklers and explosive paper caps in Maryland.

The proposed legislation would amend a fireworks ban enacted in 1941 after a bitter battle. It would permit the sale and use of sparklers and certain caps for toy guns.

The bill was introduced by Sen. Dorsey (D-St. Mary's) and was pushed at the hearing by a former senator from that county Paul J. Bailey of Leonardtown, lobbyist for the New Jersey Fireworks Co. of Elkton, Md.

The Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee took the arguments under consideration. Most of the discussion concerned sparklers, devices consisting of a heavy wire partly coated with a composition which emits brilliant sparks when ignited.

Anthony P. Fabrizi, owner of the Elkton sparkler plant, said he is allowed to ship sparklers to 27 other states and the District of Columbia.

Fabrizi said the interstate commerce commission and the post office department do not consider sparklers as fireworks for shipping and mailing purposes. He said they are safe for manufacture and use.

He said increased production at two sparkler plants in Cecil County would relieve unemployment, and the sale of sparklers in Maryland would boost sales tax revenue.

John W. Avirett of Baltimore, representative of the American Society for the Prevention of Blindness, led opposition to the bill.

He said the danger of sparklers is in their use by children. He cited figures of a 1938-41 Legislative Council study which showed two Maryland girls were burned to death when their dresses caught fire from sparklers. Many others were maimed or injured from sparklers, he said.

Avirett choked with emotion when he read this newspaper quote from a 9-year-old Baltimore girl fatally burned when her dress caught fire while lighting fireworks:

"Mama, I lit a match, but I won't light one anymore."

Avirett, a principle figure behind enactment of the 1941 fireworks ban, said some 50 organizations have expressed opposition to Dorsey's bill.

He introduced representatives of medical societies, parent-teacher groups, nurses associations, fire prevention groups, fire, health and insurance officials.

Sen. See (R-Allegany), one of Maryland's two blind legislators, said some of his fellow students at the Maryland School for the Blind had lost their sight through promiscuous use of fireworks.

Avirett said the bill would give the fireworks manufacturers "a foot in the door" for more amendments. "Nail this in its tracks," he urged the committee. "Forget about money and think about the children of the state."

Trucking Firm Opens Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The O'Boyle Tank Lines, Arlington, Va., offered testimony Tuesday as the first of several applicants seeking authority to haul cement between states by truck.

Involved in the hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission are protests against proposed truck hauling through Maryland and Virginia communities to Chantilly, Va., where a new airport is being built for Washington.

Testimony from these protestants, however, is not scheduled until May 25.

Residents of Leesburg and other communities of northern Virginia and adjacent areas in Maryland contend that movement of heavy cement trucks to Chantilly would damage streets and disrupt community lines.

A route proposed by truckers would use the Point of Rocks bridge over the Potomac and streets of Leesburg.

Cement is generally hauled between states by rail. The ICC is considering various applications for truck hauling. O'Boyle asks permission to haul for the Standard Line & Cement Co., Martinsburg, W. Va.

Frank Grimm, O'Boyle president, and the first witness, gave testimony designed to show the company is qualified and equipped to do the work.

Man Claims His Damaged Auto, Lands In Jail

SALISBURY (AP)—A Washington man walked into police headquarters today to claim his car—damaged in an accident last Saturday.

Police promptly brought two charges against him and jailed him pending a hearing tomorrow.

Charged with reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident where a person was injured, Benjamin Perry, 41, Negro, of (1351 Franklyn St., N.E.) Washington, was held in Wicomico County Jail for a 10 a.m. hearing before Judge Fanny Murphy in People's Court.

Police Chief W. J. Chatham said two persons saw a Negro running from the scene of Saturday's accident on West Main Street and their descriptions, tags on the car and information from Washington police led to Perry's arrest.

Damage to Perry's car and three other vehicles involved amounted to $3,500. An 8-year-old boy riding in one car was injured slightly. Police said Perry's car traveled 370 feet after cutting off a utility pole.

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — Actor A. E. Matthews, 89, is appearing here in a comedy, "How Say You?" and thinking about the future. He told a reporter he's giving up whisky and has started saving money.

Why?

"When a man is getting on for 90—which I will be in November—it's time for him to start thinking about his future."

Trucking Firm Opens Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The O'Boyle Tank Lines, Arlington, Va., offered testimony Tuesday as the first of several applicants seeking authority to haul cement between states by truck.

Involved in the hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission are protests against proposed truck hauling through Maryland and Virginia communities to Chantilly, Va., where a new airport is being built for Washington.

Testimony from these protestants, however, is not scheduled until May 25.

Residents of Leesburg and other communities of northern Virginia and adjacent areas in Maryland contend that movement of heavy cement trucks to Chantilly would damage streets and disrupt community lines.

A route proposed by truckers would use the Point of Rocks bridge over the Potomac and streets of Leesburg.

Cement is generally hauled between states by rail. The ICC is considering various applications for truck hauling. O'Boyle asks permission to haul for the Standard Line & Cement Co., Martinsburg, W. Va.

Frank Grimm, O'Boyle president, and the first witness, gave testimony designed to show the company is qualified and equipped to do the work.

DO YOU SUFFER THE MISERIES OF MIDDLE-AGE STOMACH?

Doctor's discovery helps thousands get relief from gas pains and acid indigestion

If your stomach fills up with gas after meals—if you belch a lot and are plagued by spells of heartburn and acid indigestion—your trouble may be due to Middle-Age Stomach, a condition that hits so many people after forty.

To avoid the discomforts of Middle-Age Stomach, try an amazing formula developed by a prominent doctor and known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Unlike baking soda, antacid mints and other alkalizers which give only temporary relief, this remarkable medicine . . . when taken regularly . . . helps promote more normal stomach activity so that you get relief that really lasts!

Once your digestion is improved by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and your stomach is working right again, you can eat what you like without gas pains, heartburn or similar distress.

So why suffer from Middle-Age Stomach? Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped so many people that over 38 million bottles have been sold. Get it at your druggist's in liquid or tablets. Money back guarantee.

4-H Trail Outlines Programs

Dates were set and committees were announced at the meeting of the Girls 4-H Trail held at the Court House, with Patricia King presiding.

Camp was set for April 4. Committee members are Linda Fike, Sharon O'Rourke, Reta Daniels, Joyce Simpkins, Charlotte King and Betty Clark.

County demonstrations, ranging through all 4-H projects, are to be given June 29-30 at the Court House. The committee consists of Carolyn Walker and Eileen Morgan.

Dress review will be held July 9. The committee is composed of Donna Simpson, Marlene Clark and Joyce Wright.

The public speaking contest will be held March 21 at the Court House, beginning at 10 a. m. The district public speaking contest will be held April 18, and is to be in Frostburg.

There will be a training meeting March 11 and a leaders training meeting on the 25th. The club voted to accept the revised constitution; and on May 2 to further discuss the trail purchasing notebooks for leaders.

A discussion of what the 4-H girls can do for the programs at the Homemakers' meetings was held. To show how demonstrations of various phases of 4-H work may be given and tell what 4-H means, Mary Kimberlin spoke of membership cards and seals and certificates for completion of projects; Reta Daniels gave the 4-H story; a talk on home management was given by Charlotte King. Donna Simpson told how a dress review was given and Judy Kube discussed club week activities. A model meeting also was suggested for the subject of a program.

Concluding the meeting, games were played and songs were sung.

Rev., Mrs. W. A. Judy Will Observe 57th Anniversary

Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Judy, two celebrations in observance of their 57th wedding anniversary. Tomorrow they and their family will attend the Cresaptown PTA party at the school. At that time Miss Margaret Morrissey, health nurse, who is retiring in June after serving 36 years at Cresaptown, will be honored. There also will be special entertainment honoring Rev. and Mrs. Judy. Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, son-in-law and daughter of the couple, will entertain with a dinner.

The former Miss Bertha Robb, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Robb, Lewisburg, Pa., and later of Cass, W. Va., became the bride of William Andrew Judy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Judy, Ronceverte, W. Va., March 12, 1902. Original plans for the wedding were to have the ceremony in Cass, where the bride's father owned and operated a hotel. But the night before the wedding the hotel was almost destroyed by fire, so the young couple went to Washington, where they were married in the Baker Hotel, with Rev. Wycliff a Methodist minister, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Furbush, Portland, Me., were their attendants.

At the time of their marriage Rev. Judy was a telegraph operator for the railroad, and remained with it for about five years before entering the Theological Seminary at Westminster. Upon graduation he was given a charge at Rawlings. From there he went to Midland. When his health failed, Mr. Judy obtained employment at the Celanese Corporation, retiring in 1952 after about 26 years' service as an accountant.

Rev. and Mrs. Judy are the parents of five children, with one daughter, Mrs. Ruth Judy Johnson, living. They have two grandchildren. They are members of Cresaptown Methodist Church. The former filled pulpit calls and was teacher of the Men's Bible Class until his eyesight failed. Since a successful operation he has returned to his hobby of reading. Mrs. Judy, who is "just fine," is a member of the Cresaptown Homemakers Club, secretary of the Sunday school class, reads, does crocheting and her home duties, and in the summer, gardening.

Cumberland Branch AAUW will have a speaker and election at the meeting tonight at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building.

Short Gap firemen and auxiliary will hold a steak supper at the fire hall Saturday from 4:30 until 7:30.

LaVale Baptist Church will have the WMS work day today at the church.

Jr. Festival To Be Held Saturday

The annual Junior Music Festival will be held March 14 at Allegany High School, beginning at 9 a. m., with five entries, Mrs. Paul Gilford, district festival chairman, said last evening.

Entries include a 4-H vocal group from Wiley Ford, entered by Mrs. Evelyn Schram, who also has entered Ruth Fredman, a piano student. Other entries are a cello student, Sandra Wolferman, by Mrs. Howard Irwin; a piano student, E. Stephen Keener, a pupil of Mrs. Ada Wilson of Keyser, who also has entered a piano duet, Sue Baker and her twin sister, Bonnie.

Judges will be Dr. Ward Cole of State Teachers College, Frostburg; Miss Herminia Fernandez Lang, Baltimore; and Miss Alice Smith, Baltimore. Dr. Cole will judge instrumental students; Miss Lang, piano; and Miss Smith, voice.

Shelia Wolford Marks Birthday

Mrs. Mary Ellen Wolford entertained in honor of her daughter, Shelia Ann, in celebration of her 12th birthday Saturday at the home of her parents, 568 Fayette Street. Sheila is a sixth grade pupil at SS. Peter and Paul's School.

A birthday cake centered the refreshment table. Games were played and dancing featured the entertainment during the afternoon. Mrs. George E. Porter assisted the hostess in serving.

Guests were Margaret Firlie, Patricia Graham, Cathy Graham, Mary Pat Hallinan, Patricia Kolb, Caroline McIntyre, Martha Millrada, Leslie Rice, Joy Tasher, Cathy Porter and Gary Porter.

Sport Club To Meet

The March meeting of the Women's Sport Club will be held tomorrow at 6:30 at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Miss Ann Lottig is chairman. She will be assisted by Mrs. Veronica Schleifman and Mrs. Shirley Eisenberger.

Pride of 628, Lodge 47, Ladies Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will meet at 7:30 tonight at the Malta Hall.

R. R. Parker Marks 85th Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fisher entertained with a surprise homemade ice cream party in honor of R. Reese Parker, celebrating his 85th birthday. It was held at his home on Mason Road Saturday evening.

He was recipient of a birthday card shower March 5.

Prior to his retirement, Mr. Parker owned and operated the Parker Grocery Store, 304 Fayette Street.

After seeing his doctor and friends, Mr. Parker returned to Aberdeen, with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Parker, where he has been recuperating from a serious illness.

Delegate Appointed

Miss Dorothy Willison presided at the meeting of the Music and Arts Club Monday night at the home of Mrs. Harry Parker, Patterson Avenue, and appointed Mrs. Howard Irwin delegate to the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs convention. Mrs. Frank Stuart Rowe is alternate. The convention will be in Baltimore April 9, 10 and 11.

A program of Italian music was presented. Mrs. Alan Macy directed group singing with Mrs. Monroe Harris at the piano. Mrs. William Keller gave sketches of the lives of Italian composers. Taking part in the program were Mrs. Vernon Cost, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. William Ludman, Mrs. Ivan Hall, Mrs. John Zornig, Mrs. Russell Fink, and Mrs. Samuel Weatherholt.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fisher entertained with a surprise homemade ice cream party in honor of R. Reese Parker, celebrating his 85th birthday. It was held at his home on Mason Road Saturday evening.

He was recipient of a birthday card shower March 5.

Prior to his retirement, Mr. Parker owned and operated the Parker Grocery Store, 304 Fayette Street.

After seeing his doctor and friends, Mr. Parker returned to Aberdeen, with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Parker, where he has been recuperating from a serious illness.

Delegate Appointed

Miss Dorothy Willison presided at the meeting of the Music and Arts Club Monday night at the home of Mrs. Harry Parker, Patterson Avenue, and appointed Mrs. Howard Irwin delegate to the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs convention. Mrs. Frank Stuart Rowe is alternate. The convention will be in Baltimore April 9, 10 and 11.

A program of Italian music was presented. Mrs. Alan Macy directed group singing with Mrs. Monroe Harris at the piano. Mrs. William Keller gave sketches of the lives of Italian composers. Taking part in the program were Mrs. Vernon Cost, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. William Ludman, Mrs. Ivan Hall, Mrs. John Zornig, Mrs. Russell Fink, and Mrs. Samuel Weatherholt.

Court Battle Looms Over Astor Fortune

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (UPI)—Portly John Jacob Astor III, cut off without a cent when his half brother died, Monday asked for an investigation of the will in a move that could lead to a full-scale court battle over one of America's largest fortunes.

Astor, 47, and three times married, already has hired a forgery expert to examine the 20-page will which provided for the distribution of Vincent Astor's fortune, estimated at between 100 and 200 million dollars.

His attorney, Harry H. Lipsig, asked Dutchess County Surrogate W. Vincent Grady Monday for an examination of all the circumstances connected with drawing up the will.

Vincent Astor died last Feb. 3 at the age of 67. He left two million dollars to his widow, the former Brooke Russell Marshall, whom he married in 1953. There were bequests totaling $827,500 to 25 other persons. The rest of the fortune was left to the Vincent Astor Foundation, a philanthropic organization.

There was no mention of John Jacob III, who was the closest blood relative since Vincent had no children.

Relations had long been strained if not hostile, between John and Vincent, sons of Col. John Jacob Astor who went down with the Titanic in 1912.

John Jacob III, now in Florida, has been involved in several marital battles. He still has not won a clearcut court decision on whether he is married to the former Gertrude Gretsch of New York or the former Delores Fullman of Miami.

John was born to Col. Astor's second wife four months after the Titanic disaster. Since the will had not been changed to provide for the unborn son, John received only a statutory percentage of his father's fortune. Vincent inherited the bulk.

Washington Co. Development Bill Introduced

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Sen. Snyder (D-Washington) proposed Monday night that a commission be set up to promote business and industry in Washington County.

A bill introduced by the senator would create "the economic development commission of Washington County." Snyder said it would complement the State Economic Development Commission set up by the current Legislature.

The purpose of the county commission is described as "advancing the general welfare of the people through programs and activities to develop Washington County's natural resources and economic opportunities pertaining to commerce, agriculture, forestry, transportation, travel, tourism and recreation."

It also would "cooperate and offer assistance to existing industries and businesses," and "promote and encourage the establishing and locating of new industries and businesses in Washington County and other matters intended to foster and develop gainful employment and the pursuit of happiness of all who are now or may hereafter be residents of Washington County."

QUEEN RECEIVES PROTESTS

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Mother Elizabeth has received several protests from Protestants over her plans to have an audience with Pope John XXIII during her visit to Italy next month, informed sources said Tuesday. The sources said one protest came from John Kensit of the Protestant Truth Society, among others.

CAPITAL SPENDING

Capital spending has taken a sharp turn for the better, a national industrial conference board survey showed. In the final quarter last year the nation's top 1,000 manufacturing firms appropriated more than 2 billion dollars for capital budgets, up 26 per cent over the previous quarter.

BUDGET

President Eisenhower told Republican congressional leaders he puts national defense ahead of a balanced budget but felt that his new military budget is "adequate" to defend the nation. The President's view was relayed by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) after Eisenhower's weekly meeting with GOP leaders.

DEVELOPMENT LOANS

A House appropriations subcommittee has tentatively slashed 78 per cent from the supplemental funds requested by the President for development projects in foreign countries. The subcommittee cut to 50 million dollars the 225 million dollars requested by the President in February to tide the development loan fund through the current fiscal year.

SPACE

The Senate gave quick approval to the first installment of more than 500 million dollars in appropriations that will be asked at this session for the nation's civilian space program. The installment, a $48,354,000 supplemental appropriation for use before larger new funds become available July 1, was voted without debate.

SMALL CAR

Chrysler Corp. will decide by late summer whether to make a small car, L. L. Colbert, president said. He said Chrysler has spent "tens of millions of dollars" already on tooling for the small car and that it would be ready to market by Jan. 1, 1960, if the final decision is favorable.

Divergent Forces Cloud Iraq Revolt

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

There are so many divergent forces at work now in the Middle East that every new development brings confusion as to its own meaning as well as adding to the uncertainties of the whole.

A British spokesman, discussing the new rebellion in Iraq, obviously was oblivious to the humor and yet very accurate meaning in his own words. He said the situation was "clearly very confused."

On the surface, the rebellion of army factions in the Mosul area is pro-Nasser and against the influence of communism on the Kassem revolutionary government in Baghdad. In this connection the term pro-Nasser refers to Arab nationalism of the international type the Cairo leader supports.

Yet there is Arab nationalism throughout the Middle East which is not pro-Nasser.

The Baghdad government appears to be more Nationalist than Communist, yet in competition with Nasser for Arab leadership in the traditional Iraqi fashion.

International communism, which for a time gave all-out support to Nasserism as a weapon against Western interests, now continues to do so on issues directly involving Middle East and Western conflicts, but undercuts it on more direct Communist interests.

For instance, while supporting the Baghdad government, the Communists continue to stir up trouble with their [illegible] of a national state for the Kurds, who live in a belt extending from northeastern Turkey across northern Iraq [illegible] always a dissident element in the countries where they live, are thick [illegible] ter of the new rebellion.

Girl Hangs On For Life

LEGRAND, Iowa (AP)—"Mommy kept telling me to hang on," said the 12-year-old farm girl. "I did."

"I knew somebody would help me out if I just hung on long enough."

That childhood trust in a mother's words and a rusted pipe, which her small fingers grimly clutched for 30 minutes, were what stood between Barbara Lawson and possible death at the bottom of a water-filled well Monday.

"My hands were cold and my arms ached. I heard mommy yelling at me to hang on—help was coming soon."

Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lawson, broke through a board covering of an unused well on her parents farm near here.

"After I fell," Barbara said, "I was completely under water. Then I came to the surface and grabbed at anything. My hand hit the pipe and I hung on."

The 30-foot well had about nine feet of water in the bottom.

Barbara's feet dangled in the water while Legrand volunteer firemen lowered Fuhrman Parks into the well. Parks tied a rope around the girl and other firemen pulled her to safety. She suffered only a scratched leg and slight exposure from the 35-degree temperature.

U. N. Is Like Iceberg—Greatest Mass Of Its Activities Not Readily Apparent

EDITOR's Note: For 13 years, the United Nations has been drawing attention as a key diplomatic battleground between East and West. But what has it been doing between rounds of debates between Russia and the U. S. and its allies? United Press International correspondent Claire Cox summarizes some of the U. N.'s non-political activities in three stories. The first deals with the strictly humanitarian activities of the U.N.-sponsored organizations. The second rounds-up the technical activities of U. N. organizations. The third tells what the U. S. gives to the U. N. and receives in return.

By CLAIRE COX

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The Russians and the West have been arguing "yes" and "nyet" for nearly 13 years at the peak of a figurative iceberg with a base that spreads around the world.

The "iceberg" is the United Nations.

Its 68-million dollar world headquarters is in New York City. Most of the big U. N. headlines come from here. Right now, the news centers on a debate over the fate of the British and French Cameroons.

But U. N. spokesmen say that just as most of an iceberg's bulk is beneath the ocean's surface, so the greatest mass of U. N. activity is not readily apparent.

While the global spotlight has beamed on flashy debates in the General Assembly and Security Council chambers here, thousands of hard-working educators, technicians, engineers and other experts have been toiling in the U. N. "silent services" around the world to improve the lot of mankind.

These U. N.-sponsored workers have launched a sweeping offensive against malaria. They are campaigning to wipe out illiteracy in South America and to put every able-bodied Asian to work.

Cure African Disease

Dams have been built and irrigation ditches dug. Midwifery kits have been distributed in India. A single-shot penicillin cure has been given to hundreds of thousands of African sufferers of the yaws, a venereal disease. And experiments in progress are aimed at turning the age-old windmill into a major source of power.

Native women in Africa are being taught the basic principles of garbage disposal. Outboard motors have been introduced to revolutionize the fishing industry in Ceylon. A study is under way to determine whether the native custom of chewing khat leaves in Africa may be dangerously habit-forming.

Since the U. N. was organized in 1946, member nations—now totaling 82—have poured a total of nearly $2,500,000,000 into its activities. Of this, the U. N. central organization has received a little more than 575 million dollars.

Help Arab Refugees

The rest has gone to help Arab refugees from Palestine, to repair Korean war damage, and to support the activities of such groups as the International Labor Organization (ILO), the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), the International Childrens Fund (UNICEF), the World Health Organization (WHO), the U. N. Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), and various technical projects.

The U. N. Secretariat employes a few more than 4,000 persons about 3,000 in New York, the rest at Geneva, Switzerland. The other agencies have a total payroll of well over 7,500, most of them abroad.

"All of this may sound like the tail is wagging the dog," a U. N. official said. "Actually that is not the case. What goes on here, in the General Assembly and Security Council, still is the main reason for the existence of the United Nations. But it is logical also for all these other activities to be coordinated under a single world organization."

Historic London Pub Closes Doors

LONDON (UPI) — Only tears were left in the beer mugs Monday at the Elephant and Castle Pub where royalty, cockneys and GI's used to rub shoulders.

The pub, which first opened in 1758, closed its doors for the last time after a mammoth beer party Sunday night. The decrepit building with its long, polished wooden bar was a traffic bottleneck at a six-road junction in London's southside and will be torn down.

Owner Tom Thurlow gave a final party that rivaled those in the days when the Prince of Wales—now the Duke of Windsor—used to drop in for a drink and when American soldiers used to fill the place and sing off-color songs.

Shell Matsus

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — The defense ministry disclosed Tuesday that Chinese Red artillery had shelled the Nationalist - held Matsu offshore islands Monday for the first time in nearly a month. The last shelling of the Matsus occurred Feb. 15.

LOCKED DOOR FOOLS THIEF

ROME (UPI)—Sergio Ibisco, 20, locked himself in the men's room of a tavern with the intention of looting the place after it closed. But the tavern's owner locked the room from the outside, too. He was found the next morning and captured. Adding to his humiliation was this — another key to the door had been lying on a shelf all the time.

SHATTER RECORDS

WHEELUS FIELD, Libya (UPI) —A U.S. Air Force fighter-interceptor squadron stationed in Morocco has shattered possibly all records for air-to-air rocketry by American pilots, it was announced Monday. Scorekeepers said the 17th Air Force's 357th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron tallied 436 hits on aerial targets during a 30-day firing period.

Among the birds that can be taught to talk are the piping crows of Australia, the mynah, parrot, some species of jays, macaws and even starlings.

U. N. Is Like Iceberg—Greatest Mass Of Its Activities Not Readily Apparent

EDITOR's Note: For 13 years, the United Nations has been drawing attention as a key diplomatic battleground between East and West. But what has it been doing between rounds of debates between Russia and the U. S. and its allies? United Press International correspondent Claire Cox summarizes some of the U. N.'s non-political activities in three stories. The first deals with the strictly humanitarian activities of the U.N.-sponsored organizations. The second rounds-up the technical activities of U. N. organizations. The third tells what the U. S. gives to the U. N. and receives in return.

By CLAIRE COX

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The Russians and the West have been arguing "yes" and "nyet" for nearly 13 years at the peak of a figurative iceberg with a base that spreads around the world.

The "iceberg" is the United Nations.

Its 68-million dollar world headquarters is in New York City. Most of the big U. N. headlines come from here. Right now, the news centers on a debate over the fate of the British and French Cameroons.

But U. N. spokesmen say that just as most of an iceberg's bulk is beneath the ocean's surface, so the greatest mass of U. N. activity is not readily apparent.

While the global spotlight has beamed on flashy debates in the General Assembly and Security Council chambers here, thousands of hard-working educators, technicians, engineers and other experts have been toiling in the U. N. "silent services" around the world to improve the lot of mankind.

These U. N.-sponsored workers have launched a sweeping offensive against malaria. They are campaigning to wipe out illiteracy in South America and to put every able-bodied Asian to work.

Cure African Disease

Dams have been built and irrigation ditches dug. Midwifery kits have been distributed in India. A single-shot penicillin cure has been given to hundreds of thousands of African sufferers of the yaws, a venereal disease. And experiments in progress are aimed at turning the age-old windmill into a major source of power.

Native women in Africa are being taught the basic principles of garbage disposal. Outboard motors have been introduced to revolutionize the fishing industry in Ceylon. A study is under way to determine whether the native custom of chewing khat leaves in Africa may be dangerously habit-forming.

Since the U. N. was organized in 1946, member nations—now totaling 82—have poured a total of nearly $2,500,000,000 into its activities. Of this, the U. N. central organization has received a little more than 575 million dollars.

Help Arab Refugees

The rest has gone to help Arab refugees from Palestine, to repair Korean war damage, and to support the activities of such groups as the International Labor Organization (ILO), the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), the International Childrens Fund (UNICEF), the World Health Organization (WHO), the U. N. Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), and various technical projects.

The U. N. Secretariat employes a few more than 4,000 persons about 3,000 in New York, the rest at Geneva, Switzerland. The other agencies have a total payroll of well over 7,500, most of them abroad.

"All of this may sound like the tail is wagging the dog," a U. N. official said. "Actually that is not the case. What goes on here, in the General Assembly and Security Council, still is the main reason for the existence of the United Nations. But it is logical also for all these other activities to be coordinated under a single world organization."

Historic London Pub Closes Doors

LONDON (UPI) — Only tears were left in the beer mugs Monday at the Elephant and Castle Pub where royalty, cockneys and GI's used to rub shoulders.

The pub, which first opened in 1758, closed its doors for the last time after a mammoth beer party Sunday night. The decrepit building with its long, polished wooden bar was a traffic bottleneck at a six-road junction in London's southside and will be torn down.

Owner Tom Thurlow gave a final party that rivaled those in the days when the Prince of Wales—now the Duke of Windsor—used to drop in for a drink and when American soldiers used to fill the place and sing off-color songs.

Shell Matsus

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — The defense ministry disclosed Tuesday that Chinese Red artillery had shelled the Nationalist - held Matsu offshore islands Monday for the first time in nearly a month. The last shelling of the Matsus occurred Feb. 15.

LOCKED DOOR FOOLS THIEF

ROME (UPI)—Sergio Ibisco, 20, locked himself in the men's room of a tavern with the intention of looting the place after it closed. But the tavern's owner locked the room from the outside, too. He was found the next morning and captured. Adding to his humiliation was this — another key to the door had been lying on a shelf all the time.

SHATTER RECORDS

WHEELUS FIELD, Libya (UPI) —A U.S. Air Force fighter-interceptor squadron stationed in Morocco has shattered possibly all records for air-to-air rocketry by American pilots, it was announced Monday. Scorekeepers said the 17th Air Force's 357th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron tallied 436 hits on aerial targets during a 30-day firing period.

Among the birds that can be taught to talk are the piping crows of Australia, the mynah, parrot, some species of jays, macaws and even starlings.

Tank Truck Explodes

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — At least 20 persons were injured Tuesday when a tank truck carrying illuminating gas blew up in a busy downtown street in a freak accident. Gas leaking from the truck was believed to have been ignited by the spark from a passing automobile.

Oceania, the smallest of the continental groups, has an area of 3,645,294 square miles.

Population Increases

TOKYO (UPI) — The population of Tokyo increased by 289,450 in the past year, the metropolitan government announced Tuesday. It said the population as of Feb. 1 was 8,899,533.

Steel Output Sets Record

NEW YORK (UPI)—Steel production set a record last week as mills sought to meet both rising actual demand and inventory building in anticipation of a mid-year steel strike.

The American Iron & Steel Institute reported production last week at 2,556,000 tons or 90.3 per cent of capacity. The previous record was 2,525,000 tons in the week of Dec. 17, 1956.

This week production is scheduled to rise still more to 2,600,000 tons or 91.8 per cent of capacity.

Last week production was 21,000 tons greater than the estimate.

Steel sources say order books for the first six months are filling rapidly for most producers, as buyers press for deliveries to build up stocks.

Negotiations, on a new work contract in the industry start in May. The present three-year contract expires June 30 and the consensus among experts is that the odds favor a strike.

A month ago mills producing at 83.7 per cent of capacity, turned out 2,371,000 tons. A year ago production at 54.2 per cent of capacity yielded 1,463,000 tons.

This week mills were scheduled to operate at 161.9 per cent of the 1947-49 average against 159.1 per cent last week.

Rites Tomorrow For 6 Slaying Victims

COLUMBUS (UPI) — Services will be here Thursday for Mrs. Viola Soper, 29, and her five children who were killed by her mentally-despondent husband apparently as a result of their impending divorce.

The bodies of Mrs. Soper and her children and that of Roland Soper, 28, a former laborer, were found Saturday morning east of Lancaster. Mrs. Soper and her oldest child, Lora Jean Walls, 11, were found dead in the first floor bedroom of their home. Their skulls had been battered by a claw hammer.

Soper and the other four children were found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in the family car parked in the driveway. All of the children were Mrs. Soper's by a former marriage.

The seven were believed to have died Wednesday night. Soper apparently killed the mother and daughter and then took the other children to the car which he had rigged with two hoses from the exhaust to a rear window vent.

The bodies of Mrs. Soper and Lora, 11; Bobby, 10; Sharon, 9; Vickey, 8; and Roxanne, 6; will be taken from Lancaster Wednesday to the Cross Funeral Home in Columbus.

Burial will be at Eastlawn Cemetery in Columbus Thursday following services.

Services for Soper will be Wednesday at Lancaster with burial in Maple Grove Cemetery there.

Minister's Problems: Money-Or, Rather, Lack Of It-And Not Enough Leisure Time

By CLAIRE COX
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ministers, like just about everyone else, have one major problem in life.

Money — or, rather, the lack of it.

They have few, if any, fears of being out of work, because there is a nationwide shortage of clergymen.

But they are afraid that their salaries are too small to enable them to finance college educations for their children, and they complain they do not have enough leisure time in which to earn additional money.

The problems of ministers have drawn the attention of many church leaders and organizations.

Study Salaries

The Ministers Life and Casualty Union, a mutual insurance company in Minneapolis, conducted a poll on "the practical problems of ministers today."

The National Council of Churches is making a study of ministers' salaries as a first step toward doing something to raise them from their present average of about $4,000 a year.

The National Lutheran Council made a survey of the likes and dislikes of Lutheran pastors that resulted in a recommendation that clergymen should get more help in their work.

And the New York East Methodist Conference Churches recently recommended that minimum salaries for its ministers be raised from $4,200 to $4,500 a year.

Meanwhile, the ministers apparently still have plenty to complain about.

Feel Finances Inadequate

The insurance company study showed 44 per cent of the ministers polled felt their finances were inadequate. Seventy per cent feared their children would have to go without college educations.

Many thought their parishioners were failing to serve the church adequately. Most felt they had too much administrative work to do. An overwhelming number expressed dissatisfaction over allowances for operating their cars, buying books and periodicals and attending conferences.

For the most part, however, the ministers were satisfied with their parsonages, their vacations and all their duties outside the administrative field — including youth work, sermon writing, visiting the sick and participating in community affairs.

The National Lutheran Council's Department of Theological Cooperation found in its survey of more than 1,400 pastors that the major complaint was that church administration consumed too much time.

Pastors suggested that laymen should be trained as church business managers to enable pastors to give their full time to the tasks for whch they attended seminaries.

Should Provide Help

They said congregations also should provide each pastor with the help of a secretary, a parish worker a director of religious education or associate pastor.

The Lutheran pastors reported they put in an average work week of 60 hours. Administrative duties took up an average of more than 10 hours, they reported. Sermon preparation took almost as long.

Their total activities, including funerals, wedding, counseling, sick calls, scripture reading and meditation and prayer, left them only an average of 15 hours, 31 minutes a week for their families. Of that time, 4 hours and 31 minutes remained for recreation.

One of the noteworty developments reported by the pastors was the gradual disappearance of the time-honored custom of inviting the pastor and his family home to dinner.

A total of 737 pastors said they were invited to dinner about once in every two weeks. But 619 said they were invited less than once every three months — or not at all.

$351 Million Spent By Virginia Industry

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Industries, railroads and utilities spent more than 351 million dollars for new facilities, expansions and capital improvements in the Old Dominion last year, it was announced Monday.

The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce said preliminary figures from answers to some 2,500 questionnaires showed that capital expenditures continued at a high level in 1958 despite the business recession.

"Virginia was still a good bet for industry in spite of what the national economy did," said M. Watkins Rhodes, the chamber's research director.

New-type concrete highways are being built all over Maryland

Maryland sees progress in the making...

You have a smooth future ahead on highways of new-type concrete!

Roadbuilders are looking to the future when they pave with new-type concrete.

New-type concrete brings new riding comfort and safety to modern highways. The concrete is continuously laid with barely visible, sawed-in cushion spaces.

And laid flat, concrete stays flat. No jiggles and jounces. Specially designed subbases keep it like this for an expected life of 50 years and more. Still more riding comfort comes from "air entrainment," a process that prevents surface roughening by winter weather and de-icers.

There's extra safety, too, with concrete's dependable skid resistance and high night visibility. Add moderate first cost and low upkeep—you can see why new-type concrete paves a better future for your highways.

TEMPORARY BANK WITHDRAWAL—Here's the loot—$72,321 worth—and the arsenal seized by Long Island police yesterday less than 15 hours after four masked men held up a Massapequa, N. Y., bank and made a slick getaway. The chance arrest of Thomas Parks, 27-year-old plumber, on what appeared to be an unrelated lead led to the arrest of three other men, all of them employed in ordinary occupations. Police said they burst in on the trio while they were dividing the swag in the home of one of them, a tavernkeeper. (AP Photofax)

EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR

LISBON FALLS, Maine (UPI)—A 35-year-old unemployed laborer and three stepdaughters were killed Tuesday in an explosion and fire that destroyed their tar-papered home here. The dead were identified as Lester Simmons and his wife's three daughters by a previous marriage: Althea Barker, 14; Olene, 12, and Martha, 8. Mrs. Simmons 41, was listed in satisfactory condition in a hospital.

Touring UPI President Reports Caribbean Area Presents Three Americas With Another Balkans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Frank H. Bartholomew, president of United Press International, is on a Caribbean tour and reports in the following dispatch on the rising tensions that have brought the danger of more war to the republics in the United States' back yard.)

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW
United Press International
Copyright, 1959, by UPI

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI)—The Caribbean area today presents all three Americas—North, South and Central—with another Balkans on their doorstep that could erupt in warfare.

Tensions appear to be mounting steadily in the potentially explosive military - political situations involving the island republics If the first gun is fired in invasion attempts against the probably initial targets of the Dominican Republic or Haiti, it seems equally probable a whole series of wars may start in chain reaction around the Spanish Main.

The decision appears to rest on the dramatic person of Fidel Castro who ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista from Cuba and who is committed to supporting revolutions in the Dominican Republica, Haiti, and Nicaragua in the Caribbean and Paraguay in South America. His argument is that their presidents are as dictatorial as Batista was.

Catching his zeal, revolutionaries from these target nations have been holding meetings in Cuba, many of them public and well advertised, to formulate their own plans.

Recalls Incident

A typical incident was observed by this correspondent in a crowded Rancho Luna suburban restaurant outside Havana. Multicolored handbills distributed at the tables called for "liberation of Santo Domingo (the Dominican Republic)" and concluded "down with the tyranny of Trujillo."

To Castro and his supporters, Dominican strongman Gen. Rafael Trujillo is the prime symbol of remaining dictatorship.

An excited Dominican leaped on a table, called for silence and addressed himself to the Cubans present:

"As you fought in the jungles of Oriente (province), so will we soon fight in the forests of the Dominican Republic."

A public address system in the restaurant played the Cuban revolutionary song "Day of Freedom," ending in a simulated burst of machine gun fire.

Some of these revolutionary groups in Cuba appear ready for immediate action.

Haiti Ripest Target

Haiti, under President Francois Duvalier, seems to be regarded as the ripest target at the moment with an invasion unit under former Haitian Senator Louis de Joie announcing itself ready to take off this month.

The overthrow of Duvalier in Port au Prince would not only place a man friendly to Castro in control, but would give the Cuban leader an operating base against Trujillo — his primary target —since Haiti and the Dominican Republic share the same island.

Responding to the mounting pressure, Trujillo has announced formation of an "anti-Communist legion" of 25,000 men armed with new machine guns to supplement his regular army.

Trujillo has begun dispersal of his air force, the most modern in the Caribbean and his primary defense, amid repeated rumors that American soldiers of fortune friendly to Castro have assembled surplus warplanes on an isolated island in the British West Indies in hopes of destroying the Dominican air Force in a single riad.

Castro Promises Arms

The probablity at the moment is that Castro himself would not directly participate in any military moves against the target nations. But he is believed to have given so much direct encouragement and the promise of arms to revolutionaries from these lands that they may launch offensives on their own, unless he orders them to stop. But so far, offensive plans continue to be made in Cuba, while defense measures are taken in Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Nicaragua and Paraguay.

Since Paraguay is not in the Caribbean it does not appear to be involved in immediate developments by revolutionaries.

There seems a good chance that the warlike talk in all the countries visited by this correspondent may subside, exhausted by its very violence.

Despite all threats, no trigger has been pulled yet. And each day without gunfire is one more day of stability.

At the same time, it is evident that the emotional level of exiles is so high and arms are so plentiful that an international military adventure may start anywhere in the Caribbean unless the man of the hour in Cuba takes specific steps to halt it.

Loomis Assails Featherbedding

CHICAGO (UPI) — Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Assn. of American Railroads, charged Monday "featherbedding" practices and labor's "chronic fear" of automation is a chief cause of declining employment in the industry.

Asserting that unnecessary employment expenses cost the railroads more than 500 million dollars a year, Loomis said "this waste, which adds about 10 per cent to our payrolls, takes its toll in inflated prices, a weakened competitive position and reduced job opportunities in the industry.

"It is also a heavy factor in making railroading an almost profitless business, in freezing out new equity capital and in curtailing outlays for new plant and equipment," the industry spokesman added.

In a talk before the annual meeting of the American Railway Engineering Assn. here, Loomis said "some labor spokesmen seem to have a chronic fear that automation and greater mechanization of operations will put men out of work.

"I would urge, however," he continued, "that this fear be tempered with realization that only through heavy investment can the railroads hope to remain competitive with other carriers and stay in business."

"With this necessity before us all," he said, "we hold out our hand to railroad employees to join management in creating a new climate of labor-management relations in this vital industry."

Lad's Ills Multiply After Fall From Tree

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP) — You think you've got troubles:

Weston Dean Eastman Jr., 11, fell out of a tree a week ago and was carried home in a police cruiser badly shaken.

Friday he developed an acute abdominal pain and was rushed to a hospital. A midnight operation for appendicitis followed.

His parents visited him Sunday and found out he has developed mumps and tonsilitis.

He was doing fine Monday despite his multiple ailments.

In America, more than 90 per cent of new car production is distributed at home while Britain exports six of every 10 cars produced.

TEMPORARY BANK WITHDRAWAL—Here's the loot—$72,321 worth—and the arsenal seized by Long Island police yesterday less than 15 hours after four masked men held up a Massapequa, N. Y., bank and made a slick getaway. The chance arrest of Thomas Parks, 27-year-old plumber, on what appeared to be an unrelated lead led to the arrest of three other men, all of them employed in ordinary occupations. Police said they burst in on the trio while they were dividing the swag in the home of one of them, a tavernkeeper. (AP Photofax)

EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR

LISBON FALLS, Maine (UPI)—A 35-year-old unemployed laborer and three stepdaughters were killed Tuesday in an explosion and fire that destroyed their tar-papered home here. The dead were identified as Lester Simmons and his wife's three daughters by a previous marriage: Althea Barker, 14; Olene, 12, and Martha, 8. Mrs. Simmons 41, was listed in satisfactory condition in a hospital.

Touring UPI President Reports Caribbean Area Presents Three Americas With Another Balkans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Frank H. Bartholomew, president of United Press International, is on a Caribbean tour and reports in the following dispatch on the rising tensions that have brought the danger of more war to the republics in the United States' back yard.)

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW
United Press International
Copyright, 1959, by UPI

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI)—The Caribbean area today presents all three Americas—North, South and Central—with another Balkans on their doorstep that could erupt in warfare.

Tensions appear to be mounting steadily in the potentially explosive military - political situations involving the island republics If the first gun is fired in invasion attempts against the probably initial targets of the Dominican Republic or Haiti, it seems equally probable a whole series of wars may start in chain reaction around the Spanish Main.

The decision appears to rest on the dramatic person of Fidel Castro who ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista from Cuba and who is committed to supporting revolutions in the Dominican Republica, Haiti, and Nicaragua in the Caribbean and Paraguay in South America. His argument is that their presidents are as dictatorial as Batista was.

Catching his zeal, revolutionaries from these target nations have been holding meetings in Cuba, many of them public and well advertised, to formulate their own plans.

Recalls Incident

A typical incident was observed by this correspondent in a crowded Rancho Luna suburban restaurant outside Havana. Multicolored handbills distributed at the tables called for "liberation of Santo Domingo (the Dominican Republic)" and concluded "down with the tyranny of Trujillo."

To Castro and his supporters, Dominican strongman Gen. Rafael Trujillo is the prime symbol of remaining dictatorship.

An excited Dominican leaped on a table, called for silence and addressed himself to the Cubans present:

"As you fought in the jungles of Oriente (province), so will we soon fight in the forests of the Dominican Republic."

A public address system in the restaurant played the Cuban revolutionary song "Day of Freedom," ending in a simulated burst of machine gun fire.

Some of these revolutionary groups in Cuba appear ready for immediate action.

Haiti Ripest Target

Haiti, under President Francois Duvalier, seems to be regarded as the ripest target at the moment with an invasion unit under former Haitian Senator Louis de Joie announcing itself ready to take off this month.

The overthrow of Duvalier in Port au Prince would not only place a man friendly to Castro in control, but would give the Cuban leader an operating base against Trujillo — his primary target —since Haiti and the Dominican Republic share the same island.

Responding to the mounting pressure, Trujillo has announced formation of an "anti-Communist legion" of 25,000 men armed with new machine guns to supplement his regular army.

Trujillo has begun dispersal of his air force, the most modern in the Caribbean and his primary defense, amid repeated rumors that American soldiers of fortune friendly to Castro have assembled surplus warplanes on an isolated island in the British West Indies in hopes of destroying the Dominican air Force in a single riad.

Castro Promises Arms

The probablity at the moment is that Castro himself would not directly participate in any military moves against the target nations. But he is believed to have given so much direct encouragement and the promise of arms to revolutionaries from these lands that they may launch offensives on their own, unless he orders them to stop. But so far, offensive plans continue to be made in Cuba, while defense measures are taken in Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Nicaragua and Paraguay.

Since Paraguay is not in the Caribbean it does not appear to be involved in immediate developments by revolutionaries.

There seems a good chance that the warlike talk in all the countries visited by this correspondent may subside, exhausted by its very violence.

Despite all threats, no trigger has been pulled yet. And each day without gunfire is one more day of stability.

At the same time, it is evident that the emotional level of exiles is so high and arms are so plentiful that an international military adventure may start anywhere in the Caribbean unless the man of the hour in Cuba takes specific steps to halt it.

Loomis Assails Featherbedding

CHICAGO (UPI) — Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Assn. of American Railroads, charged Monday "featherbedding" practices and labor's "chronic fear" of automation is a chief cause of declining employment in the industry.

Asserting that unnecessary employment expenses cost the railroads more than 500 million dollars a year, Loomis said "this waste, which adds about 10 per cent to our payrolls, takes its toll in inflated prices, a weakened competitive position and reduced job opportunities in the industry.

"It is also a heavy factor in making railroading an almost profitless business, in freezing out new equity capital and in curtailing outlays for new plant and equipment," the industry spokesman added.

In a talk before the annual meeting of the American Railway Engineering Assn. here, Loomis said "some labor spokesmen seem to have a chronic fear that automation and greater mechanization of operations will put men out of work.

"I would urge, however," he continued, "that this fear be tempered with realization that only through heavy investment can the railroads hope to remain competitive with other carriers and stay in business."

"With this necessity before us all," he said, "we hold out our hand to railroad employees to join management in creating a new climate of labor-management relations in this vital industry."

schedule to visit Lonaconing, Frostburg, Cresaptown, and South Cumberland for baby clinics. The Cresaptown clinic was held in a church basement and 96 infants were seen.

Sponsored by interested persons of the community, the first clinic for crippled children was held in 1926 in Lonaconing at the home of Miss Anne M. Sloan.

Miss Morrissey said the late Henry A. Bachman, then president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, was called the father of the Allegany County Health Department, which today is one of the best organized in Maryland.

Many Improvements

During the past 16 years, she recalls many advancements in the field of public health service, including the establishment of a health center at Cresaptown School through the assistance of Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools.

While Charles L. Kopp was superintendent the health center was established. Running water, a heating system and other necessities were installed, making it one of the county's finest health centers.

The Allegany County Lay Health Group also was formed during those years and one of the greatest thrills for Miss Morrissey was the beginning of the annual May Health Day staged yearly at Cresaptown Junior High School.

Miss Morrissey and Miss Myra M. Nefflen, principal, originated the yearly event in 1934. Clinics which are carried on in the school's health center include infant hygiene, dental, immunization, communicable diseases, pre-school clinics, vaccination program and the polio clinic.

Program Scheduled

Mrs. Harry J. Barton will be toastmistress at the dinner in the cafeteria. J. Walker Chapman, Earl Brain and Mr. Rizer, former principals of the Cresaptown School, will be guests.

A program, "I Remember When," will be presented by members of organizations with which Miss Morrissey has had contact through the years.

Other guests will include Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools; Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer; Mrs. Jennie Grahame, administrative assistant of the County Health Department, and other personnel of the department and other school officials. Friends of Miss Morrissey are invited.

Mrs. Brown Lee Armstrong is program chairman and Mrs. John Niner is dinner chairman.

Gregory Goes On Trial For Martinsburg Murder

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Little Charles A. Gregory went on trial Tuesday on a charge of murdering and hacking up a man nearly twice his size.

Prosecutor Vance Sencindiver of Berkeley County said in an opening statement that the state would seek a first degree murder conviction without recommendation of mercy. A death penalty is mandatory in such cases.

The 21-year-old jockey-sized Gregory, who lives near here, is accused in the slaying of Otis Poole, widowed father of four children. Poole, who was in his 40s, was employed at the Newton D. Baker Veterans Center here.

His dismembered body was dug up Dec. 23 in three shallow graves on the farm of Gregory's mother, located near the Martinsburg Airport. Poole had been missing since July 28.

Gregory was indicted by a grand jury last month and pleaded innocent at his arraignment.

Twelve jurors — all males — were picked Tuesday, during the course of which 20 were rejected because they object to the death penalty.

Morgan V. Martin, Gregory's court-appointed attorney, said the defense would show that Poole and Gregory had been together on the day in question, drinking and carousing.

Martin said further in his opening statement that the defense would introduce testimony that while parked in an auto, Poole had attempted to force Gregory to perform a lewd and unnatural act.

Three witnesses were called to the stand as a packed audience listened in the Berkeley County Circuit courtroom.

Testifying to the questioning that took place after Gregory was arrested were Morgan County Sheriff William Clark, State Trooper Walter Davis and Berkeley County Deputy Sheriff John Hess.

They said that the defendant was picked up Nov. 28 driving in Poole's car. Gregory told conflicting stories about why he was in the vehicle. He said at one time that he had bought it and also that he had traded cars with Poole.

Gregory, dressed in a light gray suit, sat with no show of emotion as the prosecution introduced Poole's skull as exhibit one. The slain man's dentures also were put in evidence.

Judge D. H. Rodgers overruled a defense motion to exclude a statement police said Gregory made admitting the slaying.

Lutheran Men Meet Tomorrow Evening

Testifying to the questioning that took place after Gregory was arrested were Morgan County Sheriff William Clark, State Trooper Walter Davis and Berkeley County Deputy Sheriff John Hess.

They said that the defendant was picked up Nov. 28 driving in Poole's car. Gregory told conflicting stories about why he was in the vehicle. He said at one time that he had bought it and also that he had traded cars with Poole.

Gregory, dressed in a light gray suit, sat with no show of emotion as the prosecution introduced Poole's skull as exhibit one. The slain man's dentures also were put in evidence.

Judge D. H. Rodgers overruled a defense motion to exclude a statement police said Gregory made admitting the slaying.

The Market Today And In 1929

"Nobody over 45 can make money in today's market," has become a Wall Street cliche. Translation: It's only older persons who remember today how stock prices collapsed in 1929 when they'd risen too high.

Certainly, stocks recently have been making all-time highs day after day. Certainly, most common stocks now offer investors a lower return on their money than do most high-grade bonds, which are safer. Certainly, stock price averages even at the peak of that vulnerable market in 1929 were roughly 45 per cent lower than they are today.

However, the purchasing power of the dollar is, roughly, 40 per cent lower than in 1929. In terms of 1929 dollars average common stock prices are only slightly higher than 30 years ago. (The story would of course be different on certain issues.)

Common stocks are widely considered a hedge against the threat of inflation today, whereas in 1929 the Treasury was operating at a surplus and reducing the public debt. Many investors now seem to disregard returns from stocks because a man of $35,000 net income, for example, may have to pay in federal income tax 30 to 50 per cent of the dividends he receives.

With most stocks having risen so high, selling would in most cases mean high profits, and even on stocks held over six months ("long-term"), the effective tax on profits is 25 per cent. So there's disinclination to sell, and the resulting paucity of offerings sends prices even higher. It's a topsy-turvy, vicious circle, Alice in Wonderland situation—the higher the profits that may be realized, the less inclined the owners to realize them.

These Days

Britain's Difficult Problem

The awkward geographical situation of Great Britain has been brought about by the change of weapons. When Great Britain ruled the seas, she was the first nation on Earth. British policy dominating mankind. The development of the airplane and the submarine, the bomb, the rocket and the intercontinental missile, make the British Isles indefensible.

In fact, Germany and France also face the danger of being squeezed between the two non-European powers that are struggling for the maintenance of their systems. By air, by submarine, by missile, Great Britain is not more than half an hour away from the enemy and even if the United States puts all its strength to protect the British Isles, the fighting could be in British skies and the damage done to Great Britain would be enormous.

This is the fundamental reason for Prime Minister Macmillan's effort to discover a device for delaying, postponing, eliminating war as a means for settling international differences. The times have changed since the days when Nelson could down the French fleet and Wellington could send Napoleon to his end. As long as there is even a semblance of peace in the world, British manufacturing know-how and financial skill will assume its share of leadership, but a third general war, in which modern unconventional weapons will be used, could completely wipe out the British Isles. How many hydrogen bombs would it take? Not more than half a dozen, probably.

If the Prime Minister had to accept Khrushchev's insults, it was not more than Winston Churchill was forced to take at Yalta where Roosevelt and Stalin divided the world between them behind Churchill's back, and Churchill took what he had to because, as he once put it, he represented a dependent nation.

When President Eisenhower asks us to interest ourselves less in the prospects of war and turn to other subjects, it is like asking a mother not to worry about whether her child has a cold or is coming down with polio. This is particularly true about British public opinion. The British having been straffed twice by German planes and having gone through blackouts and hunger, recognize their peril.

The English Channel which protected them from the days of William the Conqueror, is no longer a defensive moat. The Atlantic, over which the British presided for centuries, is no longer only a passageway for ships but is a series of air-lanes over which the Russians can fly. The atomic submarine, which is now American and which the Russians will undoubtedly build in due course, knows neither time nor obstacle. Armies reduce time and space by travelling airborne in any direction, over the North Pole, along the equator, neither cold nor heat being impediments.

The so-called weak and backward nations which once composed the British Empire and which once provided troops as well as trade, have demanded and obtained independence of one kind or another. But that political independence has not changed their geography. India is where India always was, pregnable to conquering armies that manage to come through the passes of the mountains which separate India from Russia and China. Currently, the influence of Red China is moving southward and westward so rapidly that India squirms before the power of Mao Tze-tung but can get no aid of any real value from Great Britain.

In any new general war, India would be divided between Russia and China, and the United States would have to step in to try to save the Indian Ocean from becoming a Red Chinese sea.

Serious men in Great Britain, those with a sense of geography, are worried about what the new weapons will do to their country. Let it be said truthfully that those who are not fearful of the consequences of the next war, whether they be Russian, British or American, are fools who cannot read the sign-boards of history.

On the other hand, Russian imperialism has become a major nuisance. The Soviet propaganda has worn itself out. What is now as clear as anything can be in history is that Khrushchev wants and needs a massive victory, by diplomacy if possible, by limited wars if possible, by a general war if there is no alternative. The danger to mankind in Khrushchev's political necessities is tragically enormous.

'Don't Call Me Conservative - It Ain't Popular'

Democratic Party Gets Black Eye With People

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Integrity transcends every other issue with the American people — they resent any misuse of their money by public officials and usually defeat at the polls any candidate who is mixed up with what they believe to be a public scandal.

This past week the Democratic Party, which is in control of Congress, got a black eye with the American people. Stories telling how newly elected members of Congress put their relatives on the public payroll, irrespective of their qualifications, were spread on many front pages from coast to coast. One member rented the front porch of his own house back home and charged the government for it.

This same Democratic majority in Congress frowned on Sherman Adams because he accepted a gift of hotel lodgings and a vicuna coat — not paid for by any public funds — even though he did no more than write routine letters of inquiry to governmental agencies about the cases of the donor in question.

But today it is the people's money which is being misused, and, from all appearances, the Democratic-controlled Congress isn't going to do anything about it — not even set up a special committee to investigate all such cases and pronounce judgment on those that are on the level and those that aren't.

There are abuses which approach scandal in the present system. A member of Congress can hire as temporary aides for $60 or $75 a month any of his constituents for the period just before election. This comes out of his office allowance for personnel based on the population of his district or state. This means that some members could put on as many as 150 personal workers at government expense during a campaign. How many members did this in the last campaign? The public has a right to know. Wasn't this, after all, a campaign contribution made with public money?

Putting relatives on the payroll is an old custom. In some instances the employes have been qualified, as in the case of wives who had previously served in a secretarial capacity. But who is to be the judge? Who represents the public interest in deciding those cases on their merits? Should any member put his son or daughter on the payroll while such persons are students attending school and when they obviously cannot give their whole time to the job? Would the people of the state or district say no other person was as well qualified for the post?

Plainly, since no machinery exists through committees of Congress for passing on such cases, it is natural for the public to accept the inferences being made in the press.

Basically, the American people are sensitive to scandal in public office. The "scandals" during the Truman Administration helped to defeat the Democrats in 1952. In recent months the Democrats have been trying to pin the "corruption" label on the Republicans by emphasizing the Sherman Adams episode, though there has never been uncovered the slightest proof of corruption on his part. He himself admitted he had been "imprudent" because he had not looked a gift horse in the mouth.

But in the recent cases the evidence is plain enough to see. Some members of Congress have put relatives on the payroll as office assistants at salaries ranging from $6,000 to $11,000 a year. Do these employes give full time to their work? How much of this money is a gift of public funds? To whom should members of Congress be accountable on such things?

The leaders of the Democratic Party who are so quick to denounce any "conflict of interest" on the part of officials in the executive branch of the government have done nothing to ferret out the facts about the use of public funds for campaign purposes when temporary employes in large numbers are put on the payroll of members of Congress. Nor has any inquiry been made as to the "conflict of interest" in those cases where members of Congress whose campaigns have been financed by labor-union groups still feel they have a right to cast a vote on pending labor legislation. Judges on the bench disqualify themselves if they hold stock in any company appearing before them in court. Yet several members of Congress accept labor-union funds for their campaigns, though the Federal law says contributions by any labor union or corporation to the election of members of Congress are forbidden.

An inquiry by Congress into its own household affairs has long been overdue. Uuless soon begun, the cry will become nation-wide that people in glass houses shouldn't throw stones, and Congress will be handicapped as it faces its duty to investigate any "conflict of interest" cases happening outside as well as inside congressional offices.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Adm. Lewis M. Strauss is in deep trouble with Congress over his nomination as Secretary of Commerce. Strauss has been serving for several months as an interim appointment since the resignation of Sinclair Weeks.

But Democratic leadership in the Senate is after him. They don't want or think they can block his appointment—no Cabinet nomination has been rejected for years—but they do think they can capitalize by bringing their objections out in the open.

Primarily these objections hinge around the famed Dixon-Yates case of several years ago, and Strauss's stand on private, rather than public development of atomic power for commercial uses.

In the Dixon-Yates case, involving an Atomic Energy commission contract to a public utilities group to build a $100 million electric generating steam plant to supply the city of Memphis, there is some evidence that Strauss, while chairman of the AEC, permitted representatives of the utility concern to work in the government on the contract. This is claimed by Democrats to be a flagrant and outstanding case of conflict of interest.

On commercial development of atomic power, Democrats charge that Strauss held back government-financed development to permit utility companies to move ahead, only to find that the private concerns backed out when cost estimates proved the venture would be unprofitable.

Democrats plan to question Strauss closely and at length on these two matters in the hope of depicting the Eisenhower administration as the "tool" of big business.

Heart Trouble May Deprive Brain Of Oxygen

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The brain cannot run without oxygen; faintness and dizziness occur within a few moments after it is withheld. The heart plays an important role in supplying the brain with blood but until recently the relationship between these two organs has not received the proper recognition.

A 50 year old executive was in a general hospital having an operation on his heart to improve circulation to the brain. The man was developing attacks of lightheadedness and had fainted on several occasions.

The cause of these attacks was traced to poor circulation to the brain, which in turn stemmed from a poorly functioning heart. The aim of the operation was to improve the blood supply to the heart muscle so the organ could pump harder to bring more blood to the brain.

The gray matter is extremely sensitive to lack of blood. Minor symptoms such as dizziness, lightheadedness, restlessness, apprehension, and faintness follow temporary lack of oxygen. If the tissues are deprived of blood for more than 10 minutes, convulsions, disturbed emotional states, and paralysis may ensue.

Heart attacks frequently are associated with symptoms of brain involvement varying from lightheadedness to complete unconsciousness. In such instances the blood flow is sluggish because the heart beat is irregular or feeble or the organ has stopped temporarily.

When a stroke follows a heart attack, the cause usually is traced to clots that have developed in the wall of the left ventricle. This is not a common complication but is one of the reasons why an anticoagulant is given to a person who has had a heart attack.

TOMORROW: Scarlet fever is not licked.

COLD WEATHER COLDS

M. N. writes: I catch cold every autumn and it stays with me all winter. This is a great handicap in my job. Is there any way it could be prevented.

REPLY

A change of environment, job, or climate is the only answer if you are following the rules of health to the letter in an effort to build resistance during this time of the year. Seasonal colds may be allergic in nature. In others, the nasal membranes cannot adapt to the quick changes in temperature associated with leaving overheated rooms to go out into wintry blasts. Many persons become more susceptible to winter colds because the living and working quarters lack humidity.

LARGE VEIN ON FACE

Mrs. R. writes: I have a disfiguring protruding vein extending from the corner of the mouth to nearly the chin line, which makes that side of the face look as though it were sagging. Can this vein be removed in the same way as a varicose vein in the leg?

REPLY

Yes, but obtain firsthand advice on a problem of this nature. It is unusual for a vein in this area to enlarge.

PERFORATED EARDRUM

D. G. writes: Is there any way to close the hole in a perforated eardrum?

REPLY

Yes. Spontaneous closure is encouraged by controling infection in the ear and keeping the outer canal and drum clean. Plastic surgery may be necessary if these conservative measures fail.

VARICOSITY

D. J. writes: Could a varicose vein be responsible for phlebitis in the leg?

REPLY

Yes.

PLASTIC SURGERY

M. N. writes: Is age 15 too young to have a nose bump removed by plastic surgery?

REPLY

No, but many plastic surgeons prefer to wait until growth is complete.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The editor of a big national magazine has hit upon a new way of bolstering his sagging circulation figures. When a manuscript is turned down, the frustrated author receives not only a polite rejection slip — but several subscription forms!

Back from a short visit to New York, an English journalist assured his readers, "Those tales you hear of juvenile delinquency in the States are grossly exaggerated. Why, I was there for eight days and didn't see more than a dozen coppers and schoolteachers mowed down. Of course, the rattle of machine-guns and the flashing of switch-blade knives sometimes are annoying at night, but the bodies are always removed from the streets and parks by morning."

A bookshop at Purdue lists "How to Win Friends and Influence People" and "Count Your Blessings" under "Non-Friction."

Senator Lyndon Johnson Does Not Deserve Title As A Dictator

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Most marked contrast in the Nation's Capitol tody is in regard to leadership. Under the American form of government, leadership is supposed to come from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. The Constitution wasn't written for back-seat driving. Under the present setup in Washington, leadership comes from the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Never in my long history of covering Washington has the leadership contrast been so great. From the White House have come late, sometimes uncertain moves. The White House did not whip a labor bill into shape and send it to Congress until after Senate Democrats got the jump with their own labor bill. The White House did not decide on a civil rights bill until after Sen. Lyndon Johnson had introduced his own bill.

This is in direct contrast to other administrations, both Democrat and Republican.

Ordinarily, major bills are worked out by the White House long before Christmas and sent to Congress during the first week in January. Ike and his cabinet differed on labor and on civil rights, however, dilly-dallied and discussed while the Democrats acted.

The most dynamic figure on Capitol Hill by all odds is Lyndon Johnson. He's doing the back-seat driving. He plays the legislative keyboard as Van Cliburn plays the piano. He has already passed a housing bill, soon will have a space bill, an airport bill, insurance bill, international monetary fund, civil rights, educational TV, and Hawaiian statehood measures enacted into law.

Johnson is now being called a dictator. Actually no man can dictate to the Senate. To get a bill past the Senate, Johnson has to have the OK of 26 members of steering and policy committees, plus a majority vote of the Senate. No one can get away with dictatorship in doing this. On the contrary, it takes persuasion and statesmanship. Johnson should hold more Democratic caucuses. Senator Proxmire of Wisconsin is right about this, and the end result would be the same.

But what makes Johnson appear a dictator is the contrast between dynamic leadership at one end of Pennsylvania Avenue and hesitation at the other end. Even in regard to the Berlin crisis, Johnson had publicly pledged Senate support of Eisenhower's policy at a 2,000-plate Democratic dinner one week before Ike called Democratic leaders to the White House to get their support.

Though the U.S. Constitution wasn't written for back-seat driving, a Barney Oldfield can help to keep the car on the road.

Under The Dome

Sensing a tough battle over his confirmation, Admiral Strauss has been making an astute play for some of the senators who will vote on him. He arranged a Commerce Department ceremony to present the two senators from Alaska with an official set of weights and measures for the new state. Significantly, Sen. Bob Bartlett of Alaska sits on the Interstate Commerce Committee which first votes on Strauss. One senator whose vote Strauss can definitely count on is able, charming John Pastore of Rhode Island, first Italo-American ever to serve in the Senate. During Strauss's feud against Sen. Clint Anderson of New Mexico, Strauss went out of his way to cultivate Pastore as an offset to Anderson on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee. Strauss's staff even wrote speeches for Pastore to deliver on atomic energy. . . . You can expect employment to pick up this month with the first signs of spring. But you can also figure that 4,000,000 workers will be unable to find jobs all summer despite a general boom in business.

No. 1 Nepotist

Ex-Congressman Ridley Mitchell of Tennessee, who preceded Albert Gore in the House of Representatives, has been sorrowing over the way the now Senator from Tennessee, Gore, has deserted the anti-nepotism standards set by Congressman Mitchell.

Mitchell was Washington's greatest crusader against nepotism. Gore is now the Senate's No. 1 nepotist.

"The public will never be made to believe that an appointment of a relative is made on the grounds of merit alone," Mitchell used to quote Thomas Jefferson as saying.

In speech after speech Congressman Mitchell harangued against putting relatives on the payroll.

"The people who elect and send us here have no such comfortable and palatial surroundings," Mitchell told Congress. "Why should their representatives become so much preferred over those who pay the bill? No stream should undertake to rise above its source.

"It is indirectly obtaining money by the means of false pretenses," he continued. "It is a crime against the taxpayers. It is a crime against America. It is selfishness and greed that resembles the practices of the rulers of the dark ages. It is modeled after the so-called divine right of kings.

"Many underpaid clerks are forced to do the work of some wife or daughter or son of a member who receives most of the pay and the clerk who does the real work gets a starvation wage. Shame on a practice of this kind," said the man who preceded Albert Gore in the House of Representatives.

Note — Senator Gore, Democrat, now graduated to the greatest deliberative body in the world, has had a total of five relatives on the payroll.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The twins are seven months old. They bite anything they can lift. One has a gleaming tooth in front. The other has two. I cannot tell whether it is Pamela who is ahead of Robin, or perhaps Robbie is ahead of Pam. In any case, they have three teeth between them.

They are very good at crying and pretty good at saying "Da-da-da!" They say this to their father, with arms and legs flailing and eyes bugged out, but, to show impartiality, they will also go into the Dad-dad routine for me, for the milkman, the grocery boy, too.

They have skin like custard and they have learned to sit. They do well as long as they sit stiff-spined. But, when they try to turn, they topple and then the tears come. They were on a blanket on my living room floor one day, sitting primly in their little white dresses and saddle shoes, and I started to show a sound film of a little girl skiing.

I do not know what Dr. Spock has to say about this, but my twin granddaughters sat silent and attentive through the entire half hour show. Maybe they can understand the images on the screen. While the twins were watching, my twin shepherds sat growling at the loudspeaker. They think that there is a strange man in that box.

About a month ago, Ginny told me that her babies had at last discovered each other. It had not occurred to me that there would come a day when twin sisters would see each other as separate girls. Until now, each paid practically no attention to the other. If one cried while the other was sleeping, the sleeping one remained in repose, on the theory, I guess, that it was listening to an echo of itself.

Now, when Robbie raises her head in her crib, Pam stares blankly for a moment, and then wrinkles her shoe-button nose and squeals with joy. I. the playpen, they amuse each other by the hour, grabbing each other's toys and chewing on each other's hands. There are also two female dogs — Tammy, a 5-month-old German shepherd with ears like a suburban TV antenna, and Flirt, a cocker spaniel who seems to have a litter every few weeks —and the dogs stare into the cage at the infants and think that the world has gone nuts—everything is in reverse.

The girls eat strained vegetables and beef, whipped cream cheese, scrambled eggs and fruit. Pamela weighs 17 pounds; Robin is 16½. They are almost as much alike as two Ping-Pong balls.

They are good to their mother in many ways. They sleep every morning until 8:45. When Mommy comes in half awake and bathrobed to the brows, Pamela is on her back, has kicked the covers off, and is gurgling at the sunlight on the ceiling. Robbie is on her stomach, chewing industriously on the crib bumpers.

All day long, it seems, they are being fed, changed and napped. At 5:30 p. m., Ginny feeds them for the final time. She believes in giving Charlie her full time when he gets home and so, as he drives the car in at 6:30, Ginny has the babies in her arms—both in their "jommies" — and they are permitted a couple of screeches at the sight of their old man (age 22), and then goodnight.

They have their own room, appropriately decorated and, if they want to fight the system, they do it alone because they are tucked in, the heat is turned down, the windows are down a little from the top, the door is closed and they can cry until their complexions are lavender, as far as Ginny is concerned.

She makes dinner for Charlie and herself. The Frechettes dine in candlelight. Ginny is a good cook and a good baker. She must have picked it up when her mother wasn't looking, because my generation of women didn't like housework and thought of nothing but maids and mink.

Charlie is the placid, easy-going type. He is a pretty big redhead who enjoys puttering around the house, and dozing through television programs. Once in a while, they knock off a highball. If they have two, they are in a reckless mood.

Charlie has to rise and shine at 5 a. m. so that he can get to his job in New York with U.S. Trucking, so he is off to bed early. It isn't an exciting life for two kids so young, but they are as completely happy as any couple I've ever seen.

Ginny told me, in confidence, that the next baby will be born in August. One, that is . . .

By air, by submarine, by missile, Great Britain is not more than half an hour away from the enemy and even if the United States puts all its strength to protect the British Isles, the fighting could be in British skies and the damage done to Great Britain would be enormous.

This is the fundamental reason for Prime Minister Macmillan's effort to discover a device for delaying, postponing, eliminating war as a means for settling international differences. The times have changed since the days when Nelson could down the French fleet and Wellington could send Napoleon to his end. As long as there is even a semblance of peace in the world, British manufacturing know-how and financial skill will assume its share of leadership, but a third general war, in which modern unconventional weapons will be used, could completely wipe out the British Isles. How many hydrogen bombs would it take? Not more than half a dozen, probably.

If the Prime Minister had to accept Khrushchev's insults, it was not more than Winston Churchill was forced to take at Yalta where Roosevelt and Stalin divided the world between them behind Churchill's back, and Churchill took what he had to because, as he once put it, he represented a dependent nation.

When President Eisenhower asks us to interest ourselves less in the prospects of war and turn to other subjects, it is like asking a mother not to worry about whether her child has a cold or is coming down with polio. This is particularly true about British public opinion. The British having been straffed twice by German planes and having gone through blackouts and hunger, recognize their peril.

The English Channel which protected them from the days of William the Conqueror, is no longer a defensive moat. The Atlantic, over which the British presided for centuries, is no longer only a passageway for ships but is a series of air-lanes over which the Russians can fly. The atomic submarine, which is now American and which the Russians will undoubtedly build in due course, knows neither time nor obstacle. Armies reduce time and space by travelling airborne in any direction, over the North Pole, along the equator, neither cold nor heat being impediments.

The so-called weak and backward nations which once composed the British Empire and which once provided troops as well as trade, have demanded and obtained independence of one kind or another. But that political independence has not changed their geography. India is where India always was, pregnable to conquering armies that manage to come through the passes of the mountains which separate India from Russia and China. Currently, the influence of Red China is moving southward and westward so rapidly that India squirms before the power of Mao Tze-tung but can get no aid of any real value from Great Britain.

In any new general war, India would be divided between Russia and China, and the United States would have to step in to try to save the Indian Ocean from becoming a Red Chinese sea.

Serious men in Great Britain, those with a sense of geography, are worried about what the new weapons will do to their country. Let it be said truthfully that those who are not fearful of the consequences of the next war, whether they be Russian, British or American, are fools who cannot read the sign-boards of history.

On the other hand, Russian imperialism has become a major nuisance. The Soviet propaganda has worn itself out. What is now as clear as anything can be in history is that Khrushchev wants and needs a massive victory, by diplomacy if possible, by limited wars if possible, by a general war if there is no alternative. The danger to mankind in Khrushchev's political necessities is tragically enormous.

'Don't Call Me Conservative – It Ain't Popular'

Democratic Party Gets Black Eye With People

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Integrity transcends every other issue with the American people — they resent any misuse of their money by public officials and usually defeat at the polls any candidate who is mixed up with what they believe to be a public scandal.

This past week the Democratic Party, which is in control of Congress, got a black eye with the American people. Stories telling how newly elected members of Congress put their relatives on the public payroll, irrespective of their qualifications, were spread on many front pages from coast to coast. One member rented the front porch of his own house back home and charged the government for it.

This same Democratic majority in Congress frowned on Sherman Adams because he accepted a gift of hotel lodgings and a vicuna coat — not paid for by any public funds — even though he did no more than write routine letters of inquiry to governmental agencies about the cases of the donor in question.

But today it is the people's money which is being misused, and, from all appearances, the Democratic-controlled Congress isn't going to do anything about it — not even set up a special committee to investigate all such cases and pronounce judgment on those that are on the level and those that aren't.

There are abuses which approach scandal in the present system. A member of Congress can hire as temporary aides for $60 or $75 a month any of his constituents for the period just before election. This comes out of his office allowance for personnel based on the population of his district or state. This means that some members could put on as many as 150 personal workers at government expense during a campaign. How many members did this in the last campaign? The public has a right to know.

Wasn't this, after all, a campaign contribution made with public money?

Putting relatives on the payroll is an old custom. In some instances the employes have been qualified, as in the case of wives who had previously served in a secretarial capacity. But who is to be the judge? Who represents the public interest in deciding those cases on their merits? Should any member put his son or daughter on the payroll while such persons are students attending school and when they obviously cannot give their whole time to the job? Would the people of the state or district say no other person was as well qualified for the post?

Plainly, since no machinery exists through committees of Congress for passing on such cases, it is natural for the public to accept the inferences being made in the press.

Basically, the American people are sensitive to scandal in public office. The "scandals" during the Truman Administration helped to defeat the Democrats in 1952. In recent months the Democrats have been trying to pin the "corruption" label on the Republicans by emphasizing the Sherman Adams episode, though there has never been uncovered the slightest proof of corruption on his part. He himself admitted he had been "imprudent" because he had not looked a gift horse in the mouth.

But in the recent cases the evidence is plain enough to see. Some members of Congress have put relatives on the payroll as office assistants at salaries ranging from $6,000 to $11,000 a year. Do these employes give full time to their work? How much of this money is a gift of public funds? To whom should members of Congress be accountable on such things?

The leaders of the Democratic Party who are so quick to denounce any "conflict of interest" on the part of officials in the executive branch of the government have done nothing to ferret out the facts about the use of public funds for campaign purposes when temporary employes in large numbers are put on the payroll of members of Congress. Nor has any inquiry been made as to the "conflict of interest" in those cases where members of Congress whose campaigns have been financed by labor-union groups still feel they have a right to cast a vote on pending labor legislation. Judges on the bench disqualify themselves if they hold stock in any company appearing before them in court. Yet several members of Congress accept labor-union funds for their campaigns, though the Federal law says contributions by any labor union or corporation to the election of members of Congress are forbidden.

An inquiry by Congress into its own household affairs has long been overdue. Uuless soon begun, the cry will become nation-wide that people in glass houses shouldn't throw stones, and Congress will be handicapped as it faces its duty to investigate any "conflict of interest" cases happening outside as well as inside congressional offices.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Adm. Lewis M. Strauss is in deep trouble with Congress over his nomination as Secretary of Commerce. Strauss has been serving for several months as an interim appointment since the resignation of Sinclair Weeks.

But Democratic leadership in the Senate is after him. They don't want or think they can block his appointment—no Cabinet nomination has been rejected for years—but they do think they can capitalize by bringing their objections out in the open.

Primarily these objections hinge around the famed Dixon-Yates case of several years ago, and Strauss's stand on private, rather than public development of atomic power for commercial uses.

In the Dixon-Yates case, involving an Atomic Energy commission contract to a public utilities group to build a $100 million electric generating steam plant to supply the city of Memphis, there is some evidence that Strauss, while chairman of the AEC, permitted representatives of the utility concern to work in the government on the contract. This is claimed by Democrats to be a flagrant and outstanding case of conflict of interest.

On commercial development of atomic power, Democrats charge that Strauss held back government-financed development to permit utility companies to move ahead, only to find that the private concerns backed out when cost estimates proved the venture would be unprofitable.

Democrats plan to question Strauss closely and at length on these two matters in the hope of depicting the Eisenhower administration as the "tool" of big business.

Heart Trouble May Deprive Brain Of Oxygen

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The brain cannot run without oxygen; faintness and dizziness occur within a few moments after it is withheld. The heart plays an important role in supplying the brain with blood but until recently the relationship between these two organs has not received the proper recognition.

A 50 year old executive was in a general hospital having an operation on his heart to improve circulation to the brain. The man was developing attacks of lightheadedness and had fainted on several occasions.

The cause of these attacks was traced to poor circulation to the brain, which in turn stemmed from a poorly functioning heart. The aim of the operation was to improve the blood supply to the heart muscle so the organ could pump harder to bring more blood to the brain.

The gray matter is extremely sensitive to lack of blood. Minor symptoms such as dizziness, lightheadedness, restlessness, apprehension, and faintness follow temporary lack of oxygen. If the tissues are deprived of blood for more than 10 minutes, convulsions, disturbed emotional states, and paralysis may ensue.

Heart attacks frequently are associated with symptoms of brain involvement varying from lightheadedness to complete unconsciousness. In such instances the blood flow is sluggish because the heart beat is irregular or feeble or the organ has stopped temporarily.

When a stroke follows a heart attack, the cause usually is traced to clots that have developed in the wall of the left ventricle. This is not a common complication but is one of the reasons why an anticoagulant is given to a person who has had a heart attack.

COLD WEATHER COLDS

M. N. writes: I catch cold every autumn and it stays with me all winter. This is a great handicap in my job. Is there any way it could be prevented.

REPLY

A change of environment, job, or climate is the only answer if you are following the rules of health to the letter in an effort to build resistance during this time of the year. Seasonal colds may be allergic in nature. In others, the nasal membranes cannot adapt to the quick changes in temperature associated with leaving overheated rooms to go out into wintry blasts. Many persons become more susceptible to winter colds because the living and working quarters lack humidity.

LARGE VEIN ON FACE

Mrs. R. writes: I have a disfiguring protruding vein extending from the corner of the mouth to nearly the chin line, which makes that side of the face look as though it were sagging. Can this vein be removed in the same way as a varicose vein in the leg?

REPLY

Yes, but obtain firsthand advice on a problem of this nature. It is unusual for a vein in this area to enlarge.

PERFORATED EARDRUM

D. G. writes: Is there any way to close the hole in a perforated eardrum?

REPLY

Yes. Spontaneous closure is encouraged by controling infection in the ear and keeping the outer canal and drum clean. Plastic surgery may be necessary if these conservative measures fail.

VARICOSITY

D. J. writes: Could a varicose vein be responsible for phlebitis in the leg?

REPLY

Yes.

PLASTIC SURGERY

M. N. writes: Is age 15 too young to have a nose bump removed by plastic surgery?

REPLY

No, but many plastic surgeons prefer to wait until growth is complete.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

The editor of a big national magazine has hit upon a new way of bolstering his sagging circulation figures. When a manuscript is turned down, the frustrated author receives not only a polite rejection slip — but several subscription forms!

Back from a short visit to New York, an English journalist assured his readers, "Those tales you hear of juvenile delinquency in the States are grossly exaggerated. Why, I was there for eight days and didn't see more than a dozen coppers and schoolteachers mowed down. Of course, the rattle of machine-guns and the flashing of switch-blade knives sometimes are annoying at night, but the bodies are always removed from the streets and parks by morning."

Senator Lyndon Johnson Does Not Deserve Title As A Dictator

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Most marked contrast in the Nation's Capitol tody is in regard to leadership. Under the American form of government, leadership is supposed to come from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. The Constitution wasn't written for back-seat driving. Under the present setup in Washington, leadership comes from the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Never in my long history of covering Washington has the leadership contrast been so great. From the White House have come late, sometimes uncertain moves. The White House did not whip a labor bill into shape and send it to Congress until after Senate Democrats got the jump with their own labor bill. The White House did not decide on a civil rights bill until after Sen. Lyndon Johnson had introduced his own bill.

This is in direct contrast to other administrations, both Democrat and Republican.

Ordinarily, major bills are worked out by the White House long before Christmas and sent to Congress during the first week in January. Ike and his cabinet differed on labor and on civil rights, however, dilly-dallied and discussed while the Democrats acted.

The most dynamic figure on Capitol Hill by all odds is Lyndon Johnson. He's doing the back-seat driving. He plays the legislative keyboard as Van Cliburn plays the piano. He has already passed a housing bill, soon will have a space bill, an airport bill, insurance bill, international monetary fund, civil rights, educational TV, and Hawaiian statehood measures enacted into law.

Johnson is now being called a dictator. Actually no man can dictate to the Senate. To get a bill past the Senate, Johnson has to have the OK of 26 members of steering and policy committees, plus a majority vote of the Senate. No one can get away with dictatorship in doing this. On the contrary, it takes persuasion and statesmanship. Johnson should hold more Democratic caucuses. Senator Proxmire of Wisconsin is right about this, and the end result would be the same.

But what makes Johnson appear a dictator is the contrast between dynamic leadership at one end of Pennsylvania Avenue and hesitation at the other end. Even in regard to the Berlin crisis, Johnson had publicly pledged Senate support of Eisenhower's policy at a 2,000-plate Democratic dinner one week before Ike called Democratic leaders to the White House to get their support.

Though the U.S. Constitution wasn't written for back-seat driving, a Barney Oldfield can help to keep the car on the road.

Under The Dome

Sensing a tough battle over his confirmation, Admiral Strauss has been making an astute play for some of the senators who will vote on him. He arranged a Commerce Department ceremony to present the two senators from Alaska with an official set of weights and measures for the new state. Significantly, Sen. Bob Bartlett of Alaska sits on the Interstate Commerce Committee which first votes on Strauss. One senator whose vote Strauss can definitely count on is able, charming John Pastore of Rhode Island, first Italo-American ever to serve in the Senate. During Strauss's feud against Sen. Clint Anderson of New Mexico, Strauss went out of his way to cultivate Pastore as an offset to Anderson on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee. Strauss's staff even wrote speeches for Pastore to deliver on atomic energy. . . . You can expect employment to pick up this month with the first signs of spring. But you can also figure that 4,000,000 workers will be unable to find jobs all summer despite a general boom in business.

No. 1 Nepotist

Ex-Congressman Ridley Mitchell of Tennessee, who preceded Albert Gore in the House of Representatives, has been sorrowing over the way the now Senator from Tennessee, Gore, has deserted the anti-nepotism standards set by Congressman Mitchell.

Mitchell was Washington's greatest crusader against nepotism. Gore is now the Senate's No. 1 nepotist.

"The public will never be made to believe that an appointment of a relative is made on the grounds of merit alone," Mitchell used to quote Thomas Jefferson as saying.

In speech after speech Congressman Mitchell harangued against putting relatives on the payroll.

"The people who elect and send us here have no such comfortable and palatial surroundings," Mitchell told Congress. "Why should their representatives become so much preferred over those who pay the bill? No stream should undertake to rise above its source.

"It is indirectly obtaining money by the means of false pretenses," he continued. "It is a crime against the taxpayers. It is a crime against America. It is selfishness and greed that resembles the practices of the rulers of the dark ages. It is modeled after the so-called divine right of kings.

"Many underpaid clerks are forced to do the work of some wife or daughter or sop of a member who receives most of the pay and the clerk who does the real work gets a starvation wage. Shame on a practice of this kind," said the man who preceded Albert Gore in the House of Representatives.

Note — Senator Gore, Democrat, now graduated to the greatest deliberative body in the world, has had a total of five relatives on the payroll.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The twins are seven months old. They bite anything they can lift. One has a gleaming tooth in front. The other has two. I cannot tell whether it is Pamela who is ahead of Robin, or perhaps Robbie is ahead of Pam. In any case, they have three teeth between them.

They are very good at crying and pretty good at saying "Da-da-da!" They say this to their father, with arms and legs flailing and eyes bugged out, but, to show impartiality, they will also go into the Dad-dad routine for me, for the milkman, the grocery boy, too.

They have skin like custard and they have learned to sit. They do well as long as they sit stiff-spined. But, when they try to turn, they topple and then the tears come. They were on a blanket on my living room floor one day, sitting primly in their little white dresses and saddle shoes, and I started to show a sound film of a little girl skiing.

I do not know what Dr. Spock has to say about this, but my twin granddaughters sat silent and attentive through the entire half hour show. Maybe they can understand the images on the screen. While the twins were watching, my twin shepherds sat growling at the loudspeaker. They think that there is a strange man in that box.

About a month ago, Ginny told me that her babies had at last discovered each other. It had not occurred to me that there would come a day when twin sisters would see each other as separate girls. Until now, each paid practically no attention to the other. If one cried while the other was sleeping, the sleeping one remained in repose, on the theory, I guess, that it was listening to an echo of itself.

Now, when Robbie raises her head in her crib, Pam stares blankly for a moment, and then wrinkles her shoe-button nose and squeals with joy. I. the playpen, they amuse each other by the hour, grabbing each other's toys and chewing on each other's hands. There are also two female dogs — Tammy, a 5-month-old German shepherd with ears like a suburban TV antenna, and Flirt, a cocker spaniel who seems to have a litter every few weeks —and the dogs stare into the cage at the infants and think that the world has gone nuts—everything is in reverse.

The girls eat strained vegetables and beef, whipped cream cheese, scrambled eggs and fruit. Pamela weighs 17 pounds; Robin is 16½. They are almost as much alike as two Ping-Pong balls.

They are good to their mother in many ways. They sleep every morning until 8:45. When Mommy comes in half awake and bathrobed to the brows, Pamela is on her back, has kicked the covers off, and is gurgling at the sunlight on the ceiling. Robbie is on her stomach, chewing industriously on the crib bumpers.

All day long, it seems, they are being fed, changed and napped. At 5:30 p. m., Ginny feeds them for the final time. She believes in giving Charlie her full time when he gets home and so, as he drives the car in at 6:30, Ginny has the babies in her arms—both in their "jommies" — and they are permitted a couple of screeches at the sight of their old man (age 22), and then goodnight.

They have their own room, appropriately decorated and, if they want to fight the system, they do it alone because they are tucked in, the heat is turned down, the windows are down a little from the top, the door is closed and they can cry until their complexions are lavender, as far as Ginny is concerned.

She makes dinner for Charlie and herself. The Frechettes dine in candlelight. Ginny is a good cook and a good baker. She must have picked it up when her mother wasn't looking, because my generation of women didn't like housework and thought of nothing but maids and mink.

Charlie is the placid, easy-going type. He is a pretty big redhead who enjoys puttering around the house, and dozing through television programs. Once in a while, they knock off a highball. If they have two, they are in a reckless mood.

Charlie has to rise and shine at 5 a. m. so that he can get to his job in New York with U.S. Trucking, so he is off to bed early. It isn't an exciting life for two kids so young, but they are as completely happy as any couple I've ever seen.

Ginny told me, in confidence, that the next baby will be born in August. One, that is . . .

University Researchers View Economy

Survey Cites Need For Manufacturing

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —A study of long-range economic trends by two West Virginia University researchers indicates that growth of manufacturing industries will help diversify and stabilize the state economy during the next decade.

But Donald E. Hayhurt and W. W. Kampfer see serious pitfalls confronting West Virginia

Their 59-page study titled "Financing Unemployment Benefits in West Virginia" says that only large new investments can produce enough new jobs to take up the slack in industries where employment is declining by marked degrees.

They also said that while state revenue from major taxes on business has been increasing in terms of current dollars, it has declined slightly in terms of constant dollars. They see a continuation of this trend.

Hayhurst and Kampfer said the state's current population decline is expected to continue until 1965, especially through loss of young people to out-of-state industries.

Also noted was the fact that the state's per capita income, now among the lowest nine states of the union, "has been declining relative to its sister states since 1929."

"Manufacturing has replaced mining as the state's largest employers and will likely increase its dominance," they said. "Coal, however, is fundamental to the state's economy and is directly or indirectly responsible for the bulk of employment within the state."

Maplehurst Women Rehearse For Style Show

Three of the models for the combined fashion show and card party, sponsored by Maplehurst Country Club to be held March 17 at Clarysville Inn are pictured above with some of the fashions to be shown. Proceeds from the affair will be used to purchase equipment for the children's playground at Maplehurst. Left to right are Miss Marie Goebel, Mrs. Jonathon Jenkins and Mrs. Nick Harris. Hill Street Mothers Set Easter Party

FROSTBURG — The Hill Street Kindergarten Mothers Club met a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Ann Shuman, with Mrs. Delores Jenkins and Mrs. Margaret Jackson as co-hostesses.

Reports were given by Virginia Thomas, secretary, and Barbara Drew, treasurer. It was announced that the project of painting and making draperies for the kindergarten was nearly completed.

The annual Easter party for the children will be held Wednesday, March 25. Each mother is to send to the school an Easter basket filled with straw with the child's name attached no later than Tuesday, March 24. The baskets will be filled by the kindergarten mothers.

The Mothers covered dish supper will be held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Phillips, 126 Mt. Pleasant Street, Wednesday, April 1. Co-hostesses will be Margaret Ware, Ruth Armstrong, Wanda Raley and Mrs. Charles Horne.

It was announced that there still are a number of openings for the coming year. Children between the ages of four and six years are eligible to attend either the morning session or all day.

It was also noted that the kindergarten has been accredited each year for the past ten years by the State Board of Education.

W.Va. Association Of Higher Education Sets Annual Meet

KEYSER—The annual meeting of the West Virginia Association of Higher Education will take place Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, April 9-11 at Jackson's Mill, according to William E. Michael of the biological sciences department, Potomac State College, president of the state organization.

The theme for the conclave is "Exploring and Implementing the Program of Higher Education In West Virginia."

Administrators at Potomac State decided that classes will be discontinued on Friday, April 10 to allow faculty members to attend the state meeting.

The program Friday will open with council meetings and a general session in which officers will give reports. The morning session will be concluded with a keynote address.

Following lunch, discussion groups will consider "The Gifted Student," "Enrollment Trends," "Standards," and "Faculty-Student Problems."

The second general session will convene at 4 pm to hear reports of various committees. A banquet has been slated for 6 pm. The speaker will be a prominent educator who will address the participants on the subject, "Implementing The Program of Higher Education in West Virginia."

Norman E. Rodgers, member of the executive committee, will meet with the permanent program committee on the evening of April 9.

Bedford Banks To Open At Night

BEDFORD — Bedford banks have agreed to remain open Friday nights starting April 3 and to close all day Saturday when the Friday night openings go into effect.

The two local banks, in effect, thus voted to go along with the Retail Merchants Association in its new plan to open downtown Bedford stores Friday nights.

The retailers' group voted early in February to try a series of experimental Friday night openings.

Legislature Pushes Back Time Table For Action On West Virginia Budget

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The Legislature's timetable for action on the budget bill was pushed back one day or more Tuesday. It may be Thursday or Friday before the House and Senate versions are sent to a conference committee that will draw up the final document.

The Senate, which had been scheduled to consider amendments and pass its $112,681,599 Tuesday, held the bill over one day on the amendment stage.

Finance Chairman Glenn Jackson said he would wait until agreement is nearer on several revenue bills that remain in dispute between the two chambers.

A conference committee is already at work on the Senate's $3,000,000 and the House's $200,000 property transfer tax bill. The House is scheduled to vote Wednesday on major amendments to a Senate-passed bill to extend the gross sales tax to professionals.

The House meanwhile, moved its $112,739,910 budget to the passage stage Wednesday with amendments still pending. A vote will be delayed until the House decides whether to accept Finance Committee amendments that would boost the yield of the Senate's gross sales tax - on-professions from $300,000 to $7,000,000.

The House budget was reported to the floor last Saturday and the Senate version Monday and it had appeared that they would be sent to a conference committee as early as Tuesday or Wednesday.

Pop Bill Passed

In other action:

—The Senate passed a bill to repeal the 1958 extension of the soft drinks tax, except as it applies to home mixes which compete with soft drinks. The House immediately substituted its own bill calling for outright repeal of the extension and the measures were to be sent to a conference committee.

—Final approval was given to a proposed constitutional amendment designed to provide for orderly continuation of the Legislature in case of enemy attack. It would allow each senator and delegate to name three to alternates to replace him if he were unable to serve. The House - approved resolution was adopted unanimously by the Senate and will be submitted to a vote of the people in 1960.

—Sent to the governor after the House concurred in Senate amendments was a bill requiring payment of the 2 per cent privilege tax on the full price of motor vehicles bought outside the state and registered in West Virginia. Under present law any trade-in allowance may be deducted before the tax is computed. The bill, passed 94-1, will raise an estimated $200,000 for the road fund.

—The House passes 91-5 and sent to the Senate a bill revamping state mental health laws, especially commitment of insane persons. It was first amended to remove a section which would have made Barboursville State Hospital a unit of nearby Huntington State Hospital.

The House also passed 96-1 and sent to the governor a bill providing for creation of five area business development councils to work with the state Industrial and Publicity Commission on industrial development. One of the main changes will allow banks to contribute to loans funds set up to attract new, or expand existing, industry.

The House concurred in Senate amendments and passed unanimously a bill setting up a limited program of inspection of state-slaughtered meat and meat products by the State Agriculture Department. It goes to the governor to be signed.

Relocation Bill Dies

Killed through a complex series of maneuvers was a bill that would have required the Road Commission to pay the cost of relocating public utility facilities moved to make way for Interstate highway projects.

Road Committee Chairman William Parker (D-Marion) asked the House to bring the bill from his committee because he had been unable to gather a quorum Tuesday morning to act on it. The House recessed to let the committee meet, then voted 58-37 against bringing the bill out although Parker said the committee favored it 16 to 6.

Passed 94-2 and sent to the Senate was a bill to allow re-imposition of tolls on the Huntington-Chesapeake, Ohio, bridge to help finance a proposed new Ohio River bridge at Huntington.

Moved up to a final vote Wednesday was a bill to extend the authority of the legislative auditor to make post - audits of spending by state agencies.

The House defeated, by votes that generally followed party lines, amendments by Minority Leader George H. Seibert to require that future legislative auditors be certified public accountants, and to require annual audits of the legislative auditor's office by the state auditor.

Moved up to a final Senate vote Wednesday was a proposed constitutional amendment calling for issuance of $170,000,000 in bonds over a six-year period to finance modernization of West Virginia highways.

The House has been considering a similar $200,000,000 program, but referred the resolution back to committee Tuesday after deciding to go along with the Senate version.

Byrd-Randolph Urge Federal Aid To Jobless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. Robert Byrd and Jennings Randolph (both D-W. Va.) told the Senate Tuesday that suffering in West Virginia due to unemployment was as bad as it was in the early '30s.

And they said they would speak out daily on the subject, if necessary, until some action is taken to relieve the situation.

Byrd, who conducted three public hearings last week in his home state as a member of a Senate sub-committee studying "depressed areas" legislation, said he knew conditions were bad but said they were even worse than he thought.

"I came away more appalled than ever that such senseless hardship could be allowed to exist in our thriving nation," he said.

Byrd pointed to testimony by some 75 witnesses at the West Virginia hearings concerning food and clothing thefts by desperate people, reports of disease resulting from malnutrition, intentional separations by couples in order that wives and children could qualify for welfare benefits and a decline in retail sales which has caused many small businesses to close.

Byrd and Randolph urged passage of several emergency and long-range measures aimed at providing jobs in stricken regions, extending unemployment compensation benefits and increasing surplus food handouts.

University Researchers View Economy

Survey Cites Need For Manufacturing

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —A study of long-range economic trends by two West Virginia University researchers indicates that growth of manufacturing industries will help diversify and stabilize the state economy during the next decade.

But Donald E. Hayhurt and W. W. Kampfer see serious pitfalls confronting West Virginia

Their 59-page study titled "Financing Unemployment Benefits in West Virginia" says that only large new investments can produce enough new jobs to take up the slack in industries where employment is declining by marked degrees.

They also said that while state revenue from major taxes on business has been increasing in terms of current dollars, it has declined slightly in terms of constant dollars. They see a continuation of this trend.

Hayhurst and Kampfer said the state's current population decline is expected to continue until 1965, especially through loss of young people to out-of-state industries.

Also noted was the fact that the state's per capita income, now among the lowest nine states of the union, "has been declining relative to its sister states since 1929."

"Manufacturing has replaced mining as the state's largest employers and will likely increase its dominance," they said. "Coal, however, is fundamental to the state's economy and is directly or indirectly responsible for the bulk of employment within the state."

Maplehurst Women Rehearse For Style Show

Hill Street Mothers Set Easter Party

FROSTBURG — The Hill Street Kindergarten Mothers Club met a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Ann Shuman, with Mrs. Delores Jenkins and Mrs. Margaret Jackson as co-hostesses.

Reports were given by Virginia Thomas, secretary, and Barbara Drew, treasurer. It was announced that the project of painting and making draperies for the kindergarten was nearly completed.

The annual Easter party for the children will be held Wednesday, March 25. Each mother is to send to the school an Easter basket filled with straw with the child's name attached no later than Tuesday, March 24. The baskets will be filled by the kindergarten mothers.

The Mothers covered dish supper will be held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Phillips, 126 Mt. Pleasant Street, Wednesday, April 1. Co-hostesses will be Margaret Ware, Ruth Armstrong, Wanda Raley and Mrs. Charles Horne.

It was announced that there still are a number of openings for the coming year. Children between the ages of four and six years are eligible to attend either the morning session or all day.

It was also noted that the kindergarten has been accredited each year for the past ten years by the State Board of Education.

W.Va. Association Of Higher Education Sets Annual Meet

KEYSER—The annual meeting of the West Virginia Association of Higher Education will take place Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, April 9-11 at Jackson's Mill, according to William E. Michael of the biological sciences department, Potomac State College, president of the state organization.

The theme for the conclave is "Exploring and Implementing the Program of Higher Education In West Virginia."

Administrators at Potomac State decided that classes will be discontinued on Friday, April 10 to allow faculty members to attend the state meeting.

The program Friday will open with council meetings and a general session in which officers will give reports. The morning session will be concluded with a keynote address.

Following lunch, discussion groups will consider "The Gifted Student," "Enrollment Trends," "Standards," and "Faculty-Student Problems."

The second general session will convene at 4 pm to hear reports of various committees. A banquet has been slated for 6 pm. The speaker will be a prominent educator who will address the participants on the subject, "Implementing The Program of Higher Education in West Virginia."

Norman E. Rodgers, member of the executive committee, will meet with the permanent program committee on the evening of April 9.

Bedford Banks To Open At Night

BEDFORD — Bedford banks have agreed to remain open Friday nights starting April 3 and to close all day Saturday when the Friday night openings go into effect.

The two local banks, in effect, thus voted to go along with the Retail Merchants Association in its new plan to open downtown Bedford stores Friday nights.

The retailers' group voted early in February to try a series of experimental Friday night openings.

Piedmont Firemen Renew Fund Appeal

PIEDMONT — Members of Tri-Towns Fire Company No. 1, are reminding citizens of the community to fill their coin cards. They will be collected about the middle of May.

Approximately $2,700 is needed for a payment on the new fire truck and the coin cards are the only way the firemen have of raising the money.

Returns are slow in coming in but firemen hope the people will cooperate and fill these cards and help pay for the new truck which has greatly increased fire protection of Piedmont and the surrounding area, a spokesman said.

Legislature Pushes Back Time Table For Action On West Virginia Budget

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The Legislature's timetable for action on the budget bill was pushed back one day or more Tuesday. It may be Thursday or Friday before the House and Senate versions are sent to a conference committee that will draw up the final document.

The Senate, which had been scheduled to consider amendments and pass its $112,681,599 Tuesday, held the bill over one day on the amendment stage.

Finance Chairman Glenn Jackson said he would wait until agreement is nearer on several revenue bills that remain in dispute between the two chambers.

A conference committee is already at work on the Senate's $3,000,000 and the House's $200,000 property transfer tax bill. The House is scheduled to vote Wednesday on major amendments to a Senate-passed bill to extend the gross sales tax to professionals.

The House meanwhile, moved its $112,739,910 budget to the passage stage Wednesday with amendments still pending. A vote will be delayed until the House decides whether to accept Finance Committee amendments that would boost the yield of the Senate's gross sales tax - on-professions from $300,000 to $7,000,000.

The House budget was reported to the floor last Saturday and the Senate version Monday and it had appeared that they would be sent to a conference committee as early as Tuesday or Wednesday.

Pop Bill Passed

In other action:

—The Senate passed a bill to repeal the 1958 extension of the soft drinks tax, except as it applies to home mixes which compete with soft drinks. The House immediately substituted its own bill calling for outright repeal of the extension and the measures were to be sent to a conference committee.

—Final approval was given to a proposed constitutional amendment designed to provide for orderly continuation of the Legislature in case of enemy attack. It would allow each senator and delegate to name three to alternates to replace him if he were unable to serve. The House - approved resolution was adopted unanimously by the Senate and will be submitted to a vote of the people in 1960.

—Sent to the governor after the House concurred in Senate amendments was a bill requiring payment of the 2 per cent privilege tax on the full price of motor vehicles bought outside the state and registered in West Virginia. Under present law any trade-in allowance may be deducted before the tax is computed. The bill, passed 94-1, will raise an estimated $200,000 for the road fund.

—The House passes 91-5 and sent to the Senate a bill revamping state mental health laws, especially commitment of insane persons. It was first amended to remove a section which would have made Barboursville State Hospital a unit of nearby Huntington State Hospital.

The House also passed 96-1 and sent to the governor a bill providing for creation of five area business development councils to work with the state Industrial and Publicity Commission on industrial development. One of the main changes will allow banks to contribute to loans funds set up to attract new, or expand existing, industry.

The House concurred in Senate amendments and passed unanimously a bill setting up a limited program of inspection of state-slaughtered meat and meat products by the State Agriculture Department. It goes to the governor to be signed.

Relocation Bill Dies

Killed through a complex series of maneuvers was a bill that would have required the Road Commission to pay the cost of relocating public utility facilities moved to make way for Interstate highway projects.

Road Committee Chairman William Parker (D-Marion) asked the House to bring the bill from his committee because he had been unable to gather a quorum Tuesday morning to act on it. The House recessed to let the committee meet, then voted 58-37 against bringing the bill out although Parker said the committee favored it 16 to 6.

Passed 94-2 and sent to the Senate was a bill to allow re-imposition of tolls on the Huntington-Chesapeake, Ohio, bridge to help finance a proposed new Ohio River bridge at Huntington.

Moved up to a final vote Wednesday was a bill to extend the authority of the legislative auditor to make post - audits of spending by state agencies.

The House defeated, by votes that generally followed party lines, amendments by Minority Leader George H. Seibert to require that future legislative auditors be certified public accountants, and to require annual audits of the legislative auditor's office by the state auditor.

Moved up to a final Senate vote Wednesday was a proposed constitutional amendment calling for issuance of $170,000,000 in bonds over a six-year period to finance modernization of West Virginia highways.

The House has been considering a similar $200,000,000 program, but referred the resolution back to committee Tuesday after deciding to go along with the Senate version.

Joint Moves Made To Save Hospital

Moves were made yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and the City of Frostburg to provide for continued operation of Miners Hospital.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners instructed Leslie J. Clark, board attorney, to prepare legislation poviding for an enabling act to establish a special taxing district to continue operation of Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

Mr. Clark said the special taxing district would cover that area of the county which the hospital serves. This would include Frostburg and adjacent communities and also areas in that section which are outside incorporated towns.

He said the enabling act would be in the nature of "stopgap" legislation in the event the governor signed a House bill which will cut off state aid to the hospital in 1960.

Commissioner John J. Rowan, president of the board, said that the county would be unable to assume operation of the hospital due to the financial status of the county. Commissioner John Tucker Mason said the enabling act would be one means of providing for the continued operation of the institution.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he was in favor of the enabling act as a "last resort" and hopes that in the meantime some non-profit organization could be formed to operate the institution.

The hospital authorities were notified about two years ago that the state planned to eventually cut off state aid and some means should be decided upon to continue the institution. Since that time no method of continuing the hospital without state aid has been devised.

Telegrams outlining the position of the Mayor and Council of Frostburg in regard to the operation of Miners Hospital in that community were sent to a number of state officials following a special meeting of the town officials Monday night.

The session was called following action last week by the House Ways and Means Committee which sponsored a bill for the removal of direct financial support by the state for the Frostburg institution.

Mayor Joseph James said Council authorized City Clerk William Vogtman to send a telegram to the House Ways and Means Committee requesting a meeting with that body at the earliest possible time.

Copies of the telegram were sent to State Sen. Charles M. See, Del. Fred Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County delegation, and Del. Lester Reed, minority leader of the House.

The telegram, addressed to Del. Gordon Boone, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, read:

"We regret to learn through local newspapers that the board of directors of Miners Hospital have failed to fulfill their 'gentlemen's agreement' with the legislative council of May 1956 with regard to operating the Miners Hospital without state aid. We request you reconsider original agreement and to withhold House Bill 526. We also request audience with your honorable body at your earliest convenience."

According to Frostburg Council spokemen in May of 1956, members of the Miners Hospital board along with county and Frostburg officials and a delegation of approximately 50 interested citizens traveled to Baltimore for the purpose of having state aid continued for the hospital.

Members of the hospital board present at that meeting were unable to give the necessary facts or figures concerning the operation cost of the hospital when questioned by the Legislative Council, city officials say. One of the delegates came up with several answers to questions by members of the Legislative Council which gained the opportunity of having time extended to the hospital board, with the understanding they were to put their house in order to eventually take over operation of the hospital.

Several weeks later, council spokesmen said, a member of the Miners Hospital board was questioned if any action was taken toward outlining such a program. The member stated that 'everything would be all right.'

It was pointed out that during the next five months no information, action or reports of progress were submitted to the council body. After discussing the problem in the official session, it was decided that Council should call for a special meeting with the hospital board and invite the county commissioners and state delegates who could be present to attend a special meeting, which was held November 7, 1956.

No definite action was taken at the meeting since the hospital officials still were without facts or figures as to the operating costs, etc.

Mayor Joseph James asked at that time if it would be possible for them to supply the city officials with the necessary information as it would be most important to whatever group of men who would be representing the City of Frostburg when and if the state decided to discontinue financial aid.

Mayor James stated that Council assumed it should be given these facts as it could change tax rates to the citizens of Frostburg should the city be required to operate the hospital.

Council reported the hospital board members promised this cooperation, but to date, and with practically a complete new council body, has never invited a member of the City Council to sit in on a business meeting, or has ever given the information promised over two and a half years ago.

Mayor James said that it was the opinion of the present Council body that it should be afforded the opportunity to set up a special committee to formulate a workable program for Miners Hospital and make a full report to the Mayor and Council in order that they may determine what ection will be necessary when the state finally discontinues aid.

County Studies Bid For Pigeon Control Fund

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday was requested to contribute $100 to the project for eliminating pigeons and starlings from county buildings in Cumberland.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, and Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the board to outline the plan. They said a concerted campaign against the birds, particularly pigeons, is being planned.

Mr. Petersen said the City of Cumberland will contribute $100, the Retail Merchants Association, $200 and the South End Businessmen's Association and the B&O Railroad will be asked to give $100 each. Petersen said that the Chamber of Commerce will add an additional $200 so that outlying residential areas in the city can be covered.

John J. Rowan, board president, said he would like to look into the matter before going ahead. Dr. van Strien said the program would be on an all-year basis and eventually would be assumed entirely by governmental agencies as a new health protection service.

He cited the disease, fire hazard from nesting of the birds, and damage to properties as reason for wiping out the pests.

Road Equipment Inventory Filed

An inventory of all equipment, office furnishings, materials and other items of the Allegany County Roads Department was submitted to the county commissioners yesterday by Harry Skelly, roads supervisor.

Skelly said it required a month to list the entire inventory of his department. The list will be used by a committee of insurance men surveying county properties to determine what needs to be covered.

Skelly was congratulated by the commissioners for his election last Friday to the presidency of the County Engineers Association of Maryland.

The board also received a request from the C & P Telephone Company for renewal of a permit to install utility poles along county roads. Skelly said he has conferred with the phone company recently concerning the moving of certain poles for safety reasons.

Liquor Bill Hearing Set For Tuesday

A hearing on House Bill 352 which would provide for a referendum on the extra hour sale of alcoholic beverages in Allegany County has been scheduled for Tuesday at 3:30 p. m.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, this city, chairman of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly, said the hearing will be held in the Alcoholic Beverages Committee hearing room in the State House.

The bill, sponsored by Delegates Thomas F. Conlon Jr., Noel Speir Cook, Driscoll and William Walsh, would extend the selling hour from midnight until 1 a. m. Monday through Friday.

Under the proposed law Saturday closing would remain at midnight.

Last night the House of Delegates passed three Allegany County House bills and sent them to the Senate.

Included was House Bill 336, which would provide a "Fire Taxing Area" for residents of LaVale; House Bill 422, which would increase the marriage license fees by $2; House Bill 463, which would allow photostatic copies of county records. House Bill 427, which vould raise the salaries of circuit court judges, was re-referred to the Allegany and Washington delegations for a joint study.

Home Permits Issued By County

The Allegany County Assessing Department has issued home building permits to three residents of the county.

Arthur A. Vickers, of Weires Avenue, LaVale, was issued a permit to build a brick veneer dwelling at a cost of about $18,000. The 38 feet by 26 feet structure will have a concrete block foundation and composition shingle roof. It will also have a cellar.

A permit to erect a dwelling in the Bowman's Addition section has been granted by the Allegany County Assessing Department to S. Robert Wigfield, 138 Reynolds Street.

The residence will be 27 by 44 feet, have brick veneer walls and concrete block foundation. The roof will be of composition shingles. Cost is estimated at $5,000.

The other permit was issued to James Foutz, of Temperance Row, Barton, who plans to build a frame and brick veneer dwelling with a concrete block foundation and composition shingle roof. The home is expected to cost about $8,000 to build. It will have a cellar.

Man Gets Year In Reformatory

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday found Nelson Carl Bloss, 23, of 920 Gay Street, guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a three-year-old girl and imposed a one year sentence in the State Reformatory for Males.

Bloss had appealed from a one-year term in the House of Correction which had been imposed by Magistrate Fred Anderson last month in Juvenile Court.

Judge Harris heard the appeal yesterday and a psychiatrist testified that Bloss was a defective delinquent. Judge Harris said he would recommend the transfer of Bloss to the Patuxent Institution for defective delinquents for treatment.

Badminton Play Continues Today

Recreation Department - sponsored badminton play will continue today from 7 to 10 p. m. in the Fort Hill High School boys' gym.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, said the sessions, which will end March 25, have been well attended.

Mason also announced that the Women's Recreation Association will not meet this week because of the women's invitational basketball tourney at Fort Hill. The WRA will have its final two sessions of the season March 18 and March 25.

Three Hurt In Accidents

Three men were admitted to Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon as a result of accidents.

Admitted were Eugene Whitfield, 27, of 153 Main Street, Frostburg; Jess A. DeVore, 75, of 456 Williams Street, and Charles C. Kelly, 64, of Potomac Park. Hospital attaches yesterday reported all three men in "fair" condition.

Whitfield was admitted to the hospital after being pinned by a truck crane while working at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

Whitfield, an employe of the Hazelwood Construction Company, was oiling the crane when the accident occurred. He was reportedly squeezed between the truck and crane.

DeVore sustained an injury to his thigh and left arm when he fell down two steps at his home.

Kelly was injured while working at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America. Attaches said he caught his left index finger in a machine at the plant.

Joint Moves Made To Save Hospital

Moves were made yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and the City of Frostburg to provide for continued operation of Miners Hospital.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners instructed Leslie J. Clark, board attorney, to prepare legislation poviding for an enabling act to establish a special taxing district to continue operation of Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

Mr. Clark said the special taxing district would cover that area of the county which the hospital serves. This would include Frostburg and adjacent communities and also areas in that section which are outside incorporated towns.

He said the enabling act would be in the nature of "stop-gap" legislation in the event the governor signed a House bill which will cut off state aid to the hospital in 1960.

Commissioner John J. Rowan, president of the board, said that the county would be unable to assume operation of the hospital due to the financial status of the county. Commissioner John Tucker Mason said the enabling act would be one means of providing for the continued operation of the institution.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he was in favor of the enabling act as a "last resort" and hopes that in the meantime some non-profit organization could be formed to operate the institution.

The hospital authorities were notified about two years ago that the state planned to eventually cut off state aid and some means should be decided upon to continue the institution. Since that time no method of continuing the hospital without state aid has been devised.

Telegrams outlining the position of the Mayor and Council of Frostburg in regard to the operation of Miners Hospital in that community were sent to a number of state officials following a special meeting of the town officials Monday night.

The session was called following action last week by the House Ways and Means Committee which sponsored a bill for the removal of direct financial support by the state for the Frostburg institution.

Mayor Joseph James said Council authorized City Clerk William Vogtman to send a telegram to the House Ways and Means Committee requesting a meeting with that body at the earliest possible time.

Copies of the telegram were sent to State Sen. Charles M. See, Del. Fred Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County delegation, and Del. Lester Reed, minority leader of the House.

The telegram, addressed to Del. Gordon Boone, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, read:

"We regret to learn through local newspapers that the board of directors of Miners Hospital have failed to fulfill their 'gentlemen's agreement' with the legislative council of May 1956 with regard to operating the Miners Hospital without state aid. We request you reconsider original agreement and to withhold House Bill 526. We also request audience with your honorable body at your earliest convenience."

According to Frostburg Council spokemen in May of 1956, members of the Miners Hospital board along with county and Frostburg officials and a delegation of approximately 50 interested citizens traveled to Baltimore for the purpose of having state aid continued for the hospital.

Members of the hospital board present at that meeting were unable to give the necessary facts or figures concerning the operation cost of the hospital when questioned by the Legislative Council, city officials say. One of the delegates came up with several answers to questions by members of the Legislative Council which gained the opportunity of having time extended to the hospital board, with the understanding they were to put their house in order to eventually take over operation of the hospital.

Several weeks later, council spokesmen said, a member of the Miners Hospital board was questioned if any action was taken toward outlining such a program. The member stated that 'everything would be all right.'

It was pointed out that during the next five months no information, action or reports of progress were submitted to the council body. After discussing the problem in the official session, it was decided that Council should call for a special meeting with the hospital board and invite the county commissioners and state delegates who could be present to attend a special meeting, which was held November 7, 1956.

No definite action was taken at the meeting since the hospital officials still were without facts or figures as to the operating costs, etc.

Mayor Joseph James asked at that time if it would be possible for them to supply the city officials with the necessary information as it would be most important to whatever group of men who would be representing the City of Frostburg when and if the state decided to discontinue financial aid.

Mayor James stated that Council assumed it should be given these facts as it could change tax rates to the citizens of Frostburg should the city be required to operate the hospital.

Council reported the hospital board members promised this cooperation, but to date, and with practically a complete new council body, has never invited a member of the City Council to sit in on a business meeting, or has ever given the information promised over two and a half years ago.

Mayor James said that it was the opinion of the present Council body that it should be afforded the opportunity to set up a special committee to formulate a workable program for Miners Hospital and make a full report to the Mayor and Council in order that they may determine what ection will be necessary when the state finally discontinues aid.

Valley Beats Surrattsville, 57-47, Gains State Berth

Lauder Makes 22 Points In 22nd Victory

Rising Sun Next Opponent Friday At College Park

Exploding for 17 points in the third quarter after being held to a 25-25 tie in the first half, Valley High School's Black Knights defeated Surrattsville High School's Hornets from Prince Georges county last night at North Hagerstown High School by the score of 57-47 and qualified for the Class B semi-finals in the Maryland state championship basketball tournament which gets under way Friday at the University of Maryland.

The Hornets from Prince Georges County gave the Allegany county champions an interesting battle for two periods but thereafter Valley took charge and rolled to its 22nd victory in 24 outings. It was the sixth consecutive triumph for Coach John C. Meyers' quint which is slated to battle Rising Sun, of Cecil county, Friday at 2:30 p.m., in a Class B contest at College Park.

Valley Leads, 14-8

Valley jumped off to a 14-8 lead in the first period of last night's contest but Surrattsville slammed in four successive goals to grab a 16-14 edge 1:05 after the second quarter got under way. Wayne Griffith, Jesse McLain and Martin Padgett sank shots from the field to knot the count at 14-all. Then Brooke Crist snared a rebound and meshed a fielder to give the Hornets a two-point advantage. Jim Chappell, on an assist from George Lauder, shot the goal that tied it up at 16-16 and "Tippy" Metts' basket made it 18-16 in Valley's favor.

The Knights clung to the lead until just before the buzzer sounded at halftime when Padgett tossed in a one-hander that enabled the Prince Georges' quint to even up the count at 25-all. It was Padgett's outside shooting that kept the Hornets in the game during the first half as he accounted for five of his team's 11 field goals. During the first half the score was knotted at 4, 14, 16 and 25 and the lead changed hands on three occasions.

Lauder Turns Tide

A jump shot by George Lauder, however, turned the tide of battle as the third period got under way and the Knights were never headed again. The Knights outscored the Hornets 17 to 9 in the third stanza and held a 15-13 edge in the final heat.

Lauder accounted for 22 of Valley's points and 16 were registered in the second half—12 of which came on field goals. His goal output for the evening was eight and he converted 6 of nine shots at the 15-foot line. "Tippy" Metts garnered 10 points, "Hank" Winner nine and Bobby Brown eight for the victors.

Sink 21 Of 57 Shots

Valley posted a shooting average of .368 by sinking 21 of 57 shots from the field while Surrattsville skidded to a .254 by hooping only 17 out of 67. The Knights meshed 15 of 22 free throws to the opposition's 13 out of 24.

Padgett was Surrattsville's high point man with seven baskets and 15 tallies. Jesse McLain collected 13 points and Mike O'Connell obtained ten.

Brooke Crist of Surrattsville and Valley's Winner exited on fouls in the final period.

Tri-State Junior Conference Elects Lough As President

KEYSER, March 10—Dana G. "Horse" Lough, athletic director and football and basketball coach at Potomac State College, recently was elected president of the Tri-State Junior College Athletic Conference at a meeting held in Hagerstown.

The veteran mentor was selected unanimously for the position by coaches of the conference.

The conference has been in operation for two years and sponsors football and basketball leagues.

Potomac State's football team won the conference title in 1958 while the basketball team copped runner-up honors in tournaments two years in a row.

McGee's Six Posts Second Tourney Win

CC & S Sextet Cops Initial Tilt, 63-11

McGee's sextet scored its second victory in as many nights when he trounced Ridgeley last night in the Women's Rec Gold Medal Basketball Tournament last night on the Carver School court by the score of 42-17.

St. Mary's CYO suffered its second setback in as many nights and was eliminated from the tourney by the Memorial Hospital Nurses, who bagged a 22-17 decision.

Sports Shoppe Routed

Cumberland Cement and Supply made its tourney debut with a 63-11 rout of the Sports Shoppe sextet.

Pat Thompson with 14 points and Jones and Hale with 10 tallies each sparked McGee's to their second win. Ridgeley managed to hold McGee's to a 16-10 score in the first half but faded out of the picture in the second and third periods. J. Ball played an outstanding game at guard for the losers.

The Memorial Nurses - St. Mary's CYO game was the lowest scoring of the six contests staged on the first two nights. N. Cline stood out for the losers while M. Catlett and F. Evans were the best bets for the Memorial team.

Pa. Mason banged in 22 points to spark the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company to its initial triumph. P. Miltenberger of the wniners and Deniker and Byrne of the Sports Shoppe turned in excellent floor games.

Three Games Tonight

Three games are on tap for tonight at Carver gym as follows:

7:00—Old Germans vs. Sports Shoppe.

8:00 — Ridgeley vs. Memorial Hospital Nurses.

9:00—Cumberland Cement and Supply Co. vs. V.F.W. Bloomer Girls.

Cleo Rice and Janet Crabtree will officiate.

West Virginia Beats Ivy Loop Champs, 82-68

Mountaineers Play St. Joseph's Friday

NEW YORK (UPI)—West Virginia, led by All-America Jerry West and Bob Smith, broke a four-year NCAA tournament jinx Tuesday night by spurting in the last half for an easy 82-68 victory over Dartmouth's Ivy champions.

In the opening game of the first-round triple-header at Madison Square Garden, Boston University, rated only a small college basketball team before this season, defeated Connecticut, 60-58, whetn big Ed Washington sank three free throws with 19 seconds left to play. A crowd of about 10,000 was on hand.

North Carolina met Navy in the final game of the program for the right to meet Boston University. West Virginia's victory qualified it to meet St. Joseph's in the second round of the NCAA tournament at Charlotte, N.C., next Friday night.

W. V. U. Shakes Jinx

West Virginia's triumph was its first in five NCAA tournament ventures. In four previous successive tournaments, the Mountaineers had been eliminated in the first round, once by Dartmouth, in 1956.

West Virginia, the Southern Conference champion which is ranked 11th nationally by the United Press International Board of Coaches, had a tough struggle with Dartmouth for the first 18 minutes. Then, Rudy LaRusso, the Indians' 6-foot, 7-inch center, picked up his fourth personal foul and Dartmouth promptly fell out of contention.

West, the game's high scorer with 25 points, scored 12 of them during the first half while the Mountaineers were struggling. West Virginia led only 26-25 with 1:41 to play in the first half when LaRusso was removed after picking up his fourth personal foul. West scored the Mountaineers' last six points during an unbroken 12 - point spree that opened a 35-27 advantage at halftime.

Smith Takes Over

Smith, who had been rested throughout a good part of the first half because of three personal fouls, took over the brunt of the scoring early in the second half. He hit six second-half field goals that played an important part in breaking open the game.

His first four boosted the Mountaineers into a 55-42 advantage at the mid-point of the final half and West Virginia coasted from there to its 26th victory in 30 games.

Sportsmanship Trophy Earned By Bruce High

Westernport Home Audience Best 3rd Time In Four Years

Bruce High School of Westernport was voted the No. 1 home audience for 1958 at a meeting of the Sportsmanship Commission of Allegany County last night at Beall High School and earned the Sportsmanship Trophy for the third time in four years.

Bruce also won the trophy in 1955, Beall was the winner in 1956 and Bruce and Valley shared the honors last year.

The winner of the trophy was decided by totaling points of the ten students from each school that judged the sportsmanship of the home audience. A school can be rated from a plus 18 to a minus 8 on any one of the judging sheets.

Based on average points per game, the schools finished in the following order:

1. Bruce, 11.0 2. Mt. Savage, 9.5. 3. Fort Hill, 9.0. 4.Beall, 8.8. 5. Valley, 8.5. 6. Allegany, 7.8.

The trophy will be presented next month during an assembly at Bruce High School.

Four years ago the Sportsmanship Commission was activated and the students set up criteria for judging games and also the rating scale. Some of the criteria upon which the home audience is judged are:

1. How well organized is the cheering? 2. What respect or attitude is displayed toward the officials? 3. What attitude is displayed toward the visiting team? 4. How is the activity of the audience? 5. Is there any running on the stand, obstructing view, throwing objects or rough housing? 6. Is any profanity used by the audience?

Middies Upset North Carolina Tar Heels, 76-63

NEW YORK (UPI) — Navy's "over-matched" but dead - game Middies produced one of the most astonishing upsets of the college basketball season Tuesday night when they beat powerful North Carolina, 76-63, in the opening round of the NCAA tournament.

West Virginia and Boston University also advanced to the second round of the tournament before a crowd of about 10,000 at Madison Square Garden.

The Midshipmen's triumph pitted them against Boston University, while West Virginia won the right to play St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in the next round of the regional playoffs at Charlotte, N. C., Friday night.

Hook - shooting Jay Metzler, who at 6-foot-6 was the only Midshipman with a reach that could match any of the Tar Heels' five starting players, and scrappy Dick Johnson, Jim Bower and substitute Pat Doyle were the key men in Navy's remarkable triumph.

Hoey Gets New Post

Trinity Beats St. Mark, 46-32, In SS Playoff

Grace Baptist Wins Over St. Paul, 59-23

Trinity Lutheran, unbeaten in 19 games during the regular season, got off to a flying start in the playoffs of the National Division of the Sunday School Basketball League by defeating St. Mark's last night at the Central YMCA by the score of 46-32.

Grace Baptist, which finished the regular campaign in third place with a 16-4 record trounced St. Paul's Lutheran in the other first round playoff game by the score of 59-23.

Both winners advanced to the semi-final round.

Playoffs in the National Division will be continued tonight at the "Y" with St. Philip's Episcopal meeting Trinity Methodist at 7 o'clock while First Baptist opposes Central Methodist at 8 o'clock.

The American Division playoffs will start Thursday night with games billed for 5:30, 6:30, 7:30 and 8:30.

Charles Wilt slammed in 14 field goals and 30 points to spark Trinity Lutheran to its 20th consecutive victory last night. John Balch was the "big gun" for St. Mark's with eight fielders and 18 markers.

Grace Baptist swamped St. Paul's under an avalanche of 26 goals while limiting the losers to 10 baskets. S. Shook, Harper, Redman and Selby collected 17, 16, 13 and 11 points, respectively, for the Baptists. Santa Anita Meet To End

Longest $100,000 Race Carded Today

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — An international field of 15 grass specialists headed by Irish - bred Tudor Era, Tuesday were entered in Wednesday's $100,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita.

The turf course race at distance of about a mile and three-quarters brings to a close the highly successful winter meeting and is the longest $100,000 race in the world.

Tudor Era, winner of the $75,000 Hialeah Turf Cup last month and disqualified from victory in the $100,000 Washington, D.C., International last fall, carries top weight of 122 pounds and jockey Bobby Ussery flew here from Florida Tuesday to ride him.

Tudor Era's major competition was expected to come from several other foreign horses including Argentina's Anisado, recent winner of the Camino Real Handicap on the grass, and Japan's Hakuchikara, winner of the Washington's Birthday Handicap.

Entries for the $100,000 added handicap, seventh on the program, are as follows:

Lauder Makes 22 Points In 22nd Victory

Rising Sun Next Opponent Friday At College Park

Exploding for 17 points in the third quarter after being held to a 25-25 tie in the first half, Valley High School's Black Knights defeated Surrattsville High School's Hornets from Prince Georges county last night at North Hagerstown High School by the score of 57-47 and qualified for the Class B semi-finals in the Maryland state championship basketball tournament which gets under way Friday at the University of Maryland.

The Hornets from Prince Georges County gave the Allegany county champions an interesting battle for two periods but thereafter Valley took charge and rolled to its 22nd victory in 24 outings. It was the sixth consecutive triumph for Coach John C. Meyers' quint which is slated to battle Rising Sun, of Cecil county, Friday at 2:30 p.m., in a Class B contest at College Park.

Valley Leads, 14-8

Valley jumped off to a 14-8 lead in the first period of last night's contest but Surrattsville slammed in four successive goals to grab a 16-14 edge 1:05 after the second quarter got under way. Wayne Griffith, Jesse McLain and Martin Padgett sank shots from the field to knot the count at 14-all. Then Brooke Crist snared a rebound and meshed a fielder to give the Hornets a two-point advantage. Jim Chappell, on an assist from George Lauder, shot the goal that tied it up at 16-16 and "Tippy" Metts' basket made it 18-16 in Valley's favor.

The Knights clung to the lead until just before the buzzer sounded at halftime when Padgett tossed in a one-hander that enabled the Prince Georges' quint to even up the count at 25-all. It was Padgett's outside shooting that kept the Hornets in the game during the first half as he accounted for five of his team's 11 field goals. During the first half the score was knotted at 4, 14, 16 and 25 and the lead changed hands on three occasions.

Lauder Turns Tide

A jump shot by George Lauder, however, turned the tide of battle as the third period got under way and the Knights were never headed again. The Knights outscored the Hornets 17 to 9 in the third stanza and held a 15-13 edge in the final heat.

Lauder accounted for 22 of Valley's points and 16 were registered in the second half—12 of which came on field goals. His goal output for the evening was eight and he converted 6 of nine shots at the 15-foot line. "Tippy" Metts garnered 10 points. "Hank" Winner nine and Bobby Brown eight for the victors.

Sink 21 Of 57 Shots

Valley posted a shooting average of .368 by sinking 21 of 57 shots from the field while Surrattsville skidded to a .254 by hooping only 17 out of 67. The Knights meshed 15 of 22 free throws to the opposition's 13 out of 24.

Padgett was Surrattsville's high point man with seven baskets and 15 tallies. Jesse McLain collected 13 points and Mike O'Connell obtained ten.

Brooke Crist of Surrattsville and Valley's Winner exited on fouls in the final period.

McGee's Six Posts Second Tourney Win

CC & S Sextet Cops Initial Tilt, 63-11

McGee's sextet scored its second victory in as many nights when he trounced Ridgeley last night in the Women's Rec Gold Medal Basketball Tournament last night on the Carver School court by the score of 42-17.

St. Mary's CYO suffered its second setback in as many nights and was eliminated from the tourney by the Memorial Hospital Nurses, who bagged a 22-17 decision.

Sports Shoppe Routed

Cumberland Cement and Supply made its tourney debut with a 63-11 rout of the Sports Shoppe sextet.

Pat Thompson with 14 points and Jones and Hale with 10 tallies each sparked McGee's to their second win. Ridgeley managed to hold McGee's to a 16-10 score in the first half but faded out of the picture in the second and third periods. J. Ball played an outstanding game at guard for the losers.

The Memorial Nurses - St. Mary's CYO game was the lowest scoring of the six contests staged on the first two nights. N. Cline stood out for the losers while M. Catlett and F. Evans were the best bets for the Memorial team.

Pa. Mason banged in 22 points to spark the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company to its initial triumph. P. Miltenberger of the wninners and Deniker and Byrne of the Sports Shoppe turned in excellent floor games.

Three Games Tonight

Three games are on tap for tonight at Carver gym as follows:

7:00—Old Germans vs. Sports Shoppe.

8:00 — Ridgeley vs. Memorial Hospital Nurses.

9:00—Cumberland Cement and Supply Co. vs. V.F.W. Bloomer Girls.

Cleo Rice and Janet Crabtree will officiate.

West Virginia Beats Ivy Loop Champs, 82-68

Mountaineers Play St. Joseph's Friday

NEW YORK (UPI)—West Virginia, led by All-America Jerry West and Bob Smith, broke a four-year NCAA tournament jinx Tuesday night by spurting in the last half for an easy 82-68 victory over Dartmouth's Ivy champions.

In the opening game of the first-round triple-header at Madison Square Garden, Boston University, rated only a small college basketball team before this season, defeated Connecticut, 60-58, whetn big Ed Washington sank three free throws with 19 seconds left to play. A crowd of about 10,000 was on hand.

North Carolina met Navy in the final game of the program for the right to meet Boston University. West Virginia's victory qualified it to meet St. Joseph's in the second round of the NCAA tournament at Charlotte, N.C., next Friday night.

W. V. U. Shakes Jinx

West Virginia's triumph was its first in five NCAA tournament ventures. In four previous successive tournaments, the Mountaineers had been eliminated in the first round, once by Dartmouth, in 1956.

West Virginia, the Southern Conference champion which is ranked 11th nationally by the United Press International Board of Coaches, had a tough struggle with Dartmouth for the first 18 minutes. Then, Rudy LaRusso, the Indians' 6-foot, 7-inch center, picked up his fourth personal foul and Dartmouth promptly fell out of contention.

West, the game's high scorer with 25 points, scored 12 of them during the first half while the Mountaineers were struggling. West Virginia led only 26-25 with 1:41 to play in the first half when LaRusso was removed after picking up his fourth personal foul. West scored the Mountaineers' last six points during an unbroken 12 - point spree that opened a 35-27 advantage at halftime.

Smith Takes Over

Smith, who had been rested throughout a good part of the first half because of three personal fouls, took over the brunt of the scoring early in the second half. He hit six second-half field goals that played an important part in breaking open the game.

His first four boosted the Mountaineers into a 55-42 advantage at the mid-point of the final half and West Virginia coasted from there to its 26th victory in 30 games.

Sportsmanship Trophy Earned By Bruce High

Westernport Home Audience Best 3rd Time In Four Years

Bruce High School of Westernport was voted the No. 1 home audience for 1958 at a meeting of the Sportsmanship Commission of Allegany County last night at Beall High School and earned the Sportsmanship Trophy for the third time in four years.

Bruce also won the trophy in 1955, Beall was the winner in 1956 and Bruce and Valley shared the honors last year.

The winner of the trophy was decided by totaling points of the ten students from each school that judged the sportsmanship of the home audience. A school can be rated from a plus 18 to a minus 8 on any one of the judging sheets.

Based on average points per game, the schools finished in the following order:

1. Bruce, 11.0 2. Mt. Savage, 9.5. 3. Fort Hill, 9.0. 4.Beall, 8.8. 5. Valley, 8.5. 6. Allegany, 7.8.

The trophy will be presented next month during an assembly at Bruce High School.

Four years ago the Sportsmanship Commission was activated and the students set up criteria for judging games and also the rating scale. Some of the criteria upon which the home audience is judged are:

1. How well organized is the cheering? 2. What respect or attitude is displayed toward the officials? 3. What attitude is displayed toward the visiting team? 4. How is the activity of the audience? 5. Is there any running on the stand, obstructing view, throwing objects or rough housing? 6. Is any profanity used by the audience?

Middies Upset North Carolina Tar Heels, 76-63

NEW YORK (UPI) — Navy's "over-matched" but dead - game Middies produced one of the most astonishing upsets of the college basketball season Tuesday night when they beat powerful North Carolina, 76-63, in the opening round of the NCAA tournament.

West Virginia and Boston University also advanced to the second round of the tournament before a crowd of about 10,000 at Madison Square Garden.

The Midshipmen's triumph pitted them against Boston University, while West Virginia won the right to play St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in the next round of the regional playoffs at Charlotte, N. C., Friday night.

Hook - shooting Jay Metzler, who at 6-foot-6 was the only Midshipman with a reach that could match any of the Tar Heels' five starting players, and scrappy Dick Johnson, Jim Bower and substitute Pat Doyle were the key men in Navy's remarkable triumph.

Hoey Gets New Post

Ed Hoey, former Cumberland Recreation Department director, has resigned as executive director of the year-old National Duckpin Council to become promotion director of the Fair Lanes chain, which has its headquarters in Baltimore.

Hoey plans to switch jobs around July 1. His successor has not been named.

Grace Baptist Wins Over St. Paul, 59-23

Trinity Lutheran, unbeaten in 19 games during the regular season, got off to a flying start in the playoffs of the National Division of the Sunday School Basketball League by defeating St. Mark's last night at the Central YMCA by the score of 46-32.

Grace Baptist, which finished the regular campaign in third place with a 16-4 record trounced St. Paul's Lutheran in the other first round playoff game by the score of 59-23.

Both winners advanced to the semi-final round.

Playoffs in the National Division will be continued tonight at the "Y" with St. Philip's Episcopal meeting Trinity Methodist at 7 o'clock while First Baptist opposes Central Methodist at 8 o'clock.

The American Division playoffs will start Thursday night with games billed for 5:30, 6:30, 7:30 and 8:30.

Charles Wilt slammed in 14 field goals and 30 points to spark Trinity Lutheran to its 20th consecutive victory last night. John Balch was the "big gun" for St. Mark's with eight fielders and 18 markers.

Grace Baptist swamped St. Paul's under an avalanche of 26 goals while limiting the losers to 10 baskets. S. Shook, Harper, Redman and Selby collected 17, 16, 13 and 11 points, respectively, for the Baptists. Bill Ritchey was the "whole show" for St. Paul's, accounting for nine of his team's 10 goals and 19 of the 23 points. The box scores:

Kansas State Voted Nation's No. 1 Team In Final AP Poll

Kentucky Is Nosed Out By Nine Points

Mississippi State, Third; Bradley Beats Out Cincy For 4th

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

By a vote almost as close as the score in a double overtime game, Kansas State Tuesday was named the nation's No. 1 basketball team by the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the 1958-59 season's final Associated Press poll.

The Kansas State Wildcats, high in the balloting all season, edged out Kentucky, the defending national collegiate champion, by nine points. Mississippi State, which beat out Kentucky for the Southeastern Conference title, moved up to third.

Bradley Is Fourth

Bradley, runner-up in the Missouri Valley Conference, took fourth over champion Cincinnati by two points. North Carolina State, Michigan State, Auburn, North Carolina and West Virginia, in that order, completed the top 10.

The count was based, as usual, on 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., down to one for 10th. A total of 120 writers and broadcasters cast ballots in the final poll.

Kansas State, which ended its regular season Monday with a 24-1 record, was first on 36 ballots and counted 981 points. Kentucky, which may get a crack at the other Wildcats in the NCAA Tournament, finished with 33 firsts and 972 points.

All but three of the top 10 teams and nine of the next 10 are continuing in postseason tournament play. Mississippi State declined to enter the NCAA championship and North Carolina State and Auburn are ineligible because of probation. Seattle (13th) didn't get a tournament bid.

Cincy Drops To 5th

The final balloting showed several changes in the order of the top 10 from the previous week. Bradley bounced up from ninth place to fourth as the result of a strong finish, which included a win over Cincinnati, while Cincinnati dropped from third to fifth. Mississippi State, its season over, moved into third from fourth.

North Carolina State thumped North Carolina and State went from 10th to sixth and Carolina from fifth to ninth.

The top 10 teams with first place votes and won-lost records in parentheses:

1. Kansas St. (36)	(24-1)	981
2. Kentucky (33)	(23-2)	972
3. Mississippi St. (20)	(24-1)	760

Pirates Look Set For Big Doings In '59; Could Possibly Go All The Way To Flag

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series on the major league baseball teams. Others will follow on this page every day.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Association Sports Editor

FORT MYERS, Fla. — Danny Murtaugh, the tobacco-chewing Irishman who manages the surprising Pittsburgh Pirates, is optimistic about the 1959 baseball season and so are the Buccaneer baseball fans, who have bought season tickets at a pace which already has passed the Pittsburgh all-time season ticket sale.

The optimism, that the Corsairs may take it all this years, is based on the Bucs' showing last season when they not only finished in the first division for the first time in 10 years but wound up second, only eight games off the pace of the talent-loaded Milwaukee Braves.

Murtaugh's optimism stems, naturally, from the Pirates' finish last year plus the fact that he is an Irishman and also that he has virtually a set baseball club with good pitching and a fine-looking crop of rookie hopefuls.

"Being Irish," Danny said in camp here, "makes one optimistic for an Irishman is never pessimistic. Additionally, we have eight fellows on this club who have proved they could play in the majors; we have several good catchers, three first basemen and our pitching should be strong. For the first time we have a left-handed starter who proved he could win in the majors."

While there are 79 players in camp at Terry Park here, working hard on two diamonds, the Pittsburgh club for the first time in many, many years is a set baseball club with solid major league talent at all spots and plenty of promising stuff ready to fill in.

Some Pirate fans are still seething over the trade which sent their No. 1 power boy, Frank Thomas, to the Reds for pitcher Harvey Haddix, infielder Don Hoak and catcher Smokey Burgess, but the Bucco brass figures it made the deal to strengthen the club where it needed it. And, Dick Stuart, the brash youngster of a few years ago who came into the training camp after hitting 66 home runs for a minor league club, finally came into his own last year and is expected to carry the over-the-fence load.

Danny admits he has a fine ball club but quiets his feeling with the statement that "let's hope they will be as good as they were last year." He has a fine pitching staff headed by Bob Friend, the only 20-game winner in the majors outside of Bob Turley of the Yanks and the Brave duo of Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette, and going with Bob as starters are Ron Kline, who won 13, and Vern Law, who won 14, and the very capable veteran, Haddix, a southpaw. Additionally, he uncovered two rookie pitching finds last year in Curt Raydon and George Witt, who won 17 games for Danny.

There are a flock of young hurlers in camp with Bennie Daniels, a 14-game winner with Columbus; Fred Green, who won 10 at Salt Lake City; Al Jackson, an 18-game winner at Lincoln, and Joe Gibbon, a farm club flinger up from Columbus, giving the team good new talent on the firing line.

Additionally, Danny has such fine slabmen as Elroy Face and Bob Porterfield. Of Porterfield, Murtaugh says: "He did a heck-uva good job for us last year. He can pitch every day with good stuff."

The catching staff has additional power with Burgess and includes Hank Foiles and Danny Kravitz.

Up for grabs could be the first base spot where Stuart, who hit 16 homers for the Corsairs in 67 games after belting 31 round-trippers for Salt Lake City, is ready to take over. On hand here are Ted Kluszewski, the 240-pound man mountain, and the aging veteran, Rocky Nelson, who murdered minor league pitching again last year and earns another chance at making the major grade.

Nelson, who hit 43 home runs for Toronto, is going to be given a good look with the Bucs. "Anybody who could hit like Rocky has in the minors deserves a good chance in my book," says Danny.

The infield is virtually set with Dick Groat at short, Bill Mazeroski at second and Hoak at third. Gene Baker, formerly with the Cubs, underwent an operation for torn tendons, and he is on the shelf at the moment but is a good fill-in infielder.

In the outfield are Bob Skinner, who reached stardom last year with a .321 batting average; Bill Virdon, who hit .267, and Roberto Clemente, who wound up with .289. No. 1 fill-in unless either Stuart or Nelson are shifted to the outfield is Ramon Mejias, who is as good a utility man as you can find around. Jim McDaniel, who socked 37 homers for Salt Lake City, is being given a trial.

It could be a big year for Pittsburgh in baseball, for in addition to what could be a real pennant contender the Smoky City plays host to the All-Star game in July.

Coaches Vote Kansas State Nation's Best

UPI Board Rates Kentucky Second

By EARL WRIGHT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Kansas State Wildcats, beaten only once in 25 games, Tuesday were named national college basketball champions for the regular 1958-59 season by the United Press International board of coaches.

Coach Tex Winter's Wildcats, who take the Big Eight Conference title and a 24-1 record into the NCAA tournament this week, were the No. 1 choices of 24 members of the 35-man UPI board of coaches in the final ratings of the campaign.

Kentucky, the defending NCAA champion, finished second in the voting. Michigan State, the Big Ten champion, was third. Cincinnati, picked by the coaches before the season began as the "best bet" to finish first in the final ratings, wound up fourth.

North Carolina State finished fifth. North Carolina and Mississippi State tied for sixth. Bradley was eighth, California ninth and Auburn 10th.

Kansas State collected 317 of a possible 350 points in the balloting. Kentucky, which received seven first-place votes, received 298. Michigan State drew 212 and Cincinnati 180.

West Virginia, the Southern Conference champion, headed the second 10 group. Texas Christian, St. Louis, Utah, Marquette, Tennessee State A&I, St. John's (N.Y.), Navy, St. Mary's (Calif.) and St. Joseph's (Pa.) rounded out the first 20.

Veeck Group Controls Sox

Syndicate Now Has 54 Pct. Of Stock

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Veeck bought majority interest in the Chicago White Sox Tuesday, 21 days ahead of schedule, and immediately sought peace with the club's minority stockholder Vice President Chuck Comiskey.

Veeck's eight-member syndicate paid $2,700,000 for the 54 per cent of the White Sox held by Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, Chuck's sister. The sale ended Comiskey family control of the baseball club for the first time since it was founded 59 years ago by Charles (Old Roman) Comiskey, Chuck's grandfather.

Veeck, who exercised his option to buy out Dorothy on Feb. 17, said he and Hank Greenberg, Baseball Hall of Fame member and one of Veeck's syndicate, would serve temporarily as executive assistants to John Rigney, a Sox vice president with Comiskey.

Rigney is the husband of Dorothy, who has been embroiled more than a year in a legal squabble with Chuck over control of the American League club.

PITCHER FACES SURGERY

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants announced Tuesday that holdout pitcher Allan (Red) Worthington has been ordered to New York City for a possible knee operation Wednesday.

Worthington advised vice president Chub Feeney by telephone from Birmingham, Ala., that his knee puffed up badly following a workout.

O'Keegan Is Winner, 8th Disqualification Marks Bowie Meeting

BOWIE, Md., March 10 (AP)—Roxbury Farm's O'Keegan finished second in the $5,000 Nottingham Purse at Bowie today, but the stewards stepped in to declare the $25.20-for $2 shot the winner.

The picture showed Royal Spy winning the six-furlong dash by a neck from O'Keegan. However, in lasting to score, Royal Spy had bothered O'Keegan in the final drive.

Jockey Sidney Cole, rider of O'Keegan, complained to the stewards and the officials disqualified Royal Spy from win money and moved O'Keegan into that spot.

Royal Spy paid $5 and $4.60 and Tee Shirt was the show horse at $5.40.

It was the eighth time in the last 12 days that the stewards have disqualified horses from the position in which they actually finished. All that Royal Spy got for a winning effort was credit for running six furlongs in 1:11 3/5.

Shortly before today's disqualification, the officials announced that Karl Korte has been suspended for ten days, beginning on Thursday, for careless riding in the third race on Monday.

The Day's handle was $891,542.

Bailey Belts One

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —Ed Bailey slammed a three-run homer to highlight a four run Cincinnati seventh inning and it was just what the Reds needed to beat the Kansas City Athletics 4-3, Tuesday.

Bailey's blast came off losing pitcher Ralph Terry.

Frank Thomas doubled after two were down in the seventh. Frank Robinson belted a two bagger to drive him home. After Gus Bell walked, Bailey sent one sailing over the right field wall.

Whitey Herzog got the A's back in the game with a three run homer in the lower half of the seventh off rookie Bob Kropiewnicki and the Athletics threatened in the ninth but Joe Nuxhall stopped a rally to preserve the Cincinnati win.

Cincinnati	000 000 400—	4	6 1
Kansas City	000 000 300—	3	10 0

Pena, Kropiewnicki (6), Nuxhall (8) and Bailey, Daley, Terry (6), Houtteman (8) and House, Chiti (9). Winner — Kropiewnicki. Loser—Terry. HR — Halet, Herzog.

Patterson-Johansson Title Bout Set For New York City In June

Zeckendorfs' Bid Of $600,000 Swings Fight From Chicago

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—The guessing game over the site of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight ended Tuesday when promoter Bill Rosensohn named New York as the place.

"The target date is June 23 for either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds," the 38-year-old New Yorker told a press conference.

Later in the day Rosensohn said he had reached terms with the Yankees for the rental of the stadium from June 23 to June 30. The Yankees leave the park June 21 and don't return until July 3.

May Have Home TV

"My inclination right now is for home television. But theater television is a possibility. New York will be blacked out in either case."

Rosensohn said a "dramatic, last-minute guarantee of $600,000 by Bill Zeckendorf and his son swung me in favor of New York City."

"I'm telling you frankly that I was all set to have the fight in Chicago until that bid was made yesterday. Ragnar Benson of Chicago had guaranteed me $500,000."

Zeckendorf owns six New York hotels and is building another.

Patterson, a New Yorker, and Johansson, Sweden's undefeated European champion, signed a contract Jan. 29.

Rosensohn said he already had discussed the fight with executives of the three major TV networks, ABC, CBS and NBC and plans to meet with them again.

First Since 1957

It will be New York's first heavyweight title fight since Patterson, 24, stopped Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in the 10th round at the Polo Grounds July 29, 1957. That was Patterson's first title defense. He made two others.

Johansson, 26, is the No. 1 contender and winner of all of his 21 pro fights.

Exhibition Baseball

Pirates Edge Cards

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—Rocky Nelson highlighted a three-run Pirate seventh with a bases loaded single Tuesday as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-1.

Ron Kline, R. G. Smith and Roy Face held the Cards to four hits while the Bucs collected seven off Jim Brosnan and Dick Luebke. Bob Blaylock pitched one scoreless inning. Brosnan blanked the Bucs on two hits over the first five and all runs came off Luebke.

St. Louis	010 000 000—	1	4 0
Pittsburgh	000 001 30x—	4	7 1

Brosnan, Luebke (6), Blaylock (8) and Green. Kline, R. Smith (4), Face (7) and Burgess. Winner—Face. Loser—Luebke.

Detroit Wins, 3-2

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —Veteran Johnny Groth broke a 2-2 tie with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the seventh inning Tuesday as the Detroit Tigers edged the Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-2, in a spring exhibition game.

Ossie Alvarez opened the Tiger rally with a single and Lou Berberet doubled before Don Bessent intentionally walked Maury Wills to fill the bases with one out. Groth spoiled the Dodger strategy by lofting the next pitch to Wally Moon in left field, Alvarez sprinting home with the winning run after the catch.

Los Angeles	001 010 000—	2	9 0
Detroit	010 010 10x—	3	9 0

Labine, Erskine (4), Bessent (7) and Pignatano. Burnside, Bruce (5), Davie (8) and Berberet. Winner—Bruce. Loser — Bessent.

Phils Down Chisox

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Valmy Thomas' second double and a pinch single by Stan Lopata gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 ninth-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday.

Ken Lehman, Jim Hearn, Don Erickson and Bob Conley held a White Sox team, composed largely of rookies and reserves, to seven hits with Erickson and victor. Bubba Phillips' bases-loaded single drove in both White Sox runs to tie the score in the fourth off Lehman.

Philadlphia	001 100 001—	3	9 1
Chicago (A)	000 200 000—	2	7 1

Lehman, Hearn (5), Erickson (8), Conley (9) and Thomas. Pierce, Shaw (4), Rudolph (7) and Moss. Winner—Erickson. Loser—Rudolph.

Bosox Triumph, 8-2

PHOENIX (UPI) —Frank Malzone cuffed a pair of two-run singles Tuesday to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Capturing their third straight Cactus League start, the Bosox raked Johnny Antonelli for one run in the first inning and three more in the third, then pounced upon Jack Sanford for three more scores in the fifth and Billy Muffett for one in the ninth.

Boston	103 030 001—	8	12 1
San Francisco	000 100 001—	2	7 1

Brewer, Bauman (4), Delock (7) and Zimmerman. Antonelli, Sanford (4), Muffett (7) and Landrith, Schmidt (6). Winner—Brewer. Loser—Antonelli.

Cubs Pound McLish

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—The Chicago Cubs jumped on Cal McLish for five runs in the first inning and coasted to a 9-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians here Tuesday.

Tony Taylor had a perfect day at bat for the Cubs with two singles, a double and two walks. The chunky little Cuban now has seven hits in his last nine trips to the plate.

Cleveland	002 000 100—	3	10 1
Chicago (N)	510 101 10x—	9	11 1

McLish, Cicotte (4), Heman (7) and Moran, Biskup (8). Ellsworth, Elston (5), Martin (8) and S. Taylor. Winner — Ellsworth. Loser—McLish.

Yankees Lose, 5-2

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Rookies Jerry Nelson and Bob Giggie and veteran Joey Jay combined Tuesday in pitching a four-hitter that enabled the Milwaukee Braves to beat the world champion New York Yankees, 5-2, for the second straight day.

The Braves made only five hits but one of them was a homer by Hank Aaron off Johnny James in the eighth inning. Andy Carey hit a two-run homer off Jay in the seventh to save the Yankees from being shut out.

Milwaukee	000 031 010—	5	5 1
New York	000 000 200—	2	4 2

Nelson, Giggie (4), Jay (7) and Lonnett. Ford, Sturdivant (4), James (8) and Berra, Johnson (7). Winner—Giggie. Loser—Sturdivant. HR—Carey, Aaron.

Mrs. Fritzi Quarrier Will Receive Award

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Fritzi Stifel Quarrier of Wheeling, who dominated West Virginia women's amateur golf in the '30s as Berri Long has in recent years, was selected Tuesday to receive the 1959 award as the state's "golfing personality of yesteryear."

A committee of golfers, sports writers and broadcasters voted Mrs. Quarrier the third annual Palmer Award, given by golf enthusiast J. Campbell Palmer, St. Albans.

HAS TONSIL TROUBLE

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — Pitcher Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates may be sidelined for a few days because of infected Tonsils. He was scheduled to pitch in his first exhibition game Tuesday against the Cardinals but reported ill and was sent back to his hotel room.

Kansas State Voted Nation's No. 1 Team In Final AP Poll

Kentucky Is Nosed Out By Nine Points

Mississippi State, Third; Bradley Beats Out Cincy For 4th

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

By a vote almost as close as the score in a double overtime game, Kansas State Tuesday was named the nation's No. 1 basketball team by the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the 1958-59 season's final Associated Press poll.

The Kansas State Wildcats, high in the balloting all season, edged out Kentucky, the defending national collegiate champion, by nine points. Mississippi State, which beat out Kentucky for the Southeastern Conference title, moved up to third.

Bradley Is Fourth

Bradley, runner-up in the Missouri Valley Conference, took fourth over champion Cincinnati by two points. North Carolina State, Michigan State, Auburn, North Carolina and West Virginia, in that order, completed the top 10.

The count was based, as usual, on 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., down to one for 10th. A total of 120 writers and broadcasters cast ballots in the final poll.

Kansas State, which ended its regular season Monday with a 24-1 record, was first on 36 ballots and counted 981 points. Kentucky, which may get a crack at the other Wildcats in the NCAA Tournament, finished with 33 firsts and 972 points.

All but three of the top 10 teams and nine of the next 10 are continuing in postseason tournament play. Mississippi State declined to enter the NCAA championship and North Carolina State and Auburn are ineligible because of probation. Seattle (13th) didn't get a tournament bid.

Cincy Drops To 5th

The final balloting showed several changes in the order of the top 10 from the previous week. Bradley bounced up from ninth place to fourth as the result of a strong finish, which included a win over Cincinnati, while Cincinnati dropped from third to fifth. Mississippi State, its season over, moved into third from fourth.

North Carolina State thumped North Carolina and State went from 10th to sixth and Carolina from fifth to ninth.

The top 10 teams with first place votes and won-lost records in parentheses:

1. Kansas St. (36)	(24-1)	981
2. Kentucky (33)	(23-2)	972
3. Mississippi St. (20)	(24-1)	760
4. Bradley (8)	(23-3)	665
5. Cincinnati (3)	(23-3)	663
6. No. Carolina St. (5)	(22-4)	575
7. Michigan St. (1)	(18-3)	566
8. Auburn	(20-2)	420
9. North Carolina (1)	(20-4)	411
10. West Virginia (6)	(25-4)	354

The second 10: California (5) 213; St. Louis (1) 171; Seattle 88; St. Joseph's (Pa.) 62; St. Mary's (Calif) 60; Texas Christian 56; Oklahoma City 48; Utah 46; St. Bonaventure (1) 40; Marquette 36.

Final Standings In UPI Cage Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—The final 1958-59 major college basketball ratings by the United Press International board of coaches (first-place votes and won-lost records through March 9 in parentheses):

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Veeck bought majority interest in the Chicago White Sox Tuesday, 21 days ahead of schedule, and immediately sought peace with the club's minority stockholder Vice President Chuck Comiskey.

Veeck's eight-member syndicate paid $2,700,000 for the 54 per cent of the White Sox held by Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, Chuck's sister. The sale ended Comiskey family control of the baseball club for the first time since it was founded 59 years ago by Charles (Old Roman) Comiskey, Chuck's grandfather.

Veeck, who exercised his option to buy out Dorothy on Feb. 17, said he and Hank Greenberg, Baseball Hall of Fame member and one of Veeck's syndicate, would serve temporarily as executive assistants to John Rigney, a Sox vice president with Comiskey.

Rigney is the husband of Dorothy, who has been embroiled more than a year in a legal squabble with Chuck over control of the American League club.

PITCHER FACES SURGERY

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants announced Tuesday that holdout pitcher Allan (Red) Worthington has been ordered to New York City for a possible knee operation Wednesday.

Worthington advised vice president Chub Feeney by telephone from Birmingham, Ala., that his knee puffed up badly following a workout.

O'Keegan Is Winner, 8th Disqualification Marks Bowie Meeting

BOWIE, Md., March 10 (AP)—Roxbury Farm's O'Keegan finished second in the $5,000 Nottingham Purse at Bowie today, but the stewards stepped in to declare the $25.20-for $2 shot the winner.

The picture showed Royal Spy winning the six-furlong dash by a neck from O'Keegan. However, in lasting to score, Royal Spy had bothered O'Keegan in the final drive.

Jockey Sidney Cole, rider of O'Keegan, complained to the stewards and the officials disqualified Royal Spy from win money and moved O'Keegan into that spot.

Royal Spy paid $5 and $4.60 and Tee Shirt was the show horse at $5.40.

It was the eighth time in the last 12 days that the stewards have disqualified horses from the position in which they actually finished. All that Royal Spy got for a winning effort was credit for running six furlongs in 1:11 3/5.

Shortly before today's disqualification, the officials announced that Karl Korte has been suspended for ten days, beginning on Thursday, for careless riding in the third race on Monday.

The Day's handle was $891,542.

Bailey Belts One

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —Ed Bailey slammed a three-run homer to highlight a four run Cincinnati seventh inning and it was just what the Reds needed to beat the Kansas City Athletics 4-3, Tuesday.

Bailey's blast came off losing pitcher Ralph Terry.

Frank Thomas doubled after two were down in the seventh. Frank Robinson belted a two bagger to drive him home. After Gus Bell walked, Bailey sent one sailing over the right field wall.

Whitey Herzog got the A's back in the game with a three run homer in the lower half of the seventh off rookie Bob Kropiewnicki and the Athletics threatened in the ninth but Joe Nuxhall stopped a rally to preserve the Cincinnati win.

Patterson-Johansson Title Bout Set For New York City In June

Zeckendorfs' Bid Of $600,000 Swings Fight From Chicago

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—The guessing game over the site of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight ended Tuesday when promoter Bill Rosensohn named New York as the place.

"The target date is June 23 for either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds," the 38-year-old New Yorker told a press conference.

Later in the day Rosensohn said he had reached terms with the Yankees for the rental of the stadium from June 23 to June 30. The Yankees leave the park June 21 and don't return until July 3.

May Have Home TV

"My inclination right now is for home television. But theater television is a possibility. New York will be blacked out in either case."

Rosensohn said a "dramatic, last-minute guarantee of $600,000 by Bill Zeckendorf and his son swung me in favor of New York City."

"I'm telling you frankly that I was all set to have the fight in Chicago until that bid was made yesterday. Ragnar Benson of Chicago had guaranteed me $500,000."

Zeckendorf owns six New York hotels and is building another.

Patterson, a New Yorker, and Johansson, Sweden's undefeated European champion, signed a contract Jan. 29.

Rosensohn said he already had discussed the fight with executives of the three major TV networks, ABC, CBS and NBC and plans to meet with them again.

First Since 1957

It will be New York's first heavyweight title fight since Patterson, 24, stopped Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in the 10th round at the Polo Grounds July 29, 1957. That was Patterson's first title defense. He made two others.

Johansson, 26, is the No. 1 contender and winner of all of his 21 pro fights.

Pirates Edge Cards

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—Rocky Nelson highlighted a three-run Pirate seventh with a bases loaded single Tuesday as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-1.

Ron Kline, R. G. Smith and Roy Face held the Cards to four hits while the Bucs collected seven off Jim Brosnan and Dick Luebke. Bob Blaylock pitched one scoreless inning. Brosnan blanked the Bucs on two hits over the first five and all runs came off Luebke.

St. Louis	010 000 000—	1	4 0
Pittsburgh	000 001 30x—	4	7 1

Brosnan, Luebke (6), Blaylock (8) and Green. Kline, R. Smith (4), Face (7) and Burgess. Winner—Face. Loser—Luebke.

Detroit Wins, 3-2

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —Veteran Johnny Groth broke a 2-2 tie with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the seventh inning Tuesday as the Detroit Tigers edged the Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-2, in a spring exhibition game.

Ossie Alvarez opened the Tiger rally with a single and Lou Berberet doubled before Don Bessent intentionally walked Maury Wills to fill the bases with one out. Groth spoiled the Dodger strategy by lofting the next pitch to Wally Moon in left field, Alvarez sprinting home with the winning run after the catch.

Detroit	010 010 10x—	3	9 0

Labine, Erskine (4), Bessent (7) and Pignatano. Burnside, Bruce (5), Davie (8) and Berberet. Winner—Bruce. Loser — Bessent.

Phils Down Chisox

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Valmy Thomas' second double and a pinch single by Stan Lopata gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 ninth-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday.

Ken Lehman, Jim Hearn, Don Erickson and Bob Conley held a White Sox team, composed largely of rookies and reserves, to seven hits with Erickson and victor. Bubba Phillips' bases-loaded single drove in both White Sox runs to tie the score in the fourth off Lehman.

Philadlphia	001 100 001—	3	9 1
Chicago (A)	000 200 000—	2	7 1

Lehman, Hearn (5), Erickson (8), Conley (9) and Thomas. Pierce, Shaw (4), Rudolph (7) and Moss. Winner—Erickson. Loser—Rudolph.

Bosox Triumph, 8-2

PHOENIX (UPI) —Frank Malzone cuffed a pair of two-run singles Tuesday to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Capturing their third straight Cactus League start, the Bosox raked Johnny Antonelli for one run in the first inning and three more in the third, then pounced upon Jack Sanford for three more scores in the fifth and Billy Muffett for one in the ninth.

Boston	103 030 001—	8	12 1
San Francisco	000 100 001—	2	7 1

Brewer, Bauman (4), Delock (7) and Zimmerman. Antonelli, Sanford (4), Muffett (7) and Landrith, Schmidt (6). Winner—Brewer. Loser—Antonelli.

Cubs Pound McLish

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—The Chicago Cubs jumped on Cal McLish for five runs in the first inning and coasted to a 9-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians here Tuesday.

Tony Taylor had a perfect day at bat for the Cubs with two singles, a double and two walks. The chunky little Cuban now has seven hits in his last nine trips to the plate.

Cleveland	002 000 100—	3	10 1
Chicago (N)	510 101 10x—	9	11 1

McLish, Cicotte (4), Heman (7) and Moran, Biskup (8), Ellsworth, Elston (5), Martin (8) and S. Taylor. Winner — Ellsworth. Loser—McLish.

Yankees Lose, 5-2

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Rookies Jerry Nelson and Bob Giggie and veteran Joey Jay combined Tuesday in pitching a four-hitter that enabled the Milwaukee Braves to beat the world champion New York Yankees, 5-2, for the second straight day.

The Braves made only five hits but one of them was a homer by Hank Aaron off Johnny James in the eighth inning. Andy Carey hit a two-run homer off Jay in the seventh to save the Yankees from being shut out.

Milwaukee	000 031 010—	5	5 1
New York	000 000 200—	2	4 2

Nelson, Giggie (4), Jay (7) and Lonnett. Ford, Sturdivant (4), James (8) and Berra, Johnson (7). Winner—Giggie. Loser—Sturdivant. HR—Carey, Aaron.

Mrs. Fritzi Quarrier Will Receive Award

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Fritzi Stifel Quarrier of Wheeling, who dominated West Virginia women's amateur golf in the '30s as Berri Long has in recent years, was selected Tuesday to receive the 1959 award as the state's "golfing personality of yesteryear."

A committee of golfers, sports writers and broadcasters voted Mrs. Quarrier the third annual Palmer Award, given by golf enthusiast J. Campbell Palmer, St. Albans.

HAS TONSIL TROUBLE

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — Pitcher Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates may be sidelined for a few days because of infected Tonsils. He was scheduled to pitch in his first exhibition game Tuesday against the Cardinals but reported ill and was sent back to his hotel room.

Yesterday And Today At The Race Tracks

Dunce Is Beaten By Revolutionist

MIAMI, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Dunce, one of the more highly-regarded three-year-olds, failed in his winter debut as he was outrun by Revolutionist in the $3,600 Winter Haven Purse today at Gulfstream.

The Claiborne Farm colt and Kentucky Derby prospect, a 4 to 5 favorite of the 15,077 bettors, lost a two-length decision to lower his rating for the impending classics.

Revolutionist, owned by J. W. Kane., traveled the 6½ furlongs in 1:16 and paid $10.40 as the second choice. The winning time was a full second off the track and world record set in 1957 by Federal Hill.

Dunce was three quarters of a length to the fore of Mrs. Josephine Bay Paul's Alsvin who led J. L. Appelbaum's Secret File by four lengths.

Joe Culmone sent Revolutionist from fourth to the first on the stretch turn and quickly opened a three-length lead entering the final straightaway.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 NT.	Pass
3 NT.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♥.

There may not appear to be anything unusual about today's hand but it produced quite a variety of results when it came up in a recent tournament.

All Souths opened with one no trump and in most cases, North holding 11 points in high cards, raised directly to three. In one instance, North employed the two club convention which asks the opening no trumper to show a four card major suit if he has one. North felt that the hand might possibly play better at spades. However, since the short suits contained the principle part of North's strength, most of them preferred to carry on in no trump.

West opened the four of hearts and the jack held the trick. When a spade was led to declarer's king, West won with the ace. Recognizing the futility of continuing the attack in hearts, he realized that unless East had a preponderance of diamond strength there was little hope for the defense. A shift to that suit netted five more tricks for down two.

One declarer, in an effort to pull the wool over West's eyes, deliberately overtook dummy's jack of hearts with his own king and led the king of spades. West took the trick, drove out the ace of hearts and declarer ran for cover with 10 tricks. West perhaps should have smelled a rat. South's opening bid of one no trump made it highly improbable that he had to play the king of hearts at trick one. He, therefore, should be suspected of trying to throw his adversaries off the scent.

Another declarer gave himself the best chance. He went up with the ace of hearts at the first trick, and when East played the seven, followed with the five from his own hand. When West won the ace of spades, it appeared natural for him to continue with a heart, and declarer ran home with his contract.

Dunce Is Beaten By Revolutionist

MIAMI, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Dunce, one of the more highly-regarded three-year-olds, failed in his winter debut as he was outrun by Revolutionist in the $3,600 Winter Haven Purse today at Gulfstream.

The Claiborne Farm colt and Kentucky Derby prospect, a 4 to 5 favorite of the 15,077 bettors, lost a two-length decision to lower his rating for the impending classics.

Revolutionist, owned by J. W. Kane, traveled the 6½ furlongs in 1:16 and paid $10.40 as the second choice. The winning time was a full second off the track and world record set in 1957 by Federal Hill.

Dunce was three quarters of a length to the fore of Mrs. Josephine Bay Paul's Alsvin who led J. L. Appelbaum's Secret File by four lengths.

Joe Culmone sent Revolutionist from fourth to the first on the stretch turn and quickly opened a three-length lead entering the final straightaway.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Had a long talk with George Sidney at the Norman Taurogs' dinner and he said nary a word about his contract with Debbie Reynolds, only that Columbia had a story for me, and a good one. I couldn't pry it loose.

But bright and early on John Flinn's first day at Columbia he gave me the news that Debbie Reynolds will co-star with Dean Martin and Tony Curtis in "Who Is That Lady," adapted from Norman Krasna's stage hit. "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With."

This isn't an if, and, or but—it's the real thing and Debbie will start at Columbia May 20 with George Sidney directing and co-producing with Norman Krasna.

Debbie has been promised two weeks off after she finishes "It Started With a Kiss" to rest. Her life has been one mad rush.

The print of "John Paul Jones" has arrived in town and was shown at Warner Bros. Jack Warner was delighted with what Samuel Bronston showed him, and with John Farrow's work as the director. Mr. Bronston called me to bring greetings from the Farrows.

MacDonald Carey goes into "Blue Denim" as the father of Carol Lynley. The reason I mention MacDonald Carey is because he is in "John Paul Jones", and John Farrow was very upset when Mac made arrangements to make a picture for a Spanish company of the story of Father Damien, since that has been Johnny's favorite project for a long time. I don't know how it came out, but I believe Johnny is going to make his picture, and that Mac is going to make his.

Carroll Baker says she doesn't care about those wild rumors that she and Bill Perlberg aren't getting along, because she's having fun making "But Nor For Me" and she thinks it's going to be a good picture. Bill has said nothing, not even admitting there's a quarrel or that Carroll has been on her high horse.

She confides that she and her husband, Jack Garfein, have plans to become a producing team. They have already acquired an original, "Miss America," and now they've bought a second property called "Mary Ann," by Alex E. Karmel, in which Carroll will be starred when it is filmed in New York for United Artists with Jack directing. It's a psychological drama about a girl who is attacked and suffers through the whole sorry experience and its aftermath without telling anyone about it.

If you ever saw a worried bridegroom, it's Greb Bautzer who hasn't been able to get a telephone call though to Dana Wynter, who is visiting her parents in South Rhodesia, just 20 miles from where the natives are stoning all cars carrying white people.

"I have had a cable from her that she's all right, but I cabled her when I couldn't get her on the telephone to come home right away and get out of there. I am sending a TWA plane for her."

I asked if her parents would leave and Greg said, no, that her father's a doctor, his hospital is there, he's needed, and he's dedicated to his profession.

Someone in Miami who stood in line to purchase a general admission ticket on the night "Al Capone" premiered, said that the widow of the noted gangster, was also among those in the line.

Mrs. Capone, it's said, registered complete indifference about the picture as long as Allied Artists kept her out of it. Niether she nor their son is mentioned in the picture.

Cardinal Richelieu was the founder of the Academie Francaise in 1635.

NOTICE

The Board of Zoning Appeals of the City of Cumberland will meet in the City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, Thursday, March 12, 1959, at 8:00 p. m. to hear the following appeals:

Mr. Joseph C. Wilson, 219 Pennsylvania Avenue, who has made application to occupy Rear Lot No. 219 Pennsylvania Avenue, by building a concrete block building 38' x 14', said building to be used for storage on first floor, and three room apartment on second floor, foundation will be built of concrete block, walls of concrete block, and roof covered with asphalt shingles; situate in Residential "B" Zoning District and owned by the applicant.

Mr. John R. Gross, agent for City Taxi Service, who has made application to occupy building No. 913 Maryland Avenue, as a Taxi Company Office, said building was formerly occupied as Goffs Grocery Store; situate in Residential "B" Zoning District and owned by May Twigg.

At the said time and place, any person may appear and testify as to the use of the said premises or object to the issuance of said occupancy permit.

JAMES C. GARDNER, Chairman
WILLIAM B. ORNDORFF, Secretary
H. CLIFFORD SPIKER, Member
Board of Zoning Appeals
Adv.—N-T-Mar. 11.

PUBLIC NOTICE

All interested persons are advised that the construction of Maryland Route 36 in Allegany County is being planned by the Maryland State Roads Commission. The contemplated location will begin in Westernport on Church Street at a point approximately 200 feet East of Main Street thence running in a northerly direction paralleling Main Street (with connecting streets at Washington Street and Oak View Drive) and then crossing main Street at Philos Avenue. The proposed new construction then crosses Georges Creek and continues in a northerly direction toward Phoenix Hill for a distance of 1.56 miles. The tentative location of this route is available at the office of the District Engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission. Any interested citizen of the Town of Westernport or areas affected by said route may request that a public hearing be held regarding such proposed location and the economic effect of such locations by delivering a written request to the District Engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission whose address is PO Box 450, Cumberland, Maryland on or before the 23rd day of March, 1959. In the event such a request is received a further notice of the time and place of the hearing will be published.
Adv.—N-T-Mar. 11-18.

REALIZING that a sixty dollar a month apartment costs you two dollars every day it is unrented doesn't it seem foolish not to be running for rent ad at the monthly rate that only runs thirty-seven cents a day and would probably rent the apartment

Garrett Police Issue Report

OAKLAND—The Oakland Police Department issued 5,387 parking tickets during 1958, according to Henry Arnold, police chief.

Parking tickets did not cost the offenders more than ten cents each time a violation occurred. There were 136 other tickets issued for violations such as parking wrong way on street, parking on red line, parking in restricted areas, alleys or driveways, failure to pay meter, running through red lights, reckless driving and speeding.

Arnold said 200 courtesy cards were placed on cars during the year for different violations. He added that 738 parking tickets were issued to persons in 28 states while 4,649 were issued to Maryland cars covering 61 towns. The department issued 167 tags to bicycle owners.

Appeal Filed In Moorefield Disposal Plan

MOOREFIELD—Mayor P. W. Clarke has ordered an appeal be made to Hardy County Circuit Court against the largest award ever made in a condemnation suit affecting this town.

A five-man condemnation board placed a value of $25,000 on 14.4 acres of land owned by Hamilton Wilson which has been sought by the community as a site for a proposed sewage disposal pond.

Members of the condemnation board were Holmes Branson, John McNeill, Delmer Crites, Glenn Biller and R. G. Kessel.

The Town of Moorefield offered Wilson $6,300 based on an appraisal made by a three-member board earlier this year. Members of this board were Courtney Pratt, R. E. Fisher and John Burch.

Attorneys H. R. Athey and Howard P. Shores of Keyser represented the Wilsons in the hearing before Judge H. Gus Muntzing, and called the following witnesses who testified to the value of the land per acre:

$1,200 by Conway Scott, $1,000 by M. I. Williams, $1,200 by Renick McNeill, $1,200 by Howard Wilson, $1,000 by Woodrow Brill, $1,500 by Price Riggleman, $1,200 by James Heavener and $1,000 by Albert Leatherman.

Howard Wilson testified that the 31 acres lying on the west side of the highway adjoining the tract were worth $35,000.

Attorney Ralph J. Bean represented the Town of Moorefield at the hearing.

Road Plans Explained

WESTERNPORT — Thirty-one homes in Westernport will be moved or razed if Maryland State Roads Commission plans for a new highway through that town are carried out, Mayor Ray L. Wilt reports.

The assessed value of these homes, he said, is $125,800. Present revenue to the town from the structures in taxes, water rents and garbage disposal is $2,789.

Mayor Wilt stated that he has been informed that SRC officials plan to discuss the road with property holders and interested citizens at a joint meeting.

Hampshire Co. 4-H Ham Show Is March 16

ROMNEY — The fourth annual Hampshire County 4-H ham and bacon show and sale will be held at 7:30 p. m. Monday, March 16, in the Romney fire house.

About 25 hams and a like number of bacons are expected to be entered in the event by local 4-H members enrolled in the second year pig feeding project.

The entries will be judged and placed in grades by Ben Wamsley, associate extension animal husbandman, Morgantown. Rosettes for the champion and reserve champion entries and ribbons for the other entries will be awarded the exhibitors by the Romney Lions Club.

Duplicate rosettes for the champions and reserve champions and ribbons for the higher grades of the remaining entries also will be furnished the buyers in the sale that evening.

The Bank of Romney will award $50 premium money to the exhibitors, and the State Department of Agriculture will furnish $75. The amount of premium money that each exhibitor receives will depend on his project circular score and the grades in which his entries are placed by the judge of the show.

This not only serves as an incentive for the club members to do a good job of growing their pigs and preparing the meat for the show but also encourages them to form the necessary habit of keeping accurate records.

The public sale will be held at 7:30 p. m., March 16, in the fire house and the meat will be sold to the highest bidders. Maxwell and Maurice Whipp will be the auctioneers. The entire receipts of the sale will go to the 4-H members who have entries in the event.

Thomas Stakem Elected To Head Holy Name Unit

MIDLAND — Members of the Holy Name Society, of St. Joseph's Catholic Church met recently and elected the following officers:

President, Thomas C. Stakem; vice president, Wilbur Crowe; secretary, John Stakem, and treasurer, Isaac Stakem.

Lenten devotions consisting of rosary recitation, a sermon and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will be held today in St. Joseph's Church at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Michael Carney, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Oakland, will deliver the first of a series of Lenten sermons.

Friday, Stations of the Cross will be held at 2:15 and 7 p. m., followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

STC Chapter Event May 11

FROSTBURG—Lillian C. Compton chapter of the Student National Education Association of Frostburg State Teacher College met recently to discuss results of committee meeting held in Baltimore.

The chapter made plans for the annual dinner the second Monday in May and invited Orville Berweeks, coordinator of MAFTA, to speak. An invitation was also extended to the Maryland Association of Future Teachers to hold its annual leadership conference on the Frostburg campus in October.

A representative of the World University Service was on campus last Thursday and a donation was made to the unit for aid to other college students around the world.

Dorothy Downs presented a summary from an article in the Maryland Teacher entitled "Treasure Chest for Gifted Children." Patricia McGraw reported on the NEA article, "New Expectations in the Elementary School." Patricia Kerns spoke on "Deductibility of Educational Expenses."

A panel discussion is planned for February 23. The topics are "Students Response to 400 and 500 Courses" and "Frostburg State Teachers' Summer School Program."

W. Va. Jobless Claims Mount

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—New claims for jobless benefits in West Virginia last week rose nearly 50 per cent over the previous week to a total of 4,887, the State Employment Security Department said Tuesday.

Total claims under the regular 24-week program were 26,506 a rise of 3,553. Under the temporary 12 - week extension, new claims totaled 858, up 14 from the previous week. Total claims under the temporary program were 5 211, a rise of 87.

Two Polio Cases Are Reported

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two polio cases in Boone County last week raised to nine the total of new cases reported in West Virginia this year—exactly three times the number recorded during the first nine weeks of 1958, the State Health Department said Tuesday.

Fire Report Is Submitted

FORT ASHBY — The Fort Ashby Volunteer Fire Company ambulance was used for 59 emergency calls and traveled a total of 2,202 miles during 1958, according to Chief Jesse Wagoner.

Volunteers answered 12 fire alarms as follows: four brush, five houses, one automobile and two assists, one to Oldtown and the other to Short Gap.

An average of 19 volunteers responded per fire call and 60 false alarms were answered during the year. The chief held 47 drills which consisted primarily of instruction on the use of fire fighting and life saving equipment.

In response to fire calls and training purposes a total of 274 miles were traveled, using both the new tank truck and the previously owned truck. Water pump mileage accumulated for both trucks for this period was 341 miles.

Club Arranges Ladies Night

KEYSER—Ladies night will be a feature of the weekly dinner meeting of Keyser Kiwanis Club here this evening. The dinner will be held in the dining room of the First Methodist Church on North Davis Street. A feature of the meeting will be a talk by a staff member of the Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Company.

At the last meeting of the club Wednesday evening, a welcome was extended to two new members. They are John Thrush and Harold Stewart. Officers formally commended 4-H Club members of the area, and two of the adults who work with the clubs. They are Joe Wimer, former local 4-H'er and Mineral County farm agent and his successor James E. Miller.

Asia Minor was the birthplace of the hotel industry, which grew from the practice of travelers finding lodging in homes of inhabitants while journeying to and fro between Greece and the Middle East.

The fife is believed to be the oldest of all musical wind instruments.

Oakland Ends Year In Good Financial Shape

OAKLAND—The annual report of the Town of Oakland once more shows the municipality is in "excellent" financial condition.

The community showed receipts of $115,587.43 and expenditures of $110,892.35, and had a balance to start off 1959 with $17,398.11. The balance at the end of last year was $12,703.03.

Receipts were over $3,000 in excess of receipts of last year. Expenditures totaled $110,892.35.

Receipts included $40,938.07 from taxes, $,946.87 from general; $28,945.56 from the Water Department, and $10,156.93 from the Police Department.

Expenditures included $40,263.53 for Street Department, $33,242.31 for Water Department, $15,299.75 for Police Department and $22,031.76 for general. Both the water—police department expenditures exceeded receipts. However, the capital outlay in these departments was considerable. In the Water Department a thawing machine was purchased for $698.94, water meters $3,271.20 and two water pumps $2,413.62.

Traffic lights cost $398.43 and parking meters $1,155 for a total of $1,553.43. In the Street Department here was an outlay of $6,477.74 for a grader and $114.99 for a broom for the truck.

Mrs. Gladys Nordeck, clerk-collector, said that better than 90 per cent of the 1958 taxes had been collected.

Receipts showed $11,671.62 from motor vehicle and gasoline revenue, and $8 814.70 from parking meters.

The town's total indebtedness is now only $13,000 which includes $3,000 in two per cent water bonds, $5,000 in West Maryland Power Company bonds and $5,000 on a note for the water farm, the latter payable $1,500 a year.

Garbage removal cost $3,590.04. Police protection cost was $10,050, with $1,323.98 for equipment, and $993.35 for the emergency police and disaster service.

At the said time and place, any person may appear and testify as to the use of the said premises or object to the issuance of said occupancy permit.

JAMES C. GARDNER, Chairman
WILLIAM B. ORNDORFF, Secretary
H. CLIFFORD SPIKER, Member
Board of Zoning Appeals
Adv.—N-T-Mar. 11.

PUBLIC NOTICE

All interested persons are advised that the construction of Maryland Route 36 in Allegany County is being planned by the Maryland State Roads Commission. The contemplated location will begin in Westernport on Church Street at a point approximately 200 feet East of Main Street thence running in a northerly direction paralleling Main Street (with connecting streets at Washington Street and Oak View Drive) and then crossing main Street at Philos Avenue. The proposed new construction then crosses Georges Creek and continues in a northerly direction toward Phoenix Hill for a distance of 1.56 miles. The tentative location of this route is available at the office of the District Engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission. Any interested citizen of the Town of Westernport or areas affected by said route may request that a public hearing be held regarding such proposed location and the economic effect of such locations by delivering a written request to the District Engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission whose address is PO Box 450, Cumberland, Maryland on or before the 23rd day of March, 1959. In the event such a request is received a further notice of the time and place of the hearing will be published.
Adv.—N-T-Mar. 11-18.

REALIZING that a sixty dollar a month apartment costs you two dollars every day it is unrented doesn't it seem foolish not to be running for rent ad at the monthly rate that only runs thirty-seven cents a day and would probably rent the apartment

Garrett Police Issue Report

OAKLAND—The Oakland Police Department issued 5,387 parking tickets during 1958, according to Henry Arnold, police chief.

Parking tickets did not cost the offenders more than ten cents each time a violation occurred. There were 136 other tickets issued for violations such as parking wrong way on street, parking on red line, parking in restricted areas, alleys or driveways, failure to pay meter, running through red lights, reckless driving and speeding.

Arnold said 200 courtesy cards were placed on cars during the year for different violations. He added that 738 parking tickets were issued to persons in 28 states while 4,649 were issued to Maryland cars covering 61 towns. The department issued 167 tags to bicycle owners.

Appeal Filed In Moorefield Disposal Plan

MOOREFIELD—Mayor P. W. Clarke has ordered an appeal be made to Hardy County Circuit Court against the largest award ever made in a condemnation suit affecting this town.

A five-man condemnation board placed a value of $25,000 on 14.4 acres of land owned by Hamilton Wilson which has been sought by the community as a site for a proposed sewage disposal pond.

Members of the condemnation board were Holmes Branson, John McNeill, Delmer Crites, Glenn Biller and R. G. Kessel.

The Town of Moorefield offered Wilson $6,300 based on an appraisal made by a three-member board earlier this year. Members of this board were Courtney Pratt, R. E. Fisher and John Burch.

Attorneys H. R. Athey and Howard P. Shores of Keyser represented the Wilsons in the hearing before Judge H. Gus Muntzing, and called the following witnesses who testified to the value of the land per acre:

$1,200 by Conway Scott, $1,000 by M. I. Williams, $1,200 by Renick McNeill, $1,200 by Howard Wilson, $1,000 by Woodrow Brill, $1,500 by Price Riggleman, $1,200 by James Heavener and $1,000 by Albert Leatherman.

Howard Wilson testified that the 31 acres lying on the west side of the highway adjoining the tract were worth $35,000.

Attorney Ralph J. Bean represented the Town of Moorefield at the hearing.

Road Plans Explained

WESTERNPORT — Thirty-one homes in Westernport will be moved or razed if Maryland State Roads Commission plans for a new highway through that town are carried out, Mayor Ray L. Wilt reports.

The assessed value of these homes, he said, is $125,800. Present revenue to the town from the structures in taxes, water rents and garbage disposal is $2,789.

Mayor Wilt stated that he has been informed that SRC officials plan to discuss the road with property holders and interested citizens at a joint meeting.

Hampshire Co. 4-H Ham Show Is March 16

ROMNEY — The fourth annual Hampshire County 4-H ham and bacon show and sale will be held at 7:30 p. m. Monday, March 16, in the Romney fire house.

About 25 hams and a like number of bacons are expected to be entered in the event by local 4-H members enrolled in the second year pig feeding project.

The entries will be judged and placed in grades by Ben Wamsley, associate extension animal husbandman, Morgantown. Rosettes for the champion and reserve champion entries and ribbons for the other entries will be awarded the exhibitors by the Romney Lions Club.

Duplicate rosettes for the champions and reserve champions and ribbons for the higher grades of the remaining entries also will be furnished the buyers in the sale that evening.

The Bank of Romney will award $50 premium money to the exhibitors, and the State Department of Agriculture will furnish $75. The amount of premium money that each exhibitor receives will depend on his project circular score and the grades in which his entries are placed by the judge of the show.

This not only serves as an incentive for the club members to do a good job of growing their pigs and preparing the meat for the show but also encourages them to form the necessary habit of keeping accurate records.

The public sale will be held at 7:30 p. m., March 16, in the fire house and the meat will be sold to the highest bidders. Maxwell and Maurice Whipp will be the auctioneers. The entire receipts of the sale will go to the 4-H members who have entries in the event.

President, Thomas C. Stakem; vice president, Wilbur Crowe; secretary, John Stakem, and treasurer, Isaac Stakem.

Lenten devotions consisting of rosary recitation, a sermon and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will be held today in St. Joseph's Church at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Michael Carney, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Oakland, will deliver the first of a series of Lenten sermons.

Friday, Stations of the Cross will be held at 2:15 and 7 p. m., followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

STC Chapter Event May 11

FROSTBURG—Lillian C. Compton chapter of the Student National Education Association of Frostburg State Teacher College met recently to discuss results of committee meeting held in Baltimore.

The chapter made plans for the annual dinner the second Monday in May and invited Orville Berweeks, coordinator of MAFTA, to speak. An invitation was also extended to the Maryland Association of Future Teachers to hold its annual leadership conference on the Frostburg campus in October.

A representative of the World University Service was on campus last Thursday and a donation was made to the unit for aid to other college students around the world.

Dorothy Downs presented a summary from an article in the Maryland Teacher entitled "Treasure Chest for Gifted Children." Patricia McGraw reported on the NEA article, "New Expectations in the Elementary School." Patricia Kerns spoke on "Deductibility of Educational Expenses."

A panel discussion is planned for February 23. The topics are "Students Response to 400 and 500 Courses" and "Frostburg State Teachers' Summer School Program."

W. Va. Jobless Claims Mount

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—New claims for jobless benefits in West Virginia last week rose nearly 50 per cent over the previous week to a total of 4,887, the State Employment Security Department said Tuesday.

Total claims under the regular 24-week program were 26,506 a rise of 3,553. Under the temporary 12 - week extension, new claims totaled 858, up 14 from the previous week. Total claims under the temporary program were 5,211, a rise of 87.

Two Polio Cases Are Reported

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two polio cases in Boone County last week raised to nine the total of new cases reported in West Virginia this year—exactly three times the number recorded during the first nine weeks of 1958, the State Health Department said Tuesday.

Fire Report Is Submitted

FORT ASHBY — The Fort Ashby Volunteer Fire Company ambulance was used for 59 emergency calls and traveled a total of 2,202 miles during 1958, according to Chief Jesse Wagoner.

Volunteers answered 12 fire alarms as follows: four brush, five houses, one automobile and two assists, one to Oldtown and the other to Short Gap.

An average of 19 volunteers responded per fire call and 60 false alarms were answered during the year. The chief held 47 drills which consisted primarily of instruction on the use of fire fighting and life saving equipment.

In response to fire calls and training purposes a total of 274 miles were traveled, using both the new tank truck and the previously owned truck. Water pump mileage accumulated for both trucks for this period was 341 miles.

Club Arranges Ladies Night

KEYSER—Ladies night will be a feature of the weekly dinner meeting of Keyser Kiwanis Club here this evening. The dinner will be held in the dining room of the First Methodist Church on North Davis Street. A feature of the meeting will be a talk by a staff member of the Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Company.

At the last meeting of the club Wednesday evening, a welcome was extended to two new members. They are John Thrush and Harold Stewart. Officers formally commended 4-H Club members of the area, and two of the adults who work with the clubs. They are Joe Wimer, former local 4-H'er and Mineral County farm agent and his successor James E. Miller.

Oakland Ends Year In Good Financial Shape

OAKLAND—The annual report of the Town of Oakland once more shows the municipality is in "excellent" financial condition.

The community showed receipts of $115,567.43 and expenditures of $110,892.35, and had a balance to start off 1959 with $17,398.11. The balance at the end of last year was $12,703.03.

Receipts were over $3,000 in excess of receipts of last year. Expenditures totaled $11[illegible],892.35.

Receipts included $40,938.07 from taxes, $[illegible],046.87 from general; $28,945.56 from the Water Department, and $10,156.93 from the Police Department.

Expenditures included $40,263.53 for Street Department, $33,242.31 for Water Department, $15,299.75 for Police Department and $22,031.76 for general. Both the water—police department expenditures exceeded receipts. However, the capital outlay in these departments was considerable. In the Water Department a thawing machine was purchased for $698.94, water meters $3,271.20 and two water pumps $2,413.62.

Traffic lights cost $398.43 and parking meters $1,155 for a total of $1,553.43. In the Street Department here was an outlay of $6,477.74 for a grader and $114.99 for a broom for the truck.

Mrs. Gladys Nordeck, clerk-collector, said that better than 90 per cent of the 1958 taxes had been collected.

Receipts showed $11,671.62 from motor vehicle and gasoline revenue, and $8,814.70 from parking meters.

The town's total indebtedness is now only $13,000 which includes $3,000 in two per cent water bonds, $5,000 in West Maryland Power Company bonds and $5,000 on a note for the water farm, the latter payable $1,500 a year.

Garbage removal cost $3,590.04. Police protection cost was $10,050, with $1,323.98 for equipment, and $993.35 for the emergency police and disaster service.

Stock Market Irregularly Higher; U.S. Rubber Up 3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved irregularly higher with a group of new features moving to the front such as U. S. Rubber which gained nearly 3 points on news that its man-made duplicate of natural rubber is in commercial production.

Chrysler Corp. was marked up 2½ points when its president revealed the company is heading for 20 per cent of the auto market this year and said Chrysler has a small car ready to go into production should the competition make such a move, but will not be the first of the "big three" to enter the field.

American Motors, leading in the small car field, rose 1½ points. Ford and General Motors eased.

Solar Aircraft ran up 2¼ points to 22¼ as Fairbanks-Morse purchased a 94,000-share block of the stock from the Budd Co. at 20. This block lifted it into top place in the actives. Boxing Airplane, off 2¾ to 40⅛, and Alaska Juneau, up ⅝ to 5⅛, rounded out the top three active issues.

Vick Chemical spurted again after a setback Monday and closed with an 11¼ point gain. U. S. Vitamin, which lost ground in its first day of "big board" trading on Monday, recovered over a point. American Home Products ran up over 5.

Thiokol Chemical, still responding to its Minuteman contract award, added another 3½ points in a day of wide price swings. General Tire, whose Aerojet-General subsidiary, also received a large Minuteman contract, gained more than a point.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Lipstick Lore

There's more to a pretty mouth than meets the glance. As has been so often said: "If the eyes are the center of expression of thought, the mouth is the center of feeling."

Your mouth is your most flexible feature. And to acquire the most lip lure, you must know the most lip lore.

Generally speaking, the most characteristic shapes of the mouth are:

Classic—with lips of moderate thickness and upper lip shaped like a "Cupid's bow."

Regular

Large with full lips

Wide mouth with thin, curving lips

Small with slightly protruding lips

Small, heart-shaped mouth

Mouth with protruding upper lip

Mouth with protruding lower lip

Closed mouth, with strongly compressed lips

Mouth with receding lips

Mouth with lips curving downward

Mouth with light upper lip

By artful application of lipstick you can show your true lip line to better advantage than you ever dreamed possible.

If you're dissatisfied with the shape of your mouth, you can change it by one of three methods. First you can reshape it by changing the outlines of your lips.

Or, you can apply the lipstick more lightly on the parts of the mouth you wish to play down—more heavily on the parts you want to play up.

The last method applies only to lips that are too full. You can disguise the fullness by covering some of it up with tinted make-up base. The trick is to avoid your natural lipline and instead draw the shape you desire. Cheat the corners if you have a large mouth. Extend circumference if you have a small mouth.

Remember, too, that the brighter the lipstick shade you use, the larger your mouth looks.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—The March and May wheat futures led wheat and rye prices lower on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday.

Wheat closed off ½ to 1½ cents; corn (old) up ⅜ cent; (new) up ⅛ to ⅝ cent; oats unchanged to up ¼ cent; rye off ½ to 1 cent; soybeans off ⅝ to up ⅜ cent.

A decline followed tenders of 1,335,000 bushels against March wheat and exchange directors' action upping margin requirements for March and May wheat four cents per bushel to 12 cents.

Rye trade was light, but the undertone was weak. Some local buying was evident in nearby contracts and a house with Eastern connections bought September rye.

New corn futures were firmer, partly because of slow country movement. Old corn was weak.

Oats futures were firm on cash house buying in the March and May deliveries.

Trading in soybeans was slow and prices uneven within a fairly narrow range at the close.

On outside markets, wheat and rye were generally lower, oats and corn about steady.

Stock Market Irregularly Higher; U.S. Rubber Up 3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved irregularly higher with a group of new features moving to the front such as U. S. Rubber which gained nearly 3 points on news that its man-made duplicate of natural rubber is in commercial production.

Chrysler Corp. was marked up 2½ points when its president revealed the company is heading for 20 per cent of the auto market this year and said Chrysler has a small car ready to go into production should the competition make such a move, but will not be the first of the "big three" to enter the field.

American Motors, leading in the small car field, rose 1½ points. Ford and General Motors eased.

Solar Aircraft ran up 2¼ points to 22¼ as Fairbanks-Morse purchased a 94,000-share block of the stock from the Budd Co. at 20. This block lifted it into top place in the actives. Boxing Airplane, off 2¾ to 40⅛, and Alaska Juneau, up ⅝ to 5⅛, rounded out the top three active issues.

Vick Chemical spurted again after a setback Monday and closed with an 11¼ point gain. U. S. Vitamin, which lost ground in its first day of "big board" trading on Monday, recovered over a point. American Home Products ran up over 5.

Thiokol Chemical, still responding to its Minuteman contract award, added another 3½ points in a day of wide price swings. General Tire, whose Aerojet-General subsidiary, also received a large Minuteman contract, gained more than a point.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Lipstick Lore

There's more to a pretty mouth than meets the glance. As has been so often said: "If the eyes are the center of expression of thought, the mouth is the center of feeling."

Your mouth is your most flexible feature. And to acquire the most lip lure, you must know the most lip lore.

Generally speaking, the most characteristic shapes of the mouth are:

Classic—with lips of moderate thickness and upper lip shaped like a "Cupid's bow."

Regular

Large with full lips

Wide mouth with thin, curving lips

Small with slightly protruding lips

Small, heart-shaped mouth

Mouth with protruding upper lip

Mouth with protruding lower lip

Closed mouth, with strongly compressed lips

Mouth with receding lips

Mouth with lips curving downward

Mouth with light upper lip

By artful application of lipstick you can show your true lip line to better advantage than you ever dreamed possible.

If you're dissatisfied with the shape of your mouth, you can change it by one of three methods. First you can reshape it by changing the outlines of your lips.

Or, you can apply the lipstick more lightly on the parts of the mouth you wish to play down—more heavily on the parts you want to play up.

The last method applies only to lips that are too full. You can disguise the fullness by covering some of it up with tinted make-up base. The trick is to avoid your natural lipline and instead draw the shape you desire. Cheat the corners if you have a large mouth. Extend circumference if you have a small mouth.

Remember, too, that the brighter the lipstick shade you use, the larger your mouth looks.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—The March and May wheat futures led wheat and rye prices lower on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday.

Wheat closed off ½ to 1½ cents; corn (old) up ⅝ cent; (new) up ⅛ to ⅝ cent; oats unchanged to up ¼ cent; rye off ½ to 1 cent; soybeans off ⅝ to up ⅜ cent.

A decline followed tenders of 1,335,000 bushels against March wheat and exchange directors' action upping margin requirements for March and May wheat four cents per bushel to 12 cents.

Rye trade was light, but the undertone was weak. Some local buying was evident in nearby contracts and a house with Eastern connections bought September rye.

New corn futures were firmer, partly because of slow country movement. Old corn was weak.

Oats futures were firm on cash house buying in the March and May deliveries.

Trading in soybeans was slow and prices uneven within a fairly narrow range at the close.

On outside markets, wheat and rye were generally lower, oats and corn about steady.

Health Budget Is Reduced To $210,578

Sylvan Retreat Closing Urged

The Allegany County Commissioners, sitting as the County Board of Health, last night, pared $23,268 off the budget submitted by Dr. Ton van Strien, health officer, and tentatively approved a minimum Health Department budget of $210,578, of which the county will pay $88,667.58.

The commissioners, expressing concern with the rising costs of government and determination to keep the tax rate stable, also proposed the abolishment of Sylvan Retreat in an effort to cut the county's costs.

Meeting in the offices of Dr. van Strien in the Public Safety Building, the commissioners refused to approve the proposed budget of $239,423 submitted by the county health officer. The commissioners felt the total county contribution of $106,846.78 under the proposed budget was much too high and cut the figure to $88,667.58, of which $5,000 was tentatively placed in a contingency fund. This also includes $6,121 for expenditures which are not matched by state funds.

The tentative figure of $6,215 more than the $82,452.37 paid by the county for last year's Health Department budget of $193,524.

Concern Expressed

All of the commissioners expressed concern in the hike in salaries of state health employes which jumped the budget request by $15,976.

However, the commissioners did approve a raise of $300 in the salary of Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant in the Health Department.

Also approved was a supplemental request by Dr. van Strien for a $700 dictaphone for use in the mental health clinics. Also approved was an additional $130 for the speech and hearing clinics.

In paring the budget to the minimum estimated by the state, the commissioners cut out a request for a director-supervisor of nurses at a salary of $5,500; a request for a clinical director at a salary of $10,000; and the dental department which was budgeted at $11,870 and which has not existed for over two years.

Retreat Costs $128,000

The commissioners than discussed the plan to abolish Sylvan Retreat, the only county-operated asylum in Maryland, which costs approximately $128,000 a year to operate. Matching state funds of approximately $58,000 help in the operation of the retreat.

Chairman John J. Rowan expressed the belief that the county could send the 87 patients at Sylvan Retreat to Springfield State Hospital at a cost of about $11,000, thus saving the county nearly $60,000.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he is "lukewarm to the idea" but would like to hear from the public.

Commissioner J. Tucker Mason, while expressing a desire to cut expenses wherever possible, did not commit himself entirely to the proposal.

Dr. van Strien, asked if he thought Sylvan Retreat was necessary, said he felt that it could be abolished if the county provided "holding rooms" for patients until they could be examined and sent to Springfield. He said he was merely quoting statements made previously by psychiatrists that the asylum could be abandoned.

Commenting on the contingency fund of $5,000 which brought the budget to the minimum requested by the Health Department, Commissioner Mason asked "Where is the money coming from?"

Commissioner Rowan then told Dr. van Strien that the contingency fund will be subject to a study of the budget and will be granted "provided we can see our way clear."

Fire Damages Pickup Truck

A pickup truck owned by Gilbert Moon, 903 Virginia Avenue, was badly damaged yesterday morning when a fuel line apparently broke and caught fire. East Side Fire Company, answering the alarm at 9:45 a.m., spent over an hour before extinguishing the blaze.

Firemen said both the truck and its contents were burned. The fire started in front of 222 Columbia Street.

Public Health Nurse To Be Feted By Cresaptown PTA

MARGARET MORRISSEY

Allegany County's first public health nurse, Miss Margaret L. Morrissey of 803 Piedmont Avenue, who is still active after nearly 36 years of continuous service, will be honored tomorrow at 6:15 p.m. at a testimonial dinner by the Cresaptown Parent-Teachers Association.

She was appointed a public health nurse April 1, 1923, at which time Cumberland had two members on the nursing staff, the county was unorganized and there were no nurses working outside the city.

Miss Morrissey recalls that the old Model T Ford was the means of transportation to the more remote places in those days. She said the health nurse would accompany the health officer and would give instructions to a family which had typhoid fever, scarlet fever or diphtheria when the doctor quarantined the home.

From 1923 to 1925 public health activities consisted mostly of the control of communicable disease through quarantine and immunization, she added.

Simple Beginnings

According to the nurse, the first dental clinic in the county was conducted in the cloak room of a little red school house by Dr. Arthur P. Dixon, who volunteered his services. Later, a school dentist was appointed.

She recalls that the first hot lunch program in the county was started by Miss Margaret Blake, one of the teachers in rural sections. Children donated vegetables, and pennies contributed through school activities paid for the meat. Soup was made during the morning recess.

In 1924, she said, Dr. Maxon Knox of the Infant Hygiene Bureau of Baltimore, made up a

Health Dept. Moving Plan Submitted

At last night's meeting of the County Board of Health, Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, submitted tentative plans for moving the Health Department to the County Building on Union Street.

The plans call for the Health Department to occupy all the rooms in the county building with the exception of Juvenile Court and Trial Magistrates Court.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners, meeting as a board of health, were told that the Health Department is badly in need of additional space and that the city has requested that health clinics now set up in the basement of City Hall be moved.

Dr. van Strien's proposal would convert the present state's attorney's offices on the first floor into a medical care room, waiting room, secretary's office, supply room and an office for the county health officer.

The room used by the Health Department on the first floor would be converted into dressing rooms, waiting room, nurses' quarters, three examination rooms, blood test laboratory and a maternity clinic.

The entire second floor of the building, now occupied by several lawyers, the Boy Scouts of America, Alcoholics Anonymous, state vocational rehabilitation offices, and the Allegany-Garrett County Tuberculosis Association, would be turned over to the Health Department for laboratories, sanitarians' office, sanitary engineer's office, working rooms, hearing and speech clinics, clinic nurses' offices, waiting rooms, clinician, psychiatrist staff rooms and dental clinic rooms.

The county commissioners, expressing approval of the plan, said further study must be made before the Health Department can be moved. Several alternate plans also are under study, the commissioners said.

The commissioners then said that another change, under study by the board, is to move the juvenile detention quarters from the Allegany County Infirmary.

The commissioners said facilities for the juveniles are not adequate and that destruction is caused by delinquents held in custody.

Chairman John J. Rowan said Sheriff Paul Haberlain has submitted a proposal to the board to renovate the fourth floor of the Allegany County Jail for use as juvenile detention quarters.

He added that under the supervision of the sheriff and his deputies the juveniles would get better care and would not come into contact with other prisoners held in the county lockup.

Glass Workers Union To Hold Annual Election

Local 180, United Glass and Ceramics Workers, AFL-CIO, will hold its annual election of officers next week.

Ballots will be cast next Tuesday, March 17, from 3 to 4 p. m. and Wednesday, March 18, from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. in the training room of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7. The candidates include:

President — Charles Buskirk and Andrew Lewis.

Vice president—Robert O. Miller, John McMahon, Walter P. Dennison, Frank Parsons, Joseph Falconi and Hugh Cook.

Secretary — Harold Fansler, Frederick Knoblock and James Mills.

Financial secretary, Arthur Maness, unopposed.

Trustee (three years)—Ronald Twigg, James Wright and Hubert Feeney.

Inner guard—Reynold Ciccanti James White and Richard Hughes.

The election will be conducted by a committee headed by Robert Seymour. Other members of the committee are Arthur Bratt, William Edwards, George Evans, Clarense Von Baumann and Earl Portmess.

Officials reported that if a run-off election is needed it will be held the following Tuesday and Wednesday.

TV Association Elects Jenkins

Leroy "Bill" Jenkins was named president of the Peoples Community Television Association, Inc., during a reorganizational meeting held by the directors this week.

Delphin E. Treiber was named vice president; G. Bernard Miltenberger, treasurer, and Regis Brinker, secretary.

Audit, collection, technical, bylaws and publicity committees were named by the new president, who said the association has collected nearly $6,000 which is needed for the purchase of the first translator which will be installed on Irons Mountain.

The 10-watt translator is necessary for the broadcasting of UHF-TV. An immediate drive for funds on a house-to-house basis will be undertaken, the association reported.

Four public meetings are planned for 7:30 p. m. Friday, at Chapel Hill Hose House, Arch Street; Moose Home, Beall Street; the field house of North End Playground, Holland Street; and the City Hall auditorium.

At each meeting demonstrations on the use of converters will be shown and questions regarding the reception of UHF will be answered.

C Of C Legislative Unit Will Meet

The legislative committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will meet today at 4 p. m. in the Chamber offices with Harry I. Stegmaier, chairman, in charge.

Business will include a discussion on the Chamber's political action plan, pending unemployment compensation proposals in Maryland and federal legislation to provide industrial development funds for depressed areas.

House Of Delegates Passes Hospital Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The House of Delegates favored Tuesday speeding up the time when Miners Hospital becomes a full-fledged private institution.

Republican Dels. Reed and Kelley cast the only negative votes. Reed said they did so because the mayor and council of Cumberland had telegraphed for a hearing on the bill. (See page 17).

The Ways & Means Committee already has heard a plea from representatives of the hospital for more money. Instead it proposed to discontinue direct state appropriations to the hospital next year instead of 1961.

The state had planned to discontinue appropriations over a four-year period at the rate of 25 per cent less each year.

This year it is receiving $83,000 and $22,000 was scheduled for next.

The House committee figured the hospital would receive at least as much money next year by becoming eligible for other forms of state aid as a private institution as it would under the 25 per cent plan.

However, it is guaranteed at least $22,000 in the bill tentatively approved by the House. If the state aid fails to match it, a supplemental appropriation is provided for.

Movie Censor Bill Rejected By Delegates

Substitute Gets Tentative OK

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland House of Delegates rejected Tuesday state censorship of movies for children.

Instead, it tentatively approved a bill that would make exhibitors determine if some films would be objectionable to children and refuse to admit them.

The film censorship issue brought out the longest debate of the session, lasting about an hour and 15 minutes.

The delegates first voted 71-48 to put the responsibility for keeping minors from seeing obscene movies that would corrupt their morals up to the theater owners. If local enforcement authorities felt they were showing an improper film to children, the owner could be arrested and subject to a fine of $100 and imprisonment for 30 days.

The bill, when it is passed as expected, will go to the Senate, which also has the alternative state censorship proposal which the House buried by a 65-33 vote.

Tawes Signs Bill

While the delegates were engaged with movie censorship, Gov. Tawes was putting his hands on some extra money to spend.

He signed a bill reducing from 3 to 2 per cent the amount of gross sales taxes which vendors may keep for expenses in collecting the levy.

This will net the state $100,000 more than it anticipated this year and $500,000 next year. The $600,000 is part of the higher estimates of revenue given the governor Monday and which totaled an increase of $2,978,000.

Censorship in any form took a verbal beating in the debate over films.

"It is extremely repugnant to free people," declared Del. Whitmore (D-Anne Arundel). "A worse obscenity than dirty films is the surrender of liberty."

The Issues

"The issue narrows down to those who oppose censorship and others who feel that authoritarianism has a place in the conduct of affairs of people," said Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th).

"There is no more important issue than those dealing with our freedoms."

He ridiculed the idea of having a state censor ban films only for children. It would in effect be putting on films a label "obscenity for adults only," the delegates said.

"It is a frantic and desperate attempt to revive censorship under the guise of protection of our youth," he claimed.

Gallagher Opposes

The state censors now may disapprove films they consider objectionable and theaters can show them to no one. The Supreme Court has whittled away several grounds for banning films to only one, obscenity. Maryland censors, one of only four state boards left, last year banned no film and ordered deletions from 11.

Del. Gallagher (D-Balto 3rd) was the only opponent of the alternate bill to state censorship. He said leaving the decisions on the local level would "create confusion and militate against any kind of enforcement."

It would make every theater operator a censor and the courts boards of review. He claimed such a law would not work because police and judge would hesitate to call any film objectionable for children after the state censors had previously cleared it for viewing by everyone.

Man Dies In Park

A 48-year-old local man was found dead yesterday evening in Constitution Park about 50 yards from his parked car.

Robert C. Aman, 247 North Mechanic Street, died of natural causes, according to the deputy county medical examiner's office, which reported the man had suffered a heart attack while he was apparently "running" his dog in the park.

The dog was by the man's side when police arrived on the scene.

The victim, who was employed as a meat cutter at the A&P Market on Wineow Street, apparently had taken the dog for a run, and when he suffered the attack, sat down at a park table. His body was slumped on the ground near the table bench.

Police received a call at 8:02 p. m. from Robert C. Golden, park superintendent, who said that someone reported to him that a man was lying in the park.

Authorities think the man had been dead about two hours before being found. Officer Elmer Shank and Police Detective Kenneth Morrissey investigated.

The man's body was taken to the Kight Funeral Home. He was born April 10, 1910.

Magistrate Baron Is In Hospital

Trial Magistrate Morris Baron, 516 Washington Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital Monday night and is expected to undergo surgery this morning.

Substitute Magistrate Jack Mullen of Westernport is asuming his court duties.

Five-Year Vote Review Begins At City Hall

Registration officials at City Hall yesterday began checking the records of 11,754 voters to see if they voted during the past five years.

The names of those who did not cast a ballot since 1952 are being removed from the records.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said the check is not expected to affect very many voters.

Similar scrutiny has taken a heavy toll in recent years, as the books contained about 21,000 names when the city began its continuous registration system in 1951.

37,438 Eligible To Cast Votes In This County

Allegany County had 37,438 registered voters as of March 1, according to the monthly report of Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar and chief clerk of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

There was a slight decrease in the number of registered voters during February. The names of some 44 registered voters, who had died, were stricken from the books. Included were 27 Republicans and 17 Democrats.

Some 17 prospective new voters registered last month. Ten of them signed up as Democrats and seven as Republicans. In addition, four men who had been registered as Republicans switched to the Democratic banner. There also were nine transfers and three others were change of name or address only.

Registered voters as of March 1 included 21,165 Republicans, 10,700 men and 10,465 women; 16,003 Democrats, 8,306 Democrats and 7,697 women; 258 independents, 181 men and 77 women; 10 Socialists, six men and four women, and two members of other parties, one man and one woman.

Those who would like to register but are not now signed up were reminded yesterday that they may register at the Court House this month when they go there to purchase their new automobile license tags.

The election board office in the Court House basement is open from 9 a. m. until noon and 1 until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

Escapee Caught By City Police

John Joseph Moravia, 32, of Route 1, city, was captured yesterday morning by city police who said he had attempted to batter down the front door of a Frederick Street residence.

Police said Moravia had been sought since February 22 as an escapee from the Springfield State Hospital.

Ronald L. Sheally, 819 Frederick Street, reported that Moravia who is his brother-in-law had splintered several panels in the front door of his house in an attempt to break in about 4:30 a.m.

Police converged on the area and Moravia attempted to escape by running down an alley at Carver School. He was finally ringed in and captured on Bedford Street near First Christian Church.

Officer Philip H. Statler of the hospital staff took Moravia back to Springfield yesterday afternoon.

Commissioners Discuss George's Creek Survey

Edward Kidd, a representative of the Robert T. Regester consulting engineering firm of Baltimore, discussed the proposed George's Creek sewage survey at some length yesterday with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The way has been cleared for the county commissioners to enter into contract for such services, House Bill 204, which was signed into law last week by Governor J. Millard Tawes, enables the county commissioners to contract for professional services without advertising for competitive bids.

Last year, the county commissioners advertised for bids for the George's Creek sewage survey but all three interested companies ultimately refused to bid competitively.

When Commissioner William A. Wilson raised a question yesterday about competitive bidding he was informed that consulting engineers are not allowed to bid when price is held as the prime consideration. Mr. Wilson had pointed out that the Regester firm had lowered its estimate on the George's Creek survey from about $11,000 to about $8,000.

Last Friday, the county commissioners requested Green Associates Inc., also of Baltimore, to discuss this sewage survey and its approximate cost. Yesterday, Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, suggested that the Baker, Wibberley firm of Hagerstown should be requested to send its representative here for a discussion.

The commissioners yesterday also expressed a desire to meet with representatives of the County Teachers Association concerning Senate Bill 58, the supplemental teachers' pension bill. This measure has passed the Senate and now is before the House of Delegates.

2 D.C. Men Are Jailed In Auto Theft

Two Washington, D.C. brothers were sentenced to 30 days in Allegany County jail last night in default of $25.75 fines imposed by Trial Magistrate William E. Meagher of Cresaptown, who found them guilty of stealing a car from a local man early yesterday morning.

Seven minutes after the stolen car report went out yesterday, State Trooper Robert Kirby spotted the local man's car in Hancock and arrested the two men.

Anthony Riola, 22, was found guilty of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. His brother, Joseph Riola, 18, was found guilty of assisting in the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

The men were brought back to Cumberland by Trooper Richard Graham and taken before the magistrate last night. State Police said the car of James Kenneth Raines of 504 Decatur Street had been reported stolen from Baltimore Avenue about 1:10 a. m. yesterday. About half an hour later the two men were picked up.

Firemen from South End yesterday evening extinguished a flue fire at 1105 Kentucky Avenue. No damage was reported in the fire, which occurred at 6:56 p. m.

Cheerleader's Death Cited In Two Suits

Two suits seeking a total of $15,000 damages as a result of the death last December 22 of a 16-year-old Valley High School cheerleader were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Both actions were filed by Charles Frederick Sloan, State Street, Lonaconing, as administrator of the estate of Donna Lee Sloan. They were filed for Mr. Sloan by Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport attorney.

Defendants are Harry Joseph Warnick, 20, of Lonaconing, who was driving the car in which Miss Sloan was a passenger; Harry Thomas Warnick, also of Lonaconing, father of the youth and owner of the car the boy was driving, and Richard James Hawkins, Paradise Street, Midland, who had backed his car onto State Route 36 at Knapps Meadow just before the accident occurred.

Mr. Sloan, as administrator of the estate of his 16-year-old daughter, sued for $10,000 for his daughter's pain and suffering, hospital, medical and funeral expenses. The $5,000 suit was filed in behalf of the father for loss of his daughter's services.

The declarations state that Harry Joseph Warnick was driving his father's 1953 model automobile north on State Route 36 at an excessive speed and the Sloan girl had requested him unsuccessfully to reduce his speed.

The declarations accuse Hawkins of backing onto the highway from an alley without coming to a full stop before reaching the intersection. Young Warnick swerved to avoid the Hawkins car, struck the dwelling of Alexander B. and Anna M. McAlpine, spun around, struck the right rear of Hawkins' car and overturned, the declarations say.

Schools Report Attendance Up

Normal attendance in public and parochial schools apparently soon will be standard.

Virtually all schools checked yesterday indicated that attendance there was better than on Monday. Apparently the peak for influenza, which has made many children ill, was reached over last weekend.

Absenteeism was greater among the elementary school children than in high schools.

PPG Office Workers Sign New Agreement

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union have signed a two-year agreement covering about 450 office workers in five of the company's seven glass plants.

A joint statement by union and management spokesmen from Cincinnati, Ohio, disclosed that the contract grants a six per cent increase the first year, plus $2 per month across the board. Plants at Cumberland and Mt. Vernon, Ohio, are not covered by the agreement. It does involve plants at Creighton and Ford City, Pa., Clarksburg, W. Va., Crystal City, Mo., and Henryetta, Okla.

Attend State Democratic Dinner

Allegany County Young Democrats were represented at the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner and dance Saturday night at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore, as 562 party enthusiasts from all parts of the state held the annual observance. Shown here conversing with Gov. Millard Tawes, one of the guest speakers, are Mrs. Anne B. Everline, local secretary to Rep. John R. Foley; F. Allan Weatherholt, local newspaperman and member of the Allegany County State Central Committee; William B. Orndorff, new county tax collector; and Thomas G. Barton, newly appointed trial magistrate at Cresaptown.

James Mason Discharge Is Sustained

Ruling Is Given In Miller Case

The dismissal of James J. Mason from the Cumberland Police Department was sustained last night by the Civil Service Commission, according to Francis A. Kenney, chairman.

The action was taken as the commission met in City Hall to review testimony in two appeal hearings.

The former city patrolman was discharged for "conduct unbecoming an officer," and is currently free under $500 bond pending action of the April grand jury on an assault charge.

He was discharged after his arrest on January 25 in Hancock, where he allegedly fled to avoid arrest for assaulting Miss Eleanor Williams during a disturbance on West Second Street that morning.

She was one of the witnesses at the hearing held by the Civil Service Board on March 4.

The second decision related to a complaint filed by Lester Miller, Hazen Road extended, who argued at a February 9 hearing that the Water Department hired another man for work he performed before his pipefitter's position was abolished last October.

The decision was generally that Mr. Miller was entitled to be reclassified as a maintenance man when others, who performed similar duties, were so designated.

It pointed out that the Water Department acted properly when it abolished the pipefitter's job, but that, since he had duties similar to other employes, he was entitled to be reclassified as a maintenance man.

Liquor Board Record Filed

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners' record in the successful effort of the Potomac Fruit Market to get its beer, wine and liquor license transferred from 65 North Centre Street to LaVale was filed yesterday in Circuit Court.

Last Friday, 11 remonstrants opposed to the license switch, through Attorney Earl E. Manges, filed an appeal in Circuit Court asking a review of the liquor board's decision. Mrs. Clifton Loar, Rev. W. W. Patterson, Dorothy V. Tucker, J. C. Lanning, Luther Smith, Geneva Dreyer, Lillian Smith, Mrs. Charles Kennard, John T. Coleman, Robert B. Young and William Dyche are the remonstrants.

They filed their appeal from the liquor board's decision of February 26 which approved the switch to LaVale by a two-to-one vote. Stanley Hamilton and Howard Vandegrift voted for the move and Edward J. Ryan dissented.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley signed an order in Circuit Court here last Friday giving the liquor board 15 days to turn over all of the pertinent records. Yesterday was only the fourth day since the order was signed.

House Passes Area Bills

Three Western Maryland bills have been passed by the House of Delegates this week.

House Bill 422, sponsored by the Allegany County Delegation, would include this county among counties which require an additional $2 fee for marriage licenses.

The legislation provides that the extra money be turned over to the county for general purposes. The present fee is $2 for residents and $3 for non-residents.

Also passed was House Bill 456, by the Allegany and Garrett delegations, to authorize the Allegany and Garrett Circuit courts to set a schedule of fees charged by the court stenographer.

House Bill 463 was also passed. It is sponsored by the Allegany Delegation to allow the re-recording of certain county records by photostating.

Health Budget Is Reduced To $210,578

Sylvan Retreat Closing Urged

The Allegany County Commissioners, sitting as the County Board of Health, last night, pared $23,268 off the budget submitted by Dr. Ton van Strien, health officer, and tentatively approved a minimum Health Department budget of $210,578, of which the county will pay $88,667.58.

The commissioners, expressing concern with the rising costs of government and determination to keep the tax rate stable, also proposed the abolishment of Sylvan Retreat in an effort to cut the county's costs.

Meeting in the offices of Dr. van Strien in the Public Safety Building, the commissioners refused to approve the proposed budget of $239,423 submitted by the county health officer. The commissioners felt the total county contribution of $106,846.78 under the proposed budget was much too high, and cut the figure to $88,667.58, of which $5,000 was tentatively placed in a contingency fund. This also includes $6,121 for expenditures which are not matched by state funds.

The tentative figure of $6,215 more than the $82,452.37 paid by the county for last year's Health Department budget of $193,524.

Concern Expressed

All of the commissioners expressed concern in the hike in salaries of state health employes which jumped the budget request by $15,976.

However, the commissioners did approve a raise of $300 in the salary of Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant in the Health Department.

Also approved was a supplemental request by Dr. van Strien for a $700 dictaphone for use in the mental health clinics. Also approved was an additional $130 for the speech and hearing clinics.

In paring the budget to the minimum estimated by the state, the commissioners cut out a request for a director-supervisor of nurses at a salary of $5,500; a request for a clinical director at a salary of $10,000; and the dental department which was budgeted at $11,870 and which has not existed for over two years.

Retreat Costs $128,000

The commissioners than discussed the plan to abolish Sylvan Retreat, the only county-operated asylum in Maryland, which costs approximately $128,000 a year to operate. Matching state funds of approximately $58,000 help in the operation of the retreat.

Chairman John J. Rowan expressed the belief that the county could send the 87 patients at Sylvan Retreat to Springfield State Hospital at a cost of about $11,000, thus saving the county nearly $60,000.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he is "lukewarm to the idea" but would like to hear from the public.

Commissioner J. Tucker Mason, while expressing a desire to cut expenses wherever possible, did not commit himself entirely to the proposal.

Dr. van Strien, asked if he thought Sylvan Retreat was necessary, said he felt that it could be abolished if the county provided "holding rooms" for patients until they could be examined and sent to Springfield. He said he was merely quoting statements made previously by psychiatrists that the asylum could be abandoned.

Commenting on the contingency fund of $5,000 which brought the budget to the minimum requested by the Health Department, Commissioner Mason asked "Where is the money coming from?"

Commissioner Rowan then told Dr. van Strien that the contingency fund will be subject to a study of the budget and will be granted "provided we can see our way clear."

Fire Damages Pickup Truck

A pickup truck owned by Gilbert Moon, 903 Virginia Avenue, was badly damaged yesterday morning when a fuel line apparently broke and caught fire. East Side Fire Company, answering the alarm at 9:45 a.m., spent over an hour before extinguishing the blaze.

Firemen said both the truck and its contents were burned. The fire started in front of 222 Columbia Street.

Births

Sgt. and Mrs. Harold F. McCoy announce the birth of a daughter February 15 at St. Joseph's Hospital, Stockton, Calif. He is a son of Mrs. Susan I. Mallow, 519 Linden Street, and is stationed at Fort Buckner, Okinawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McNeill, Hagerstown, announce the birth of a daughter March 7 at Washington County Hospital. The mother is the former Miss Betty Courtney, daughter of Mrs. Willie Coutrney, Memorial Avenue. The father is a son of Mrs. Marie McNeill, Columbia Street.

Rev. and Mrs. Leon Barker, Douglas, Mich., announce the birth of a son February 28 in Douglas Community Hospital there. The mother is the former Miss Evelyn Raley of Cresap Park.

Public Health Nurse To Be Feted By Cresaptown PTA

MARGARET MORRISSEY

Allegany County's first public health nurse, Miss Margaret L. Morrissey of 803 Piedmont Avenue, who is still active after nearly 36 years of continuous service, will be honored tomorrow at 6:15 p.m. at a testimonial dinner by the Cresaptown Parent-Teachers Association.

She was appointed a public health nurse April 1, 1923, at which time Cumberland had two members on the nursing staff, the county was unorganized and there were no nurses working outside the city.

Miss Morrissey recalls that the old Model T Ford was the means of transportation to the more remote places in those days. She said the health nurse would accompany the health officer and would give instructions to a family which had typhoid fever, scarlet fever or diphtheria when the doctor quarantined the home.

From 1923 to 1925 public health activities consisted mostly of the control of communicable disease through quarantine and immunization, she added.

Simple Beginnings

According to the nurse, the first dental clinic in the county was conducted in the cloak room of a little red school house by Dr. Arthur P. Dixon, who volunteered his services. Later, a school dentist was appointed.

She recalls that the first hot lunch program in the county was started by Miss Margaret Blake, one of the teachers in rural sections. Children donated vegetables, and pennies contributed through school activities paid for the meat. Soup was made during the morning recess.

In 1924, she said, Dr. Maxon Knox of the Infant Hygiene Bureau of Baltimore, made up a

Health Dept. Moving Plan Submitted

At last night's meeting of the County Board of Health, Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, submitted tentative plans for moving the Health Department to the County Building on Union Street.

The plans call for the Health Department to occupy all the rooms in the county building with the exception of Juvenile Court and Trial Magistrates Court.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners, meeting as a board of health, were told that the Health Department is badly in need of additional space and that the city has requested that health clinics now set up in the basement of City Hall be moved.

Dr. van Strien's proposal would convert the present state's attorney's offices on the first floor into a medical care room, waiting room, secretary's office, supply room and an office for the county health officer.

The room used by the Health Department on the first floor would be converted into dressing rooms, waiting room, nurses' quarters, three examination rooms, blood test laboratory and a maternity clinic.

The entire second floor of the building, now occupied by several lawyers, the Boy Scouts of America, Alcoholics Anonymous, state vocational rehabilitation offices, and the Allegany-Garrett County Tuberculosis Association, would be turned over to the Health Department for laboratories, sanitarians' office, sanitary engineer's office, working rooms, hearing and speech clinics, clinic nurses' offices, waiting rooms, clinician, psychiatrist staff rooms and dental clinic rooms.

The county commissioners, expressing approval of the plan, said further study must be made before the Health Department can be moved. Several alternate plans also are under study, the commissioners said.

The commissioners then said that another change, under study by the board, is to move the juvenile detention quarters from the Allegany County Infirmary.

The commissioners said facilities for the juveniles are not adequate and that destruction is caused by delinquents held in custody.

Chairman John J. Rowan said Sheriff Paul Haberlain has submitted a proposal to the board to renovate the fourth floor of the Allegany County Jail for use as juvenile detention quarters.

He added that under the supervision of the sheriff and his deputies the juveniles would get better care and would not come into contact with other prisoners held in the county lockup.

Glass Workers Union To Hold Annual Election

Local 180, United Glass and Ceramics Workers, AFL-CIO, will hold its annual election of officers next week.

Ballots will be cast next Tuesday, March 17, from 3 to 4 p. m. and Wednesday, March 18, from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. in the training room of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7. The candidates include:

President — Charles Buskirk and Andrew Lewis.

Vice president—Robert O. Miller, John McMahon, Walter P. Dennison, Frank Parsons, Joseph Falconi and Hugh Cook.

Secretary — Harold Fansler, Frederick Knoblock and James Mills.

Financial secretary, Arthur Maness, unopposed.

Trustee (three years)—Ronald Twigg, James Wright and Hubert Feeney.

Inner guard—Reynold Ciccanti James White and Richard Hughes.

The election will be conducted by a committee headed by Robert Seymour. Other members of the committee are Arthur Bratt, William Edwards, George Evans, Clarense Von Baumann and Earl Portmess.

Officials reported that if a run-off election is needed it will be held the following Tuesday and Wednesday.

TV Association Elects Jenkins

Leroy "Bill" Jenkins was named president of the Peoples Community Television Association, Inc., during a reorganizational meeting held by the directors this week.

Delphin E. Treiber was named vice president; G. Bernard Miltenberger, treasurer, and Regis Brinker, secretary.

Audit, collection, technical, bylaws and publicity committees were named by the new president, who said the association has collected nearly $6,000 which is needed for the purchase of the first translator which will be installed on Irons Mountain.

The 10-watt translator is necessary for the broadcasting of UHF-TV. An immediate drive for funds on a house-to-house basis will be undertaken, the association reported.

Four public meetings are planned for 7:30 p. m. Friday, at Chapel Hill Hose House, Arch Street; Moose Home, Beall Street; the field house of North End Playground, Holland Street; and the City Hall auditorium.

At each meeting demonstrations on the use of converters will be shown and questions regarding the reception of UHF will be answered.

C Of C Legislative Unit Will Meet

The legislative committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will meet today at 4 p. m. in the Chamber offices with Harry I. Stegmaier, chairman, in charge.

Business will include a discussion on the Chamber's political action plan, pending unemployment compensation proposals in Maryland and federal legislation to provide industrial development funds for depressed areas.

House Of Delegates Passes Hospital Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The House of Delegates favored Tuesday speeding up the time when Miners Hospital becomes a full-fledged private institution.

Republican Dels. Reed and Kelley cast the only negative votes. Reed said they did so because the mayor and council of Cumberland had telegraphed for a hearing on the bill. (See page 17).

The Ways & Means Committee already has heard a plea from representatives of the hospital for more money. Instead it proposed to discontinue direct state appropriations to the hospital next year instead of 1961.

The state had planned to discontinue appropriations over a four-year period at the rate of 25 per cent less each year.

This year it is receiving $83,000 and $22,000 was scheduled for next.

The House committee figured the hospital would receive at least as much money next year by becoming eligible for other forms of state aid as a private institution as it would under the 25 per cent plan.

However, it is guaranteed at least $22,000 in the bill tentatively approved by the House. If the state aid fails to match it, a supplemental appropriation is provided for.

Movie Censor Bill Rejected By Delegates

Substitute Gets Tentative OK

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland House of Delegates rejected Tuesday state censorship of movies for children.

Instead, it tentatively approved a bill that would make exhibitors determine if some films would be objectionable to children and refuse to admit them.

The film censorship issue brought out the longest debate of the session, lasting about an hour and 15 minutes.

The delegates first voted 71-48 to put the responsibility for keeping minors from seeing obscene movies that would corrupt their morals up to the theater owners. If local enforcement authorities felt they were showing an improper film to children, the owner could be arrested and subject to a fine of $100 and imprisonment for 30 days.

The bill, when it is passed as expected, will go to the Senate, which also has the alternative state censorship proposal which the House buried by a 65-33 vote.

Tawes Signs Bill

While the delegates were engaged with movie censorship, Gov. Tawes was putting his hands on some extra money to spend.

He signed a bill reducing from 3 to 2 per cent the amount of gross sales taxes which vendors may keep for expenses in collecting the levy.

This will net the state $100,000 more than it anticipated this year and $500,000 next year. The $600,000 is part of the higher estimates of revenue given the governor Monday and which totaled an increase of $2,978,000.

Censorship in any form took a verbal beating in the debate over films.

"It is extremely repugnant to free people," declared Del. Whitmore (D-Anne Arundel). "A worse obscenity than dirty films is the surrender of liberty."

The Issues

"The issue narrows down to those who oppose censorship and others who feel that authoritarianism has a place in the conduct of affairs of people," said Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th).

"There is no more important issue than those dealing with our freedoms."

He ridiculed the idea of having a state censor ban films only for children. It would in effect be putting on films a label "obscenity for adults only," the delegates said.

"It is a frantic and desperate attempt to revive censorship under the guise of protection of our youth," he claimed.

Gallagher Opposes

The state censors now may disapprove films they consider objectionable and theaters can show them to no one. The Supreme Court has whittled away several grounds for banning films to only one, obscenity. Maryland censors, one of only four state boards left, last year banned no film and ordered deletions from 11.

Del. Gallagher (D-Balto 3rd) was the only opponent of the alternate bill to state censorship. He said leaving the decisions on the local level would "create confusion and militate against any kind of enforcement."

It would make every theater operator a censor and the courts boards of review. He claimed such a law would not work because police and judge would hesitate to call any film objectionable for children after the state censors had previously cleared it for viewing by everyone.

Man Dies In Park

A 48-year-old local man was found dead yesterday evening in Constitution Park about 50 yards from his parked car.

Robert C. Aman, 247 North Mechanic Street, died of natural causes, according to the deputy county medical examiner's office, which reported the man had suffered a heart attack while he was apparently "running" his dog in the park.

The dog was by the man's side when police arrived on the scene.

The victim, who was employed as a meat cutter at the A&P Market on Wineow Street, apparently had taken the dog for a run, and when he suffered the attack, sat down at a park table. His body was slumped on the ground near the table bench.

Police received a call at 8:02 p. m. from Robert C. Golden, park superintendent, who said that someone reported to him that a man was lying in the park.

Authorities think the man had been dead about two hours before being found. Officer Elmer Shank and Police Detective Kenneth Morrissey investigated.

The man's body was taken to the Kight Funeral Home. He was born April 10, 1910.

Magistrate Baron Is In Hospital

Trial Magistrate Morris Baron, 516 Washington Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital Monday night and is expected to undergo surgery this morning.

Substitute Magistrate Jack Mullen of Westernport is asuming his court duties.

Five-Year Vote Review Begins At City Hall

Registration officials at City Hall yesterday began checking the records of 11,754 voters to see if they voted during the past five years.

The names of those who did not cast a ballot since 1952 are being removed from the records.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said the check is not expected to affect very many voters.

Similar scrutiny has taken a heavy toll in recent years, as the books contained about 21,000 names when the city began its continuous registration system in 1951.

37,438 Eligible To Cast Votes In This County

Allegany County had 37,438 registered voters as of March 1, according to the monthly report of Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar and chief clerk of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

There was a slight decrease in the number of registered voters during February. The names of some 44 registered voters, who had died, were stricken from the books. Included were 27 Republicans and 17 Democrats.

Some 17 prospective new voters registered last month. Ten of them signed up as Democrats and seven as Republicans. In addition, four men who had been registered as Republicans switched to the Democratic banner. There also were nine transfers and three others were change of name or address only.

Registered voters as of March 1 included 21,165 Republicans, 10,700 men and 10,465 women; 16,003 Democrats, 8,306 Democrats and 7,697 women; 258 independents, 181 men and 77 women; 10 Socialists, six men and four women, and two members of other parties, one man and one woman.

Those who would like to register but are not now signed up were reminded yesterday that they may register at the Court House this month when they go there to purchase their new automobile license tags.

The election board office in the Court House basement is open from 9 a. m. until noon and 1 until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

Escapee Caught By City Police

John Joseph Moravia, 32, of Route 1, city, was captured yesterday morning by city police who said he had attempted to batter down the front door of a Frederick Street residence.

Police said Moravia had been sought since February 22 as an escapee from the Springfield State Hospital.

Ronald L. Sheally, 819 Frederick Street, reported that Moravia who is his brother-in-law had splintered several panels in the front door of his house in an attempt to break in about 4:30 a.m.

Police converged on the area and Moravia attempted to escape by running down an alley at Carver School. He was finally ringed in and captured on Bedford Street near First Christian Church.

Officer Philip H. Statler of the hospital staff took Moravia back to Springfield yesterday afternoon.

Commissioners Discuss George's Creek Survey

Edward Kidd, a representative of the Robert T. Regester consulting engineering firm of Baltimore, discussed the proposed George's Creek sewage survey at some length yesterday with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The way has been cleared for the county commissioners to enter into contract for such services, House Bill 204, which was signed into law last week by Governor J. Millard Tawes, enables the county commissioners to contract for professional services without advertising for competitive bids.

Last year, the county commissioners advertised for bids for the George's Creek sewage survey but all three interested companies ultimately refused to bid competitively.

When Commissioner William A. Wilson raised a question yesterday about competitive bidding he was informed that consulting engineers are not allowed to bid when price is held as the prime consideration. Mr. Wilson had pointed out that the Regester firm had lowered its estimate on the George's Creek survey from about $11,000 to about $8,000.

Last Friday, the county commissioners requested Green Associates Inc., also of Baltimore, to discuss this sewage survey and its approximate cost. Yesterday, Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, suggested that the Baker, Wibberley firm of Hagerstown should be requested to send its representative here for a discussion.

The commissioners yesterday also expressed a desire to meet with representatives of the County Teachers Association concerning Senate Bill 58, the supplemental teachers' pension bill. This measure has passed the Senate and now is before the House of Delegates.

2 D.C. Men Are Jailed In Auto Theft

Two Washington, D.C. brothers were sentenced to 30 days in Allegany County jail last night in default of $25.75 fines imposed by Trial Magistrate William E. Meagher of Cresaptown, who found them guilty of stealing a car from a local man early yesterday morning.

Seven minutes after the stolen car report went out yesterday, State Trooper Robert Kirby spotted the local man's car in Hancock and arrested the two men.

Anthony Riola, 22, was found guilty of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. His brother, Joseph Riola, 18, was found guilty of assisting in the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

The men were brought back to Cumberland by Trooper Richard Graham and taken before the magistrate last night. State Police said the car of James Kenneth Raines of 504 Decatur Street had been reported stolen from Baltimore Avenue about 1:10 a. m. yesterday. About half an hour later the two men were picked up.

Rummage Sale Today

The Parent-Teachers Association of Corriganville will hold a rummage sale today from 10 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. at the former Medical Arts Pharmacy room on North Liberty Street.

Flue Fire Checked

Firemen from South End yesterday evening extinguished a flue fire at 1105 Kentucky Avenue. No damage was reported in the fire, which occurred at 6:56 p. m.

Cheerleader's Death Cited In Two Suits

Two suits seeking a total of $15,000 damages as a result of the death last December 22 of a 16-year-old Valley High School cheerleader were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Both actions were filed by Charles Frederick Sloan, State Street, Lonaconing, as administrator of the estate of Donna Lee Sloan. They were filed for Mr. Sloan by Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport attorney.

Defendants are Harry Joseph Warnick, 20, of Lonaconing, who was driving the car in which Miss Sloan was a passenger; Harry Thomas Warnick, also of Lonaconing, father of the youth and owner of the car the boy was driving, and Richard James Hawkins, Paradise Street, Midland, who had backed his car onto State Route 36 at Knapps Meadow just before the accident occurred.

Mr. Sloan, as administrator of the estate of his 16-year-old daughter, sued for $10,000 for his daughter's pain and suffering, hospital, medical and funeral expenses. The $5,000 suit was filed in behalf of the father for loss of his daughter's services.

The declarations state that Harry Joseph Warnick was driving his father's 1953 model automobile north on State Route 36 at an excessive speed and the Sloan girl had requested him unsuccessfully to reduce his speed.

The declarations accuse Hawkins of backing onto the highway from an alley without coming to a full stop before reaching the intersection. Young Warnick swerved to avoid the Hawkins car, struck the dwelling of Alexander B. and Anna M. McAlpine, spun around, struck the right rear of Hawkins' car and overturned, the declarations say.

Schools Report Attendance Up

Normal attendance in public and parochial schools apparently soon will be standard.

Virtually all schools checked yesterday indicated that attendance there was better than on Monday. Apparently the peak for influenza, which has made many children ill, was reached over last weekend.

Absenteeism was greater among the elementary school children than in high schools.

PPG Office Workers Sign New Agreement

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union have signed a two-year agreement covering about 450 office workers in five of the company's seven glass plants.

A joint statement by union and management spokesmen from Cincinnati, Ohio, disclosed that the contract grants a six per cent increase the first year, plus $2 per month across the board. Plants at Cumberland and Mt. Vernon, Ohio, are not covered by the agreement. It does involve plants at Creighton and Ford City, Pa., Clarksburg, W. Va., Crystal City, Mo., and Henryetta, Okla.

Allegany County Young Democrats were represented at the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner and dance Saturday night at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore, as 562 party enthusiasts from all parts of the state held the annual observance. Shown here conversing with Gov. Millard Tawes, one of the guest speakers, are Mrs. Anne B. Everline, local secretary to Rep. John R. Foley; F. Barton, newly appointed trial magistrate at Cresaptown.

James Mason Discharge Is Sustained

Ruling Is Given In Miller Case

The dismissal of James J. Mason from the Cumberland Police Department was sustained last night by the Civil Service Commission, according to Francis A. Kenney, chairman.

The action was taken as the commission met in City Hall to review testimony in two appeal hearings.

The former city patrolman was discharged for "conduct unbecoming an officer," and is currently free under $500 bond pending action of the April grand jury on an assault charge.

He was discharged after his arrest on January 25 in Hancock, where he allegedly fled to avoid arrest for assaulting Miss Eleanor Williams during a disturbance on West Second Street that morning.

She was one of the witnesses at the hearing held by the Civil Service Board on March 4.

The second decision related to a complaint filed by Lester Miller, Hazen Road extended, who argued at a February 9 hearing that the Water Department hired another man for work he performed before his pipefitter's position was abolished last October.

The decision was generally that Mr. Miller was entitled to be reclassified as a maintenance man when others, who performed similar duties, were so designated.

It pointed out that the Water Department acted properly when it abolished the pipefitter's job, but that, since he had duties similar to other employes, he was entitled to be reclassified as a maintenance man.

Liquor Board Record Filed

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners' record in the successful effort of the Potomac Fruit Market to get its beer, wine and liquor license transferred from 65 North Centre Street to LaVale was filed yesterday in Circuit Court.

Last Friday, 11 remonstrants opposed to the license switch, through Attorney Earl E. Manges, filed an appeal in Circuit Court asking a review of the liquor board's decision. Mrs. Clifton Loar, Rev. W. W. Patterson, Dorothy V. Tucker, J. C. Lanning, Luther Smith, Geneva Dreyer, Lillian Smith, Mrs. Charles Kennard, John T. Coleman, Robert B. Young and William Dyche are the remonstrants.

They filed their appeal from the liquor board's decision of February 26 which approved the switch to LaVale by a two-to-one vote. Stanley Hamilton and Howard Vandegrift voted for the move and Edward J. Ryan dissented.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley signed an order in Circuit Court here last Friday giving the liquor board 15 days to turn over all of the pertinent records. Yesterday was only the fourth day since the order was signed.

House Passes Area Bills

Three Western Maryland bills have been passed by the House of Delegates this week.

House Bill 422, sponsored by the Allegany County Delegation, would include this county among counties which require an additional $2 fee for marriage licenses.

The legislation provides that the extra money be turned over to the county for general purposes. The present fee is $2 for residents and $3 for non-residents.

Also passed was House Bill 456, by the Allegany and Garrett delegations, to authorize the Allegany and Garrett Circuit courts to set a schedule of fees charged by the court stenographer.

House Bill 463 was also passed. It is sponsored by the Allegany Delegation to allow the re-recording of certain county records by photostating.
